Soviets Offer 'Compromise'

Latin American Turmoil Erupts

Nicaragua Troops Battle Rebels

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

Violence is again dotting the map of Latin America. And there are threats of more trouble to come.

Political unrest, economic troubles and local grievances lie behind the widespread disturbances.

In Nicaragua, government troops and planes are battling rebels flown in from neighboring Costa Rica. President Luis Somoza has promised that the "traitors and mercenaries" will be annihilated.

But in Costa Rica, Nicaraguan exiles assert fighting has broken out on several fronts within Nicaragua. Insurgent leader Dr. Enrique Lacayo Farfan predicts the Somoza regime will be overthrown.

Elsewhere in Central America, Guatemala recently has been alert against a threatened foreign invasion. The government has been fearful of an expeditionary force from Cuba which so far has not materialized.

In Honduras, the government has been waging a long battle against rebel bands in the interior and terrorist bombings in the capital.

In South America, the Argentine government said it has uncovered a Communist and Peronist plot to throw the country into chaos and anarchy. Heavy police reinforcements guarded Buenos Aires as the government claimed it had smashed a strike of bank workers but faced threats of new strikes by railroad and construction workers unions.

In Brazil, fresh strikes plagued the government. Sao Paulo industrial unions threatened a sympathy walkout with Santos dock workers who have been on strike 37 days. Crews of two government owned merchant marine lines went on strike in Rio De Janeiro.

In Sao Paulo Monday, troops had to brandish bayonets and hurl tear-gas bombs to break up a demonstration by railroad passengers protesting a fare boost.

In Paraguay, strongman Alfredo Stroessner clamped down martial law again after student demonstrations protesting increases in bus fares.

In Peru, the government Monday night arrested five leaders of the opposition Popular Action party to head off a demonstration in Arequipa protesting the arrest of party leader Fernando Belaunde. Protest demonstrations in Lima Saturday resulted in street battles between police and party members. Belaunde was arrested last week when he tried to defy a government ban against holding a political rally.

In Ecuador, Guayaquil High School and university students fought saber-swinging mounted police Tuesday. The students were protesting the death of two students killed in a mutiny at the Porto Viejo garrison last week. Draftees at the garrison gave arms to civilians who joined the recruits in an eight-hour gun battle against army regulars. Seven persons were killed in the fight.

In Colombia, bandit gangs swooped down on a bus traveling through the Tolima Province and killed 14 passengers. Eleven others were killed Sunday in isolated bandit raids in the province. Extremist opposition elements and Communist agitators have been blamed for the increasing banditry in the Tolima area.

Judge Orders Long Held In Tex. Hospital

Ill Both Mentally, Physically, Wife's Petition States

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A judge Tuesday ordered Louisiana's stormy Gov. Earl K. Long held in protective custody at a hospital.

He granted a petition by the governor's wife and Dr. Arthur Long, Baton Rouge, La., a physician and the governor's cousin. They told the court the governor "is exhausted, overworked and ill both mentally and physically" and that he required observation and treatment in a mental hospital for 90 days "for his own welfare and for the protection of himself and others."

Dr. Titus Harris, internationally known psychiatrist, said in papers filed with the petition that the governor is mentally ill and likely to cause injury to himself or to other persons.

Probate Judge Hugh Gibson ordered Long held in protective custody at John Sealy Hospital pending further orders of the court.

Formal Hearing To Follow

Under Texas law the judge's order will be in effect until a formal hearing is held to determine if Long is ill and should be committed to a hospital. Such a hearing must be held in 14 days.

Gov. Long may be present at the hearing. He can have his own attorneys and may ask for a hearing before a six-man jury.

Dr. Harris said the governor is being treated with sedatives, tranquilizing drugs, antibiotics and rest.

A midafternoon medical bulletin said Long "is suffering from an acute illness that well may be the outgrowth of some underlying physical condition that has brought about secondary changes in the central nervous system and that with adequate care and treatment the outlook for recovery is an excellent one."

Resisted Treatment

The 63-year-old governor was flown here Saturday for treatment. Unconfirmed reports at the Louisiana capital said the governor was under the influence of medicine when the plane took off and did not know his destination.

Once in the hospital, physicians reported, he rebelled at questioning by psychiatrists. Long is known for his spicy language.

The portly governor's trip here followed shouted, vitriolic tantrums on the floor of Louisiana's Legislature last week. His personal physician ordered him to bed. The flight to Galveston followed.

Mrs. Long apparently took action to prevent the governor from walking out of the hospital. Should he reach the Louisiana line, he would be, under Louisiana law, above any committal.

'Free' Berlin Alternatives Unacceptable

Proposes Russian Troops Join West In Allied Sector

GENEVA (AP)—Andrei Gromyko hurled another demand Tuesday that West Berlin be turned into a "free city." But he offered two alternatives: token Western troops could stay in the city provided Soviet troops joined them in West Berlin, or the Western forces in the Soviet-surrounded city could be replaced by limited numbers of neutral troops.

The Soviet foreign minister called his "move Soviet troops into West Berlin" plan a "compromise proposal" to end the East-West clash over the divided city.

He told the foreign ministers conference this "should be agreeable to all the parties concerned if there is a genuine desire for agreement."

No Easing Of Deadlock

But the Soviet diplomat in a 28-minute speech made crystal clear that the Kremlin is not budging an inch from its demand that the West give up war-won occupation rights in the former capital of the Reich.

Troops of the Big Four powers or of neutral states "should in no case" be considered occupiers of West Berlin and they could not "interfere in internal affairs" of the city, Gromyko said.

Gromyko, in a bitter three-hour session of the Big Four ministers in the Palace of Nations, went on record before the conference for the first time with alternatives to the original Soviet ultimatum for the Western powers to get out of West Berlin.

Plan Unacceptable

Western officials already had heard him privately advance his proposal to station Soviet forces alongside Western troops in the city and had declared it unacceptable.

U.S. Asst. Secretary of State Andrew Berding said of Gromyko's move: "The situation with regard to Berlin was not appreciable advanced by this afternoon's session."

In a quick rebuttal to Gromyko, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd bluntly informed the Russian: "We have the right to be in West Berlin—the right which came from the capitulation of the German government at the end of the war. Those rights can only be terminated after a peace treaty with a united Germany."

Administration May Ask Bond Interest Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower probably will ask Congress soon to authorize higher interest rates on government bonds, including the savings bonds in which millions of Americans invest.

One participant in top-level talks on government financing said Tuesday there may be a presidential message this week.

A message could also be expected to cover the administration's plan to ask for a new increase in the legal limit of the national debt.

The debt now stands at a record 286 billion dollars—three billion more than the permanent ceiling which will go into effect June 30 unless Congress acts.

The Senate Republican leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, reported Tuesday that Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson views the need for higher interest ceilings as urgent.

Congressional leaders of both parties met at the White House Monday night with Eisenhower and Anderson.

Dirksen said the discussion then included the question of possibly taking the ceiling entirely off the interest rates on government bonds.

Present law limits the interest on marketable government bonds —to 4¼ per cent. The popular series E savings bonds yield 3¼ per cent.

Congress is expected to go slow with any proposal to boost or remove the maximum rates. Such action could have a major impact on the whole economy by putting upward pressure on all long-term interest rates.

Higher rates would make it more costly for home buyers to borrow mortgage money and might discourage some people from purchasing new homes. Also affected would be corporate borrowers, school districts, municipalities and other loan-seekers.

Dirksen told a news conference the White House discussion mentioned the possible issuance of a new type of bond, called educational assurance bonds.

These would be intended to help parents lay by money for the children's college years. However, Dirksen had no information as to how long they would run, what denomination they would be or other details.

Propane Gas Truck Explodes On Busy Highway, Killing 11

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN, Pa. (AP)—Flames from an exploding propane gas truck blasted jet-like on a busy highway Tuesday killing 11 persons and injuring at least 15 others.

Ten of the victims were among some 30 spectators standing as far away as 300 feet watching firemen fight the flames much as a youngster views a fireworks display. The other fatality was a fireman.

State Trooper Earl Klinger described the terrific blast.

"The flames shot up the highway with the speed of a jet, carrying debris and parts of the truck, striking spectators and cutting them down like shrapnel would," he said.

Sgt. Melvin Clouser said that when the gas tank let loose the flames swept along the road like a ball of fire.

The tragedy occurred on heavily traveled Route 122, about 100 miles northwest of Philadelphia in the anthracite coal country. Several school bus loads of children narrowly missed being involved. Quick-thinking drivers moved the buses out of danger.

Police said that a tractor trailer, driven by Walter Williams 54, of Reading, Pa., rammed the rear of the halted gas truck, setting it afire.

Williams suffered shock. Joe Wharton, 48, Peckville, driver of the gas truck, was hospitalized with a possible fracture of the right leg and treated for shock.

It was half an hour after the crash, while firemen from nearby communities sought to quence the flames, that the explosion shook the area.

One fireman, Walter Schwenk, 32, said he was holding a nozzle about 100 feet from the truck when he heard the roar.

"I saw the truck cab pass me. The explosion blew the cab up the road about 500 feet past me."

The tank truck carried 7,000 gallons of liquefied propane used for heating and cooking in areas where there are no gas mains. It was owned by the Sungas Products Co. of Scranton. The tractor trailer, owned by the Branch Motor Express Co., Reading, carried about 10,000 pounds of cloth and piece goods.

Victims were bowled over. Some bodies were blown apart.

Ike Reported Betting Against Steel Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration, it was learned Tuesday, figures there is an excellent chance that a new steel industry labor contract can be negotiated without a July 1 strike.

A high administration source said pressures built up on both the industry and union by President Eisenhower's repeated appeals to their public responsibilities argue for a peaceful steel settlement.

That is why, he said, the federal government has no present intention of entering the steel talks in any way.

The administration's private appraisal of the situation, this source said, is that both sides have engaged in bickering and pyrotechnics and haven't so far buckled down to real bargaining.

But he predicted steel negotiators will start give-and-take talks soon in their New York sessions, with a good chance they will reach agreement ahead of the June 30 expiration of present basic steel contracts.

While betting against a strike, the administration was said to have these views about what would happen if a walkout does occur:

1. Any strike would be a long one, perhaps the longest in the history of steel industry dealings with the United Steelworkers Union. It could run two or three months or more.

2. The possibility is dim that Eisenhower would invoke the national emergency provision of the Taft-Hartley law.

This wouldn't be done, it was said, unless any steel strike continued for several months. Even then, the administration would be loath to take such action because it could only suspend a strike for a maximum 80-day period, after which a walkout could be resumed in the fall months. Negotiations never have been meaningful during such 80-day strike respites.

3. Thus, in event of a strike, the administration can be expected to concentrate mainly on public or behind-scenes moves to keep the disputants negotiating.

Space Monkey "Able" Expires During Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP)—Able, one of the little space pioneering monkeys, is dead.

Her death came Monday night during an operation for removal of part of a recording instrument used in her historic rocket journey.

The Army, announcing this Tuesday, said death was not due to any effects of her space flight. It said that during administration of an anaesthetic Able's heart muscles began quivering. Even what the Army called "heroic measures" failed to save her. She died at 10:45 p.m. at the Army Medical Research Laboratory at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Able, with her female companion monkey, Baker, rode a Jupiter missile 300 miles above the earth at 10,000 miles an hour on a 1,500-mile flight last Thursday. They were the first living creatures the United States has hurled to such heights and brought back alive.

Baker, the smaller of the two, a one-pound squirrel monkey, is at the School of Aviation Medicine at Pensacola, Fla., Naval Air Station, reportedly in good condition. The Navy said she still has electrodes under her skin but they won't be removed until some time later, after an autopsy on Able.

Able's body is being sent to the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology here for study.

At a news conference here, Col. Robert L. Hullinghorst, deputy chief of the Army Medical Research and Development Command, said a preliminary autopsy showed "absolutely no evidence of injury" from Able's adventure in space.

Findings so far, he said, indicate the anaesthetic caused the monkey's heart to "run away," an occurrence called "cardiac fibrillation." Hullinghorst described the anaesthetic as "one of the safest we know." He said it has been used on at least 700 monkeys and this was the first fatality.

Mahon Calls Big Defense Fund Vital

WASHINGTON (AP)—A warning of the possibility of a big atomic war opened House debate Tuesday on a $38,848,339,000 defense appropriation bill.

It came from Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex), chairman of an Appropriations subcommittee which for months has worked over the financial needs of the armed services for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

"A complete defense against a potential foe is practically unattainable," he said, quoting from the subcommittee's formal findings.

Mahon said the United States lags behind the Soviet Union in the intercontinental missile race, but expressed confidence the gap would be narrowed.

"But the greater lag, and perhaps the more significant lag," he added, "could be in the field of antisubmarine warfare." Mahon said enemy submarines which could lie off the coasts and lob missiles into big cities are the greatest threat facing the nation.

For that reason, Mahon said, the committee added 255 million dollars to funds requested for antisubmarine warfare and boosted allotments for developing antimissile missiles.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, top Republican on Mahon's committee, endorsed the committee's action as good legislation. Ford promised to defend it against Wednesday's amendments aimed at increasing the strength of the Army and the Marine Corps and further cutting funds for the Air Force Bomarc missile.

Free-Glide Flight Of X15 Due Thursday

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The X15 rocket ship may make its first free-glide flight Thursday morning with test pilot Scott Crossfield at the controls.

If the weather is good and the plane checks out in final tests, an eight-jet B52 bomber will drop the X15 from a height of 38,000 feet at 8 a.m. over nearby Rosamond Dry Lake.

Four or five minutes later, after a couple of S turns, Crossfield will touch down on the dry lake bed that serves as a runway for this desert test center 100 miles north of Los Angeles.

Rackets Probe Told Officials Aided Syndicate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The one-time head of a jukebox union testified Tuesday that an Indiana County prosecutor once threatened to put him in jail if he didn't stop opposing an invasion by Chicago mobsters.

John Testo, who said his independent union eventually went out of business, also told the Senate rackets probers he tried to get help from the Indiana governor's office, but that "nothing happened."

Testo, speaking with a heavy accent, said the threat was made in 1953 by Metro Holovachka, then prosecutor and now deputy prosecutor of Lake County, which adjoins Chicago.

The witness quoted Holovachka as telling him: "I'm gonna get something on you. I'm gonna put you in jail some day."

Testo also said bar owners in the Gary area told him police applied pressure on them to deal only with pinball machine firms run by mobsters of the Chicago syndicate.

Threats, presumably from syndicate thugs, caused his wife to have a nervous breakdown and ruined his health, Testo said, and he finally gave up his fight.

Testo was the leadoff witness in the rackets probers investigation of allegations that public officials in Lake County worked with Chicago gangsters in allowing vice to flourish.

Mrs. Margaret Hagler, a former restaurant owner, followed up with testimony that she eventually left Lake County because of continual trouble with the prosecutor's office and the syndicate.

The petite, auburn-haired witness said one man in the prosecutor's office threatened to get even with her, apparently for cooperating with the rackets probers.

"Most Wanted" Fugitive Seized

DENVER (UPI)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced Tuesday night that Richard Allen Hunt, 27, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals, has been arrested on a ranch near Thermopolis, Wyo.

Hunt has been a fugitive from Oregon since March 24, 1958. He is accused of kidnaping a police officer at Harrisburg, Ore., and taking him to Brownsville, Ore., where another policeman was shot and critically wounded attempting to capture Hunt.

Scott J. Werner, FBI agent in charge at Denver, said Hunt is wanted in several western states on charges of kidnaping, armed robbery and burglary. Werner said Hunt is charged with violation of the federal laws against interstate transportation of a stolen car, and unlawful flight across state lines.

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany (AP) — Elvis Presley became ill Tuesday night with tonsilitis. His father said he may have to be taken to a hospital.

Curb On Aid Waste Drafted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House drafters of a new foreign aid program fashioned a big stick Tuesday for the State Department to swing against any waste and corruption.

In several different ways they told the department, along with its subsidiary International Cooperation Administration, that they want economic aid emphasized and military aid held to cold war essentials.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee agreed on a foreign aid bill 266 million dollars under President Eisenhower's request.

It is to be introduced Wednesday and, unless plans go awry, voted on by the House toward the end of next week.

The major innovation in the bill is a new post of inspector general and comptroller to be part of the State Department itself—not of the semi-independent ICA which directly operates the aid program.

The inspector general-comptroller, with his staff, would have main responsibility for audits and financial controls on the program.

Rountree Nominated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Tuesday nominated William M. Rountree, now an assistant secretary of state, to be ambassador to Pakistan.

The President also sent to the Senate the nomination of career Diplomat G. Lewis Jones, now ambassador to Tunisia, to succeed Rountree as assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs.

Prince Will Be Married In Belgium, Not Vatican

BRUSSELS (AP)—The coming wedding of Prince Albert to an Italian princess was dramatically switched Tuesday from the Vatican to Belgium.

The government said Pope John XXIII himself had suggested the change. This brought demands from Socialists in Parliament that the government resign for clumsy handling of the wedding plans.

"This is the first time in the history of this country that a government, to justify itself, hides behind the decision of a foreign chief of state," declared Socialist Victor Larock. He was referring to the Pope.

Prince Albert, 24, brother of King Baudouin, is heir to the throne. The original plan was for him to marry Italian Princess Paola Ruffo di Calabria in St. Peter's with Pope John performing the ceremony. This split Belgium, with the Socialists demanding at least a civil ceremony in Albert's homeland.

Normally, under Belgian law, a civil wedding must precede a religious wedding. Weddings performed abroad and conforming to foreign laws are fully valid in Belgium, however.

King Baudouin returned Monday to a warm welcome from his people after a three-week visit to the United States. He found his royal court and Premier Gaston Eyskens' coalition Liberal-Social Democratic government in a tough spot.

As soon as Baudouin reached here, behind-the scenes talks on the controversial marriage plans began.

Finally the state radio announced that the civil and religious ceremonies will be held in Belgium.

Sax Rohmer, Creator Of 'Fu Manchu,' Dies

LONDON (UPI) — Sax Rohmer, author of the "Dr. Fu Manchu" thrillers died here Monday night of an illness that puzzled doctors. He was believed to be about 73 years old.

Rohmer, born Arthur Sarsfield Wade in Birmingham, England, never knew his exact age. His birth certificate never was found.

He died in University Hospital after being unconscious four days. Physicians said they were puzzled by his illness.

Rohmer was a best-selling author for nearly 50 years. He coined his pen name from the old Saxon language. Sax means sharp blade and Rohmer means a wanderer.

Ike To Address AMA

WASHIGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will address the American Medical Assn.'s annual meeting at Atlantic City, N. J., the evening of June 9.

Ike Will Not Withdraw Nomination Of Strauss

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower gave out official word Tuesday that he will not withdraw the nomination of Lewis L. Strauss to be secretary of commerce.

While new Senate debate broke out over whether Strauss is a fit man for the job, there were these other developments:

1. Rep. Steven B. Derounian (R-NY) raised the question of whether religious prejudice is working against Strauss, who is a Jew.

2. Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex) suggested that the Senate hold a new full-scale investigation of Strauss, based on testimony that has been kept secret.

3. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said he has still not made up his mind whether to vote for or against confirmation. Johnson could be the key man.

Eisenhower's stand was relayed to reporters by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, who had just seen the President.

Dirksen predicted that Strauss will be confirmed.

There are 64 Democrats in the Senate and 34 Republicans. Presidential nominees for Cabinet posts are almost never rejected.

Sen. Yarborough's proposal for a complete new investigation came in Senate debate. It was based on testimony the Commerce Committee received behind closed doors from Jarrell Garonzik, a Dallas, Tex., lawyer. The committee never disclosed what Garonzik said.

State Trooper Earl Klinger described the terrific blast.

"The flames shot up the highway with the speed of a jet, carrying debris and parts of the truck, striking spectators and cutting them down like shrapnel would," he said.

Sgt. Melvin Clouser said that when the gas tank let loose the flames swept along the road like a ball of fire.

The tragedy occurred on heavily traveled Route 122, about 100 miles northwest of Philadelphia in the anthracite coal country. Several school bus loads of children narrowly missed being involved. Quick-thinking drivers moved the buses out of danger.

Police said that a tractor trailer, driven by Walter Williams 54, of Reading, Pa., rammed the rear of the halted gas truck, setting it afire.

Williams suffered shock. Joe Wharton, 48, Peckville, driver of the gas truck, was hospitalized with a possible fracture of the right leg and treated for shock.

It was half an hour after the crash, while firemen from nearby communities sought to quence the flames, that the explosion shook the area.

One fireman, Walter Schwenk, 32, said he was holding a nozzle about 100 feet from the truck when he heard the roar.

"I saw the truck cab pass me. The explosion blew the cab up the road about 500 feet past me."

The tank truck carried 7,000 gallons of liquefied propane used for heating and cooking in areas where there are no gas mains. It was owned by the Sungas Products Co. of Scranton. The tractor trailer, owned by the Branch Motor Express Co., Reading, carried about 10,000 pounds of cloth and piece goods.

Victims were bowled over. Some bodies were blown apart.

Ike Reported Betting Against Steel Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration, it was learned Tuesday, figures there is an excellent chance that a new steel industry labor contract can be negotiated without a July 1 strike.

A high administration source said pressures built up on both the industry and union by President Eisenhower's repeated appeals to their public responsibilities argue for a peaceful steel settlement.

That is why, he said, the federal government has no present intention of entering the steel talks in any way.

The administration's private appraisal of the situation, this source said, is that both sides have engaged in bickering and pyrotechnics and haven't so far buckled down to real bargaining.

But he predicted steel negotiators will start give-and-take talks soon in their New York sessions, with a good chance they will reach agreement ahead of the June 30 expiration of present basic steel contracts.

While betting against a strike, the administration was said to have these views about what would happen if a walkout does occur:

1. Any strike would be a long one, perhaps the longest in the history of steel industry dealings with the United Steelworkers Union. It could run two or three months or more.

2. The possibility is dim that Eisenhower would invoke the national emergency provision of the Taft-Hartley law.

This wouldn't be done, it was said, unless any steel strike continued for several months. Even then, the administration would be loath to take such action because it could only suspend a strike for a maximum 80-day period, after which a walkout could be resumed in the fall months. Negotiations never have been meaningful during such 80-day strike respites.

3. Thus, in event of a strike, the administration can be expected to concentrate mainly on public or behind-scenes moves to keep the disputants negotiating.

Space Monkey "Able" Expires During Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP)—Able, one of the little space pioneering monkeys, is dead.

Her death came Monday night during an operation for removal of part of a recording instrument used in her historic rocket journey.

The Army, announcing this Tuesday, said death was not due to any effects of her space flight. It said that during administration of an anaesthetic Able's heart muscles began quivering. Even what the Army called "heroic measures" failed to save her. She died at 10:45 p.m. at the Army Medical Research Laboratory at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Able, with her female companion monkey, Baker, rode a Jupiter missile 300 miles above the earth at 10,000 miles an hour on a 1,500-mile flight last Thursday. They were the first living creatures the United States has hurled to such heights and brought back alive.

Baker, the smaller of the two, a one-pound squirrel monkey, is at the School of Aviation Medicine at Pensacola, Fla., Naval Air Station, reportedly in good condition. The Navy said she still has electrodes under her skin but they won't be removed until some time later, after an autopsy on Able.

Able's body is being sent to the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology here for study.

At a news conference here, Col. Robert L. Hullinghorst, deputy chief of the Army Medical Research and Development Command, said a preliminary autopsy showed "absolutely no evidence of injury" from Able's adventure in space.

Findings so far, he said, indicate the anaesthetic caused the monkey's heart to "run away," an occurrence called "cardiac fibrillation." Hullinghorst described the anaesthetic as "one of the safest we know." He said it has been used on at least 700 monkeys and this was the first fatality.

Mahon Calls Big Defense Fund Vital

WASHINGTON (AP)—A warning of the possibility of a big atomic war opened House debate Tuesday on a $38,848,339,000 defense appropriation bill.

It came from Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex), chairman of an Appropriations subcommittee which for months has worked over the financial needs of the armed services for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

"A complete defense against a potential foe is practically unattainable," he said, quoting from the subcommittee's formal findings.

Mahon said the United States lags behind the Soviet Union in the intercontinental missile race, but expressed confidence the gap would be narrowed.

"But the greater lag, and perhaps the more significant lag," he added, "could be in the field of antisubmarine warfare." Mahon said enemy submarines which could lie off the coasts and lob missiles into big cities are the greatest threat facing the nation.

For that reason, Mahon said, the committee added 255 million dollars to funds requested for antisubmarine warfare and boosted allotments for developing antimissile missiles.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, top Republican on Mahon's committee, endorsed the committee's action as good legislation. Ford promised to defend it against Wednesday's amendments aimed at increasing the strength of the Army and the Marine Corps and further cutting funds for the Air Force Bomarc missile.

Free-Glide Flight Of X15 Due Thursday

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The X15 rocket ship may make its first free-glide flight Thursday morning with test pilot Scott Crossfield at the controls.

If the weather is good and the plane checks out in final tests, an eight-jet B52 bomber will drop the X15 from a height of 38,000 feet at 8 a.m. over nearby Rosamond Dry Lake.

Four or five minutes later, after a couple of S turns, Crossfield will touch down on the dry lake bed that serves as a runway for this desert test center 100 miles north of Los Angeles.

Rackets Probe Told Officials Aided Syndicate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The one-time head of a jukebox union testified Tuesday that an Indiana County prosecutor once threatened to put him in jail if he didn't stop opposing an invasion by Chicago mobsters.

John Testo, who said his independent union eventually went out of business, also told the Senate rackets probers he tried to get help from the Indiana governor's office, but that "nothing happened."

Testo, speaking with a heavy accent, said the threat was made in 1953 by Metro Holovachka, then prosecutor and now deputy prosecutor of Lake County, which adjoins Chicago.

The witness quoted Holovachka as telling him: "I'm gonna get something on you. I'm gonna put you in jail some day."

Testo also said bar owners in the Gary area told him police applied pressure on them to deal only with pinball machine firms run by mobsters of the Chicago syndicate.

Threats, presumably from syndicate thugs, caused his wife to have a nervous breakdown and ruined his health, Testo said, and he finally gave up his fight.

Testo was the leadoff witness in the rackets probers investigation of allegations that public officials in Lake County worked with Chicago gangsters in allowing vice to flourish.

Mrs. Margaret Hagler, a former restaurant owner, followed up with testimony that she eventually left Lake County because of continual trouble with the prosecutor's office and the syndicate.

The petite, auburn-haired witness said one man in the prosecutor's office threatened to get even with her, apparently for cooperating with the rackets probers.

"Most Wanted" Fugitive Seized

DENVER (UPI)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced Tuesday night that Richard Allen Hunt, 27, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals, has been arrested on a ranch near Thermopolis, Wyo.

Hunt has been a fugitive from Oregon since March 24, 1958. He is accused of kidnaping a police officer at Harrisburg, Ore., and taking him to Brownsville, Ore., where another policeman was shot and critically wounded attempting to capture Hunt.

Scott J. Werner, FBI agent in charge at Denver, said Hunt is wanted in several western states on charges of kidnaping, armed robbery and burglary. Werner said Hunt is charged with violation of the federal laws against interstate transportation of a stolen car, and unlawful flight across state lines.

Curb On Aid Waste Drafted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House drafters of a new foreign aid program fashioned a big stick Tuesday for the State Department to swing against any waste and corruption.

In several different ways they told the department, along with its subsidiary International Cooperation Administration, that they want economic aid emphasized and military aid held to cold war essentials.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee agreed on a foreign aid bill 266 million dollars under President Eisenhower's request.

It is to be introduced Wednesday and, unless plans go awry, voted on by the House toward the end of next week.

The major innovation in the bill is a new post of inspector general and comptroller to be part of the State Department itself—not of the semi-independent ICA which directly operates the aid program.

The inspector general-comptroller, with his staff, would have main responsibility for audits and financial controls on the program.

Prince Will Be Married In Belgium, Not Vatican

BRUSSELS (AP)—The coming wedding of Prince Albert to an Italian princess was dramatically switched Tuesday from the Vatican to Belgium.

The government said Pope John XXIII himself had suggested the change. This brought demands from Socialists in Parliament that the government resign for clumsy handling of the wedding plans.

"This is the first time in the history of this country that a government, to justify itself, hides behind the decision of a foreign chief of state," declared Socialist Victor Larock. He was referring to the Pope.

Prince Albert, 24, brother of King Baudouin, is heir to the throne. The original plan was for him to marry Italian Princess Paola Ruffo di Calabria in St. Peter's with Pope John performing the ceremony. This split Belgium, with the Socialists demanding at least a civil ceremony in Albert's homeland.

Normally, under Belgian law, a civil wedding must precede a religious wedding. Weddings performed abroad and conforming to foreign laws are fully valid in Belgium, however.

King Baudouin returned Monday to a warm welcome from his people after a three-week visit to the United States. He found his royal court and Premier Gaston Eyskens' coalition Liberal-Social Democratic government in a tough spot.

As soon as Baudouin reached here, behind-the scenes talks on the controversial marriage plans began.

Finally the state radio announced that the civil and religious ceremonies will be held in Belgium.

Sax Rohmer, Creator Of 'Fu Manchu,' Dies

LONDON (UPI) — Sax Rohmer, author of the "Dr. Fu Manchu" thrillers died here Monday night of an illness that puzzled doctors. He was believed to be about 73 years old.

Rohmer, born Arthur Sarsfield Wade in Birmingham, England, never knew his exact age. His birth certificate never was found.

He died in University Hospital after being unconscious four days. Physicians said they were puzzled by his illness.

Rohmer was a best-selling author for nearly 50 years. He coined his pen name from the old Saxon language. Sax means sharp blade and Rohmer means a wanderer.

WASHIGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will address the American Medical Assn.'s annual meeting at Atlantic City, N. J., the evening of June 9.

Ike Will Not Withdraw Nomination Of Strauss

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower gave out official word Tuesday that he will not withdraw the nomination of Lewis L. Strauss to be secretary of commerce.

While new Senate debate broke out over whether Strauss is a fit man for the job, there were these other developments:

1. Rep. Steven B. Derounian (R-NY) raised the question of whether religious prejudice is working against Strauss, who is a Jew.

2. Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex) suggested that the Senate hold a new full-scale investigation of Strauss, based on testimony that has been kept secret.

3. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said he has still not made up his mind whether to vote for or against confirmation. Johnson could be the key man.

Eisenhower's stand was relayed to reporters by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, who had just seen the President.

Dirksen predicted that Strauss will be confirmed.

There are 64 Democrats in the Senate and 34 Republicans. Presidential nominees for Cabinet posts are almost never rejected.

Sen. Yarborough's proposal for a complete new investigation came in Senate debate. It was based on testimony the Commerce Committee received behind closed doors from Jarrell Garonzik, a Dallas, Tex., lawyer. The committee never disclosed what Garonzik said.

Rountree Nominated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Tuesday nominated William M. Rountree, now an assistant secretary of state, to be ambassador to Pakistan.

The President also sent to the Senate the nomination of career Diplomat G. Lewis Jones, now ambassador to Tunisia, to succeed Rountree as assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs.

Marine Admits Trying Holdup

QUEENSTOWN, Md. (AP) — State police said a young, 6-foot-5 Marine has signed a statement admitting an attempted holdup of a general store here Tuesday.

He was identified as William John Christopher Millnamow, a month or so short of 18 years old, of Brooklyn, N. Y. and a private first class stationed at Camp Lejeune, N. C. He reportedly was enroute back to Camp Lejeune after a home leave.

Joseph Ginsberg, operator of a general store at this small community just east of the Chesapeake Bay bridge, was in his house next door about 8:45 a.m. Abe Stein, 69, a relative from Baltimore over on a visit was watching the store for him.

A tall, young man walked in and asked to see some rope, Stein related to police. He walked over to a shelf and got the rope, and when he turned back the man was pointing a gun at him.

"I don't want the rope, I want your money," Stein said the gunman told him.

"You're not getting a thing here," Stein answered and threw the bundle of rope at him.

Stein ran for the back door. The gunman caught him, hit him on the head with the pistol butt and bolted out the front door to a car parked a short distance away.

Ginsberg heard the commotion and ran out to see the man fleeing into the car and gunning it away. A doctor patched up a cut on Stein's forehead.

A short time later, a car careening down a Queenstown street skidded or a sharp turn, hit a concrete wall and went into a ditch. The car's radiator was damaged. Two carpenters working on a house nearby helped him get the car back on the street, and the driver drove hurriedly away.

The workmen decided he acted suspiciously, so they telephoned state police with the car's description.

About 10:15 a. m., a state trooper arrested Millnamow at a service station about four miles from Queenstown, where he had stopped for temporary repairs on his car.

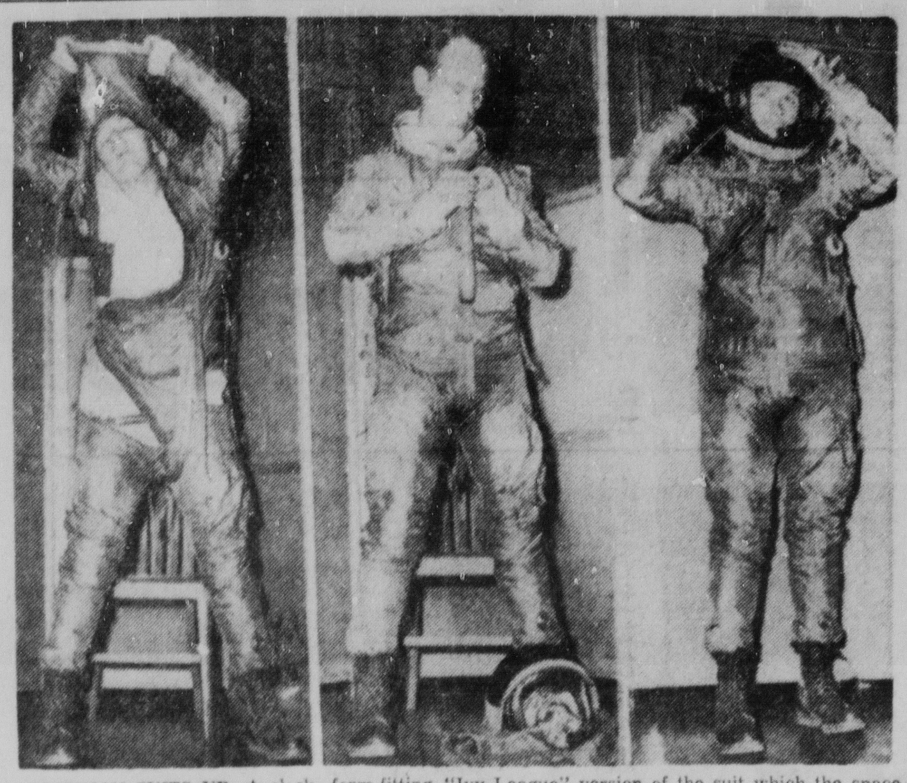

After questioning at the Queen Anne's County jail at Centreville, state police said he had made a statement admitting the attempted holdup.

Youth, 16, Gets Life For Slaying Parents

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—William Leslie Arnold, 16, received a life prison term Tuesday for the slaying of his parents last Sept. 27.

He pleaded guilty in District Court to two counts of second-degree murder after County Atty. John J. Hanley reduced the charges from first-degree murder.

Last October, young Arnold told police of the double shooting which followed an argument over his use of the family car several days earlier.

SPACEMAN SUITS UP—A sleek, form-fitting "Ivy League" version of the suit which the space pilot will wear when he blasts off for the moon is donned by Marion Myers, of Woodbury, N. Goodrich Company, zippering up and then, finally, donning the plastic helmet. (AP Photofax)

"Ivy League" Version Of Space Suit Unveiled

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— When the first American makes his moon landing it shouldn't be hard to tell where he came from.

He'll be wearing an Ivy League version of the space suit, as unlike the familiar, old-fashioned man-from-Mars getup as a sleek sports car differs from a surrey.

The latest in livery for adventurers way-out-yonder was modeled Tuesday by the Navy and the B. F. Goodrich Co., which have been working together on the project for more than seven years.

The suit—called the Mark IV—was unwrapped publicly at a special news confreence and demonstration at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. The Navy disclosed that the gear already is being used by jet fliers.

Mark IV is airtight, watertight, weighs only 20 pounds, is easy to get into, and looks rather like a conventional flying suit. The headpiece, or helmet, is plastic and has taken all the punishment the Navy could think of without serious damage.

It has a bellows-type neckband so the wearer may move his head freely. Earphones inside the headpiece can be moved up or down. A boom-type microphone is fixed to the frame sealing in the face. Lead wires for communication are molded into the oxygen delivery hose on the helmet. Exhaled air passes out of the headpiece through an exhaust valve into the body of the suit.

Navy officers said the suit was meant for use in modern aircraft, but they made no bones about their faith in the value of Mark IV in outer space. And J. W. Keener, president of Goodrich, said, "The man who lands on the moon will be wearing something very close to this suit." He gave it the Ivy League tag.

Three On Trial Admit Guilt In Abortion Case

CHESTERTOWN, Md. (AP)—A middle-aged waitress and two men changed their pleas Tuesday and admitted they conspired to violate abortion laws.

Earlier the woman, Mrs. Ruth Thrift, 52-year-old of Church Hill, had pleaded guilty through counsel to three charges of committing abortion illegally.

The prosecution says that the operations were performed on two Baltimore waitresses, one 19 years and the other 32.

The guilty pleas to conspiracy entered Tuesday concerned one of the women, who allegedly made one trip to this town for treatment. Three Circuit Court judges hearing the cases scheduled two conspiracy indictments involving the second woman for trial Wednesday morning.

Those accused along with Mrs. Thrift are Stephen S. Hickman, 39, Baltimore truck driver who allegedly procured the women operated on, and Albert C. Young, 32-year-old Chestertown painting contractor.

Young's office on the public square is the place where the abortions took place, according to the prosecution.

The three judges hearing the case are Chief Judge J. DeWeese Carter, Judge Thomas J. Keating and Judge Edward D. E. Rollins.

The change of pleas came midway through the second day of the trial Tuesday. Mrs. Thrift's attorney, A. Parks Rasin Jr., had failed in two motions to exclude evidence picked up by State Police, Chestertown police and the Kent County sheriff's office.

Car, School Bus Crash Kills One

CAMP SPRINGS, Md. (AP) — One man was killed and about 50 children shaken up Tuesday when an auto and a Prince Georges County school bus collided near here on Maryland 5.

The man, pronounced dead on arrival at Washington's Casualty Hospital, was identified by Prince Georges County police as Leslie Earl Rose, 56, of Clinton, Md. Police said he was the only occupant of the car.

About 40 of the children were taken to Andrews, Md. Air Force Base Hospital for treatment of minor cuts and bruises. None was seriously injured. Eight others were taken to Casualty Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Raymond McMahon, bus driver, was treated for shock at the base hospital.

Police Cpl. George Whitlow said the bus and the car were traveling in opposite directions. The driver of the car, Whitlow said, attempted to pass another car and, when he saw the bus approaching, attempted to stop. His car swerved out of control, spun around, and was hit in the rear by the bus.

Clubwomen Drive On 'Merchants Of Filth' Urged

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Unscrupulous racketeers are doing a half-billion-dollar-a-year business mailing indecent literature and films to youth, U.S. clubwomen were told Tuesday.

"These merchants of filth will double the scope of their already extensive operations over the next four years unless parents and the decent-minded public join in a determined campaign to stamp out this illicit business," said Miss Chloe Gifford.

President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Miss Gifford, of Lexington, Ky., and Washington, D.C., told 1,000 delegates at the opening of the federation's 68th annual convention: "It is shocking that an attack on these racketeers means an attack on a big, widespread, powerful business.

"But something must be done and now is the time. Because teen-agers and even grade-school youngsters are becoming the principal target of these racketeers.

"I am hopeful that every federated clubwoman in the United States will extend her efforts to see that these pornographic mailings are eliminated.

"One of the most dismaying facts in this whole picture is that youngsters need not have indicated any interest in this trash to receive it in the mail. The racketeers openly solicit every young person whose name they can obtain, whether through the purchase of mailing lists, study of school classbooks or through the use of fake business fronts.

"The Post Office Department estimates that between 700,000 and one million children in American homes will receive unsolicited, obscene, pornographic literature through the mails this year."

Young's office on the public square is the place where the abortions took place, according to the prosecution.

The three judges hearing the case are Chief Judge J. DeWeese Carter, Judge Thomas J. Keating and Judge Edward D. E. Rollins.

The change of pleas came midway through the second day of the trial Tuesday. Mrs. Thrift's attorney, A. Parks Rasin Jr., had failed in two motions to exclude evidence picked up by State Police, Chestertown police and the Kent County sheriff's office.

Car, School Bus Crash Kills One

CAMP SPRINGS, Md. (AP) — One man was killed and about 50 children shaken up Tuesday when an auto and a Prince Georges County school bus collided near here on Maryland 5.

The man, pronounced dead on arrival at Washington's Casualty Hospital, was identified by Prince Georges County police as Leslie Earl Rose, 56, of Clinton, Md. Police said he was the only occupant of the car.

About 40 of the children were taken to Andrews, Md. Air Force Base Hospital for treatment of minor cuts and bruises. None was seriously injured. Eight others were taken to Casualty Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Raymond McMahon, bus driver, was treated for shock at the base hospital.

Police Cpl. George Whitlow said the bus and the car were traveling in opposite directions. The driver of the car, Whitlow said, attempted to pass another car and, when he saw the bus approaching, attempted to stop. His car swerved out of control, spun around, and was hit in the rear by the bus.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name *Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Clubwomen Drive On 'Merchants Of Filth' Urged

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Unscrupulous racketeers are doing a half-billion-dollar-a-year business mailing indecent literature and films to youth, U.S. clubwomen were told Tuesday.

"These merchants of filth will double the scope of their already extensive operations over the next four years unless parents and the decent-minded public join in a determined campaign to stamp out this illicit business," said Miss Chloe Gifford.

President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Miss Gifford, of Lexington, Ky., and Washington, D.C., told 1,000 delegates at the opening of the federation's 68th annual convention: "It is shocking that an attack on these racketeers means an attack on a big, widespread, powerful business.

"But something must be done and now is the time. Because teen-agers and even grade-school youngsters are becoming the principal target of these racketeers.

"I am hopeful that every federated clubwoman in the United States will extend her efforts to see that these pornographic mailings are eliminated.

"One of the most dismaying facts in this whole picture is that youngsters need not have indicated any interest in this trash to receive it in the mail. The racketeers openly solicit every young person whose name they can obtain, whether through the purchase of mailing lists, study of school classbooks or through the use of fake business fronts.

"The Post Office Department estimates that between 700,000 and one million children in American homes will receive unsolicited, obscene, pornographic literature through the mails this year."

Prisons Chief Raps Patuxent Administration

BALTIMORE (AP) — The chief of Maryland prisons says the Patuxent Institution for defective delinquents is suffering from a breakdown of discipline.

State Supt. of Prisons James W. Curran, in a confidential report to Gov. Tawes Tuesday, also said the only way discipline can be restored is by appointing immediately an associate director of Patuxent in charge of custody and administration.

Patuxent's former custodial official resigned 13 months ago and the job has been vacant since.

Criticism of Patuxent began a couple of months ago after 34 prisoners seized keys from their guards and unlocked their way to freedom in a mass escape — Maryland's largest ever.

This brought a highly critical report from the State Budget Bureau. Gov. Tawes then asked for commentaries on the budget agency's views from Curran, Patuxent's advisory board and the chairman of the Board of Correction.

Curran's report will be waiting when the governor returns from Europe Thursday. The others haven't been filed.

Curran contends that he has submitted a list of possible candidates for the Patuxent vacancy twice but Director Harold M. Boslow failed to act both times.

There has been other criticism of the institution at Jessup, some from a judge. Boslow has said he is hampered by lack of space for the overcrowded population.

Citizen Arrests Robber Suspect

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — A Hagerstown man was commended Tuesday by Magistrate William J. Dwyer for service "above and beyond the normal duty" of citizens for arresting a robbery suspect at gunpoint.

Stanton R. Wilson, 37, who operates restaurants here and at Ocean City, was credited with arresting Clarence D. Smith, 36, of (514 N. Pulaski St.) Baltimore outside a service station. Smith was held in $3,000 bail by Dwyer on a charge of breaking and entering.

Wilson told police he was driving on U.S. 40 early Tuesday when he noticed someone in the station, with a car parked in the front.

Wilson said he got a .32 caliber pistol from the glove compartment of his car and walked toward the station. One man fled out a window, and Wilson fired four shots over his head. The man got away, however.

Wilson then went to the parked auto and found Smith hiding inside. Wilson said he ordered Smith out and marched him to a nearby snack bar where police were called.

Fire Hazards Found In Baltimore Schools

BALTIMORE (AP) — Only 28 of Baltimore's 312 public, private and parochial schools are free of fire hazards, City Building Inspector Raughley L. Porter said Tuesday.

He informed Director of Public Works George A. Carter he was "dissatisfied with progress" made in a campaign launched after the costly Chicago school fire of last Dec. 1 to rid schools of fire danger.

In April, Porter said correction of hazards began slowly but there were signs of a definite effort to make the buildings safe.

"I had anticipated a much better result since my last report," he informed Carter. "But when I saw the figures, I was disappointed again."

School officials have blamed budget problems and the difficulty of getting major repairs made immediately for the slowness of the corrections.

An investigation of both public and private schools had uncovered 1,194 electrical violations, while construction violations totaled 1,190. Many are minor, but others require much work and money.

Youth Appeals His Conviction

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Wilbur Scott Jr., 18-year-old Charles Town resident, asked the Supreme Court Tuesday for an order to release him from custody of the Jefferson County sheriff.

The youth's petition said he was being held in the county jail at Charles Town awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary to begin a 10-year term after conviction on a robbery charge.

Scott took exception to the jurisdiction exercised by the Circuit Court in his case, contending that he was under 18 at the time the alleged crime was committed and that he was not given the type of Juvenile Court hearing required by law.

Jobless Fund Levy To Go Up

BALTIMORE (AP) — The cost of unemployment for Maryland employers will go up next month.

The Department of Employment Security announced Tuesday that the tax paid into the jobless fund will be increased because of a sharp decline in the reserve for benefits during the first three months of this year.

State law requires that a safe ratio of money be kept in the trust fund. When it drops, the tax automatically goes up. This time the increase will amount to .3 of a per cent of each employer's taxable payroll — or the first $3,000 of every worker's annual pay check.

The amount of tax paid varies, based on employers experience ratings or their past record of job stability. They now pay from 1.4 per cent to 3.7 per cent of taxable payrolls.

Beginning July 1 through September 30, the tax will be from 1.7 per cent to 3.7 per cent.

The jobless pay load is now declining, and no further tax increase is anticipated for the last quarter of 1959, officials said. On last Jan. 1, the trust fund ottaled $76,374,523. It had dropped to $63,952,929 by April 1.

Man Found Dead On Hospital Steps

BALTIMORE (AP) — Clarence Cotton, 32, collapsed and died on the steps of University Hospital Tuesday while apparently seeking medical aid for a bleeding scalp wound.

His body was found by a hospital employe who tripped over Cotton on the steps.

Police said Cotton had shaved the hair around an inch-long scalp wound in an attempt at self-treatment but was unable to stop the bleeding. An autopsy will be performed.

Cleopatra slept under a mosquito net to protect herself from insect stings.

Eastern Shore Crops Need Rain

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Rain is sorely needed for croplands on the Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland, the Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

Strawberry yields have been cut and other fruits and vegetables have been affected in fields not being irrigated, the service said.

Crops and pastures west of the bay were making good progress with ample moisture supplies, the service found.

The service said bumper crops of peaches and apples are expected in both Maryland and Delaware.

AP Correspondent Recalls D-Day Scenes 15 Years Later

Editor's Note—War correspondents who landed in Normandy on D-Day were too busy covering the momentous news to write their own personal experiences — or think much about them. Now, with the 15th anniversary of the invasion approaching, an AP reporter looks back and vividly recalls the scenes of that historic day.

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Writer

Fifteen years ago, under the supreme command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the mightiest invasion armada in history was poised to strike across the English Channel for an assault on Hitler's vaunted Atlantic wall.

Military experts say it could probably never happen again.

With the advent of nuclear weapons, a single hydrogen bomb could obliterate an entire invasion fleet or destroy all life on a beachhead.

But if you were there on D-Day in Normandy, you'll never forget the scene.

The incredibly vast panorama of more than 4,000 invasion ships. The big battlewagons slamming salvos of steel at German coastal fortifications. The weird spectacle of tanks swimming in the surf like monster beetles. And Allied troops by the tens of thousands wading ashore in the teeth of enemy fire.

D-Day: June 6, 1944.

As an accredited AP war correspondent, I spent the last night before the invasion in a sealed-off camp near Portsmouth, England. In a letter home, I wrote: "I have the somewhat dubious distinction of being selected as the first (seaborne) correspondent ashore in the whole invasion setup."

I was ticketed to land with British commandos at H-Hour plus 45 minutes.

Barbed wire hemmed the encampment. Armed sentries paced at frequent intervals. Once inside, no man was allowed to leave.

About 3 o'clock the next afternoon we swung aboard army lorries and rolled slowly away to the Portsmouth docks in a long, winding caravan.

Along with 100 green - bereted commandos, my English conducting officer, Capt. Sir Charles Birkin, and I boarded a low-flying LCIS (landing craft, infantry, small) which looked like a dwarf among the big troop ships in the jam-packed harbor.

About dusk we got under way. It was a rough passage. The wind rose to 15 knots. Twice during the night, as I lay half asleep in the collapsible upper berth of a two-decker bunk, I was pitched violently to the floor when the bed frame slipped its latch.

About 5:30 a.m., Birkin wakened me. We went up on deck as dawn broke in a red-tinged haze over the sea. Munching on hardboiled eggs, all hands peered intently through the rising mist for a sight of enemy-held France.

Suddenly, in the classic phrase, all hell broke loose. As the landing craft moved shoreward, our naval barrage lifted and German shore batteries came viciously to life.

The water was now thickly pocked with shell geysers. On all sides, small landing craft were spewing flames and black smoke. Others, heavily laden with steel-helmeted troops, chugged steadily shoreward. The din of gunfire was appalling.

Suddenly there was a rush of hard boots across the deck. The blunt nose of the LCIs bumped sand, and the pack of beret-clad commandos scampered down the catwalk into the sea.

Belatedly, handicapped by a broken wrist encased in a steel-ribbed leather gauntlet, I hoisted my 65-pound rucksack on my shoulders, grabbed my waterproofed portable typewriter, and ran across the open deck.

I had barely started down the catwalk—a wobbly plank-like affair about eight inches wide, with a single wire handrail for support—when the LCIs started to pull out.

I shouted at the skipper to wait. It is a safe bet that seldom has an officer of the British Royal Navy been so fervently chewed out by an American news correspondent. If he heard me, his only answer was to gun his engines faster—and I was catapulted head first into the sea.

When I came up, sputtering but with typewriter still clutched in hand, I had to wade about 75 yards to reach shore. Even with my 6 feet 1 inch height, the water came nearly to my shoulders. Limp bodies, face down, bobbed idly in the waves.

A few yards away a British Tommy called cheerfully, "C'mon, Yank, we'll make it!" He gave a little sigh, and sank into the water.

It was the longest 75 yards I ever traveled. My water - soaked rucksack weighed a ton. Each step took an agony of exertion. I fell and knew I couldn't get up. Capt. Birkin saw me. He waded out and half dragged me ashore.

The beach was pandemonium. The Germans plastered us with 88s, machinegun bullets and mortars. Some British troops crouched behind a low sand ridge. Officers, waving pistols and swearing a blue streak, whipped them inland.

According to legend, you never hear the shell that hits you. Nor did I. Lying there, occasionally lifting my helmet from the sand to gulp fresh air, I felt the blast but heard no sound.

The man lying across my shoulders was dead. Two others were killed. One man, badly wounded, kept rubbing his hand across an ugly black hole in the side of his forehead and then staring at the wet blood on his fingers. Over and over, he moaned softly: "Mother, mother, I can't stand it."

The firing drifted off. I stood up, unhurt. My trenchcoat was soaked with blood.

We had landed on an open beach between Ouistreham and Lion, at the extreme eastern flank of the 60-mile invasion front, but in the distance I could make out a row of pretty white - stucco beach villas with red tile roofs.

I started toward them, but the firing broke out again and I dove into a bomb crater on the beach. When the racket stopped, I stripped the waterproof tape off my typewriter and began to write. A stiff wind rattled the copy paper, and wind-born sand grated in the keys.

Two Messerschmitts flashed overhead, shooting up the beach with machinegun and cannon fire. A plump British captain flopped into the crater beside me with an apologetic, "I say, old boy, it's a bit sticky, isn't it? Mind if I join you?"

About 2:30 p.m., having finally dispatched my story by naval courier, I went several miles inland to catch up with the front. With me went one-armed young Doon Campbell of Reuters, a smiling Scot who was to become my jeepmate all through France, Belgium and Holland into Germany.

It was quiet when we found British 3rd Division headquarters, staked out in an apple orchard about 400 yards from the Germans.

"Better dig," a man said.

And presently there was the odd spectacle of two one-handed men (Doon with his artificial arm, myself with a broken wrist) feverishly trying to dig foxholes in the flinty soil of Normandy.

In two hours, sweating in the hot June sun, we had dug only about 10 inches deep when the Germans counterattacked. Soon we wound up on the beach again.

At dusk, hidden nests of German snipers, who had lain doggo all day, began to shoot at anything that moved. Only a few Allied troops were left on the beach.

For three hours we crouched between a wrecked jeep and a crumbling old Norman wall, watching a scene of flaming drama. Snipers' bullets and machinegun tracers zipping in wild profusion. German Stukas dive bombing the ever-thickening armada of invasion craft. And low overhead, so low it seemed you could almost reach up and touch them, our own giant bombers swooshing by on the return flight to England.

Capt. Birkin, a droll, pencil-thin character, crept up after a time and beckoned.

"I've found a better spot, old boy," he said, and led the way into a courtyard stacked high with boxes of supplies.

It looked snug, but there was one drawback. Most of the beach houses were now on fire, and in the eerie light of the flames I made out the word stencilled on the boxes. The word was "ammo." We got out of there, fast.

About 10:30 p.m., we snagged a ride aboard an armored car. Our destination was the little village of Colleville near the Caen Canal.

Finally we halted at the gate of a dark-looming chateau, across the road from British 3rd Division headquarters. Nobody seemed to know, at that hour, whether the chateau had been searched for snipers. We decided not to risk getting our throats slit while sleeping there.

In the pale moonlight we stumbled through the chateau's rose gardens into an orchard where we discovered deep foxholes.

We didn't know, then, that the village was crawling with German suicide squad snipers—hiding in a nearby church steeple or strapped in tall bushy trees.

During the night, counter-attacking German tanks punched a salient to the sea, skirting Colleville and temporarily cutting us off from the main Allied invasion armies.

Bone tired, I couldn't have cared less. With steel helmet for pillow and blood-smeared trench coat for blanket, I slumped into a muddy foxhole. I never heard a sound until dazzling sunshine awoke me next morning.

In Germany, during the 19th century, princes of the blood had another boy reared with them who received the spankings that were due to the prince for some misbehavior.

AP Correspondent Recalls D-Day Scenes 15 Years Later

Editor's Note—War correspondents who landed in Normandy on D-Day were too busy covering the momentous news to write their own personal experiences — or think much about them. Now, with the 15th anniversary of the invasion approaching, an AP reporter looks back and vividly recalls the scenes of that historic day.

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Writer

Fifteen years ago, under the supreme command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the mightiest invasion armada in history was poised to strike across the English Channel for an assault on Hitler's vaunted Atlantic wall.

Military experts say it could probably never happen again.

With the advent of nuclear weapons, a single hydrogen bomb could obliterate an entire invasion fleet or destroy all life on a beachhead.

But if you were there on D-Day in Normandy, you'll never forget the scene.

The incredibly vast panorama of more than 4,000 invasion ships. The big battlewagons slamming salvos of steel at German coastal fortifications. The weird spectacle of tanks swimming in the surf like monster beetles. And Allied troops by the tens of thousands wading ashore in the teeth of enemy fire.

D-Day: June 6, 1944.

As an accredited AP war correspondent, I spent the last night before the invasion in a sealed-off camp near Portsmouth, England. In a letter home, I wrote: "I have the somewhat dubious distinction of being selected as the first (seaborne) correspondent ashore in the whole invasion setup."

I was ticketed to land with British commandos at H-Hour plus 45 minutes.

Barbed wire hemmed the encampment. Armed sentries paced at frequent intervals. Once inside, no man was allowed to leave.

About 3 o'clock the next afternoon we swung aboard army lorries and rolled slowly away to the Portsmouth docks in a long, winding caravan.

Along with 100 green - bereted commandos, my English conducting officer, Capt. Sir Charles Birkin, and I boarded a low-flying LCIS (landing craft, infantry, small) which looked like a dwarf among the big troop ships in the jam-packed harbor.

About dusk we got under way. It was a rough passage. The wind rose to 15 knots. Twice during the night, as I lay half asleep in the collapsible upper berth of a two-decker bunk, I was pitched violently to the floor when the bed frame slipped its latch.

About 5:30 a.m., Birkin wakened me. We went up on deck as dawn broke in a red-tinged haze over the sea. Munching on hardboiled eggs, all hands peered intently through the rising mist for a sight of enemy-held France.

Suddenly, in the classic phrase, all hell broke loose. As the landing craft moved shoreward, our naval barrage lifted and German shore batteries came viciously to life.

The water was now thickly pocked with shell geysers. On all sides, small landing craft were spewing flames and black smoke. Others, heavily laden with steel-helmeted troops, chugged steadily shoreward. The din of gunfire was appalling.

Suddenly there was a rush of hard boots across the deck. The blunt nose of the LCIs bumped sand, and the pack of beret-clad commandos scampered down the catwalk into the sea.

Belatedly, handicapped by a broken wrist encased in a steel-ribbed leather gauntlet, I hoisted my 65-pound rucksack on my shoulders, grabbed my waterproofed portable typewriter, and ran across the open deck.

I had barely started down the catwalk—a wobbly plank-like affair about eight inches wide, with a single wire handrail for support—when the LCIs started to pull out.

I shouted at the skipper to wait. It is a safe bet that seldom has an officer of the British Royal Navy been so fervently chewed out by an American news correspondent. If he heard me, his only answer was to gun his engines faster—and I was catapulted head first into the sea.

When I came up, sputtering but with typewriter still clutched in hand, I had to wade about 75 yards to reach shore. Even with my 6 feet 1 inch height, the water came nearly to my shoulders. Limp bodies, face down, bobbed idly in the waves.

A few yards away a British Tommy called cheerfully, "C'mon, Yank, we'll make it!" He gave a little sigh, and sank into the water.

It was the longest 75 yards I ever traveled. My water-soaked rucksack weighed a ton. Each step took an agony of exertion. I fell and knew I couldn't get up. Capt. Birkin saw me. He waded out and half dragged me ashore.

The beach was pandemonium. The Germans plastered us with 88s, machinegun bullets and mortars. Some British troops crouched behind a low sand ridge. Officers, waving pistols and swearing a blue streak, whipped them inland.

According to legend, you never hear the shell that hits you. Nor did I. Lying there, occasionally lifting my helmet from the sand to gulp fresh air, I felt the blast but heard no sound.

The man lying across my shoulders was dead. Two others were killed. One man, badly wounded, kept rubbing his hand across an ugly black hole in the side of his forehead and then staring at the wet blood on his fingers. Over and over, he moaned softly: "Mother, mother, I can't stand it."

The firing drifted off. I stood up, unhurt. My trenchcoat was soaked with blood.

We had landed on an open beach between Ouistreham and Lion, at the extreme eastern flank of the 60-mile invasion front, but in the distance I could make out a row of pretty white-stucco beach villas with red tile roofs.

I started toward them, but the firing broke out again and I dove into a bomb crater on the beach. When the racket stopped, I stripped the waterproof tape off my typewriter and began to write. A stiff wind rattled the copy paper, and wind-born sand grated in the keys.

Two Messerschmitts flashed overhead, shooting up the beach with machinegun and cannon fire. A plump British captain flopped into the crater beside me with an apologetic, "I say, old boy, it's a bit sticky, isn't it? Mind if I join you?"

About 2:30 p.m., having finally dispatched my story by naval courier, I went several miles inland to catch up with the front. With me went one-armed young Doon Campbell of Reuters, a smiling Scot who was to become my jeepmate all through France, Belgium and Holland into Germany.

It was quiet when we found British 3rd Division headquarters, staked out in an apple orchard about 400 yards from the Germans.

"Better dig," a man said.

And presently there was the odd spectacle of two one-handed men (Doon with his artificial arm, myself with a broken wrist) feverishly trying to dig foxholes in the flinty soil of Normandy.

In two hours, sweating in the hot June sun, we had dug only about 10 inches deep when the Germans counterattacked. Soon we wound up on the beach again.

At dusk, hidden nests of German snipers, who had lain doggo all day, began to shoot at anything that moved. Only a few Allied troops were left on the beach.

For three hours we crouched between a wrecked jeep and a crumbling old Norman wall, watching a scene of flaming drama. Snipers' bullets and machinegun tracers zipping in wild profusion. German Stukas dive bombing the ever-thickening armada of invasion craft. And low overhead, so low it seemed you could almost reach up and touch them, our own giant bombers swooshing by on the return flight to England.

Capt. Birkin, a droll, pencil-thin character, crept up after a time and beckoned.

"I've found a better spot, old boy," he said, and led the way into a courtyard stacked high with boxes of supplies.

It looked snug, but there was one drawback. Most of the beach houses were now on fire, and in the eerie light of the flames I made out the word stencilled on the boxes. The word was "ammo." We got out of there, fast.

About 10:30 p.m., we snagged a ride aboard an armored car. Our destination was the little village of Colleville near the Caen Canal.

Finally we halted at the gate of a dark-looming chateau, across the road from British 3rd Division headquarters. Nobody seemed to know, at that hour, whether the chateau had been searched for snipers. We decided not to risk getting our throats slit while sleeping there.

In the pale moonlight we stumbled through the chateau's rose gardens into an orchard where we discovered deep foxholes.

We didn't know, then, that the village was crawling with German suicide squad snipers—hiding in a nearby church steeple or strapped in tall bushy trees.

During the night, counter-attacking German tanks punched a salient to the sea, skirting Colleville and temporarily cutting us off from the main Allied invasion armies.

Bone tired, I couldn't have cared less. With steel helmet for pillow and blood-smeared trench coat for blanket, I slumped into a muddy foxhole. I never heard a sound until dazzling sunshine awoke me next morning.

In Germany, during the 19th century, princes of the blood had another boy reared with them who received the spankings that were due to the prince for some misbehavior.

West Winning Cold War Battle In Iran

EDITOR'S NOTE — Iran is a keystone of American foreign aid and a frequent target of Moscow jibes or threats. Six years ago William L. Ryan reported the news from that area at the time of Premier Mossadegh. Now he has returned for a survey and talked with many Iranians, high and low, lettered and unlettered. This is the first of four articles in which Ryan describes the situation in Iran and the future that U.S. aid may help bring to the ancient land.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — In this fabled land of the Persians the United States and the West are within reaching distance of a cold war victory.

There is an opportunity here to prove the value of a massive program of U.S. economic and military assistance. But there are big "ifs." The battle is not over.

The answers depend largely upon the Iranian government and Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi himself. The next few months may prove crucial for Iran, a test of nerves and of the Shah's willingness and ability to initiate and enforce significant reforms.

Nobody appreciates better than the Iranians themselves the key role their country plays in the world political conflict.

This land has seen tides of invasion through 2,500 years of history.

If Iran stands firm, Moscow is barred from direct access to the Middle East and south Asia. The Soviet Communists could gain a foothold only through force and direct aggression. To do that they would have to be prepared to risk world war.

If this country is shaken loose from the northern tier, however, little will stand in the way of communism's march of the Middle East.

There is an enormous difference between Iran today and the Iran of a half dozen years ago at the height of its violent nationalist troubles. With determined American help, this capital and country both have come a long way. The Communists, once the only cohesive, organized party in the country, seem dispersed if not beaten. Impressive economic changes have taken place.

This country of 20 million, a fifth the size of the United States, has a program which can make it rich and powerful in a decade. More important, the effects of far-flung programs are being observed and felt by the population.

Lack of this direct effect upon the people as a whole was one of the weaknesses of the Iraqi development scheme whose sponsoring regime fell before violent revolution last July.

There is no political liberty in Iran as it is known in the West. At this stage of its reawakening, Iran is far from ready for western-style parliamentary democracy. But the Shah apparently considers that ultimately his role should be that of true constitutional monarch, attempting to use persuasion to lead the country to political responsibility and stability.

Methodist Meet Opens Tomorrow

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — About 1,000 Methodist ministers and laymen are expected to attend the 175th Baltimore Annual Conference at Western Maryland College starting Wednesday.

The conference will begin with Holy Communion at 2 p. m. Wednesday for delegates representing 550 parishes and 186,000 Methodists in Maryland, the District of Columbia and eastern West Virginia. The final session Sunday will feature the reading of ministerial appointments for the year.

Bishop John Wesley Lord of Boston, Mass., will preside over the conference at the invitation of Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of the Washington area, who will not be present.

Bishop Lord will address the delegates at 7:30 p. m. Saturday and at 10:45 a. m. Sunday. The Sunday sermon will be broadcast on two radio stations and telecast on a closed circuit to the basement of Baker Memorial Chapel for the benefit of overflow crowds at the service.

Gov. Tawes will make an address at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

Of special interest this year will be the election of lay and clerical delegates to the General Conference in Denver next April and to the Jurisdictional Conference in Washington in June 1960.

Separated 56 Years, Brother, Sister Reunited

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — The divorce of their parents resulted in the separation of Ruth Carter, 5, and Rosa Carter, 11, in Elliott County, Ky.

That was 55 years ago.

Last week, at a home in Huntington's west end, they were reunited for the first time. They had learned each other's whereabouts only last year.

Rosa Carter Nease lives here. Her sister, Ruth Carter Brazeton, resides at Philo, Ill.

Fluorspar: It's Not A Gem But It's Beautiful

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—This isn't much of a farm community, but one crop continues to thrive here. Winter or summer, dry or damp, the news release grows lush and abundant.

For the author of the news release, also known as the handout, the idea is simple. He hopes to get the name of his client, or his product, or his government agency into print or on the air.

And so everlasting is this hope that the handouts — some simple little one-page announcements, some elaborate brochures on the finest paper—pour in by the mail truck load.

A few are helpful or even essential (the text of a presidential speech, for example). But most are discarded so rapidly the janitor makes a midmorning round to be sure the wastebaskets don't overflow.

Occasionally, and this is what public relations men dream of, one or two escape the wastebasket by being amusing or offbeat.

Which brings us to our text for today.

The handout from GeoSurveys began like this:

"It may be difficult for the fluorspar miner to see his future in dihydroperfluorovinylcyclobutenes, but there's no telling what the chemists will come up with."

Merciful polysyllables! What's going on here? and who can resist nibbling when tossed fancy bait like that?

Well, it turns out GeoSurveys is a mineral consulting firm, and the sentence was hacked out by a mineralogist, H. A. Meyerhoff.

"I found another word that was better," Meyerhoff said, aglow with the pride of authorship. "But it was four letters shorter, so I used this one."

Roughly translated, Meyerhoff's sentence means that unless chemists find new uses for their product, U.S. fluorspar miners may remain out of luck—and work.

If you, too, have only the vaguest notions about fluorspar, Meyerhoff is our man.

"It's a faint purple and transparent," Meyerhoff said. "It also can be green and, rarely, blue. I've also seen yellow fluorspar. A gem? No, it's too soft. But it's rather beautiful."

Five to six thousand persons mine fluorspar in southern Illinois and adjacent Kentucky, in Montana and the Southwest. It's valuable in the making of aluminum, steel, hydrochloric acid, and, recently, in missile fuels.

"Makes 'em burn even faster and hotter," Meyerhoff said.

As long as the government bought fluorspar, and stashed it away for possible emergencies, everything was dandy. But when it quit buying the stuff, foreign fluorspar, which can be produced more cheaply, began moving in from Mexico, Spain and Italy.

Now nearly all domestic mines have closed except the captive mines, owned by aluminum and steel companies.

So the question before Congress is: Should the government resume support of fluorspar in an effort to reopen the mines?

20 Per Cent Increase In Food Prices Last 10 Years All Goes To 'Middlemen'

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The House Agriculture Committee reported Monday that retailers and other "middlemen" rang up all of a 20 per cent increase in consumer food prices over the past 10 years.

It said a study showed farmers not only did not share in the higher costs to consumers but actually suffered an 8 per cent drop in their returns during the 10-year period.

The committee said this skid in farm income helped offset a 44 per cent climb in middlemen's market and processing charges.

Housewives had only themselves to blame for part of the rise in food prices. The study showed a greater demand for pre-prepared, frozen and specially-packaged foods accounted for much of the increase in processing and marketing charges.

In addition, the middlemen ran into higher costs which they also passed along to consumers.

Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D-N.C.) said the committee study "illustrates graphically the deterioration of farm income during recent years while other areas of the nation's economy have experienced unprecedented purchasing power and general prosperity."

He said "it is incumbent upon our government to develop public policies which will enable farmers to participate equitably, along with industry, business and labor, in the rewards of the American free enterprise system."

The study said processors and marketing firms "have been successful in adding greatly increased charges to the farmers' products before they reach the consumers."

It said food was 20 per cent more expensive than 10 years ago "and all the increase in retail prices—and more — goes to the middlemen, none accrues to farmers."

Cooley added that "food continues to be cheaper in relation to the wages received by consumers than in any prior period of our history or in any other country in the world" despite the increase.

The study said the average city family spent $1,310 for food last year. Of this, $829 went for marketing and processing charges and $411 represented the farm value of U.S. food.

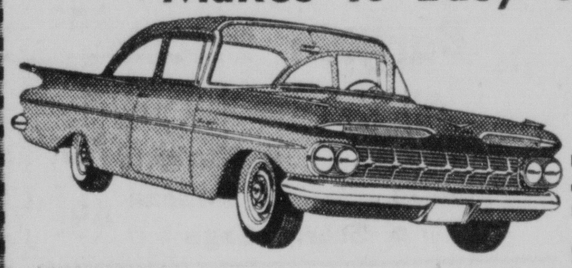

Purse Booby Traps

BERLIN (AP)—Police in East Berlin are seeking some practical jokers who have given the old lost purse gag a dangerous twist.

Twice in the past week East Berliners have found purses in the streets. Their smiles vanished when the purses exploded in their hands. They suffered eye injuries.

In a newspaper announcement, police warned residents the purses were stuffed with gunpowder and a fuse set to go off when the purses were opened.

West Winning Cold War Battle In Iran

EDITOR'S NOTE — Iran is a keystone of American foreign aid and a frequent target of Moscow jibes or threats. Six years ago William L. Ryan reported the news from that area at the time of Premier Mossadegh. Now he has returned for a survey and talked with many Iranians, high and low, lettered and unlettered. This is the first of four articles in which Ryan describes the situation in Iran and the future that U.S. aid may help bring to the ancient land.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — In this fabled land of the Persians the United States and the West are within reaching distance of a cold war victory.

There is an opportunity here to prove the value of a massive program of U.S. economic and military assistance. But there are big "ifs." The battle is not over.

The answers depend largely upon the Iranian government and Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi himself. The next few months may prove crucial for Iran, a test of nerves and of the Shah's willingness and ability to initiate and enforce significant reforms.

Nobody appreciates better than the Iranians themselves the key role their country plays in the world political conflict.

This land has seen tides of invasion through 2,500 years of history.

If Iran stands firm, Moscow is barred from direct access to the Middle East and south Asia. The Soviet Communists could gain a foothold only through force and direct aggression. To do that they would have to be prepared to risk world war.

If this country is shaken loose from the northern tier, however, little will stand in the way of communism's march of the Middle East.

There is an enormous difference between Iran today and the Iran of a half dozen years ago at the height of its violent nationalist troubles. With determined American help, this capital and country both have come a long way. The Communists, once the only cohesive, organized party in the country, seem dispersed if not beaten. Miss Eva Helmstetter Is Honored At Shower

Mrs. Harry Barton and Mrs. K. O. Nelson entertained Miss Eva Mae Helmstetter a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Nelson, McMullen Highway.

Miss Helmstetter is to become the bride of Louis Chiccehitto Jr., McCoole, at St. Ambrose Catholic Church, Cresaptown, Saturday at 11 a. m.

A pale blue and white color scheme was carried out in the bridal decorations. The gifts were concealed beneath a blue and white parasol. Games were played, and Miss Barbara Hall and Mrs. Jo Ann Dickenson won prizes.

A scrapbook depicting events in the life of the prospective bride from her childhood to her wedding day was presented to Miss Helmstetter as part of a "This is Your Life" skit.

A buffet lunch was served at a table decorated with spring flowers, tall tapers, and centered with a cake decorated with parasols. Mrs. John Barton presided at the punch bowl.

Other guests were Mrs. Ferman Helmstetter, Mrs. Louis Chiccehitto, Mrs. Thomas R. Smith, Mrs. Leroy Hershberger, Mrs. Thomas Barton, Mrs. Edward Walker, Mrs. Carlton Helmick, Mrs. Harmon Barton, Mrs. Lloyd Umstot Jr., and Mrs. William Petit.

St. Mary's Alumni Schedules Dance At K Of C Home

The Alumni Association of St. Mary's High School will hold an informal public dance on June 12 at the home of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

Joseph Hauser, alumni president, said the dance will be held from 10 p. m. until 1 a. m. and music will be provided by The Aristocrats.

The 19 members of the 1959 graduating class, who received their diplomas on Sunday, will be guests of honor. This year's graduating class was the final senior class of the high school which closed at the end of the school year.

Co-chairman with Mr. Hauser is Edgar Lee Hollen. Other members of the various dance committees are Mrs. Mary Jane Hollen, Mrs. Mae Dower, Mrs. Margaret Martin, Mrs. Betty Hull, Mrs. Rose Klosterman, Mrs. Colleen Ingram, Mrs. Mary E. Loar, Miss Betty Stegmaier, Miss Martha Rogan, Miss Shirley Green and Miss Margaret King.

The Friendship Bible Class of Park Place Methodist Church will hold a strawberry festival from 5 to 8 p. m. today at the church.

Jean Rowland Circle of Melvin Methodist Church will meet tonight at 7:30 in the social room of the church. Each member is to bring a potted plant.

Social Chart

The Jean Rowland Circle of Melvin Methodist Church, Reynolds and Marion streets, will hold a rummage sale in the church basement tomorrow, starting at 9 a. m.

Beth Jacob Synagogue Women's League will hold its final spring meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel at 6:30 p. m. today, following a dinner for members.

North End Club Hears Mrs. Cook

Mrs. J. S. Zimmerman presided at a recent meeting of the North Cumberland Homemakers Club, which met at Fairview Avenue Church.

After the flag salute, routine reports were given by Mrs. Charles Bauer and Mrs. John Marean. The hymn of the month, "Beneath the Cross of Jesus," was sung and during the roll call members gave their favorite accessory and told how it is used.

Mrs. James Orr, international relations chairman, told of her recent trip to Mexico and showed a display of scarves, sewing basket and other novelties.

She introduced Mrs. John Cook, guest speaker of the day, who is county international relations chairman.

The Rural Woman's Short Course was discussed by Mrs. Woodrow Grimes, chairman. Mrs. John House was named the club's delegate to RWSC. Mrs. May Alma Margherita is alternate. Pictures of last year's trip to College Park were shown by Mrs. John Snyder.

Mrs. Frank Young, 4-H representative, spoke on 4-H work and the club decided to give a cash donation for a girl to attend 4-H Camp.

Mrs. Margaret Brotemarkle spoke on the hooked rug class now in progress. Mrs. Madeline Fanelli and Mrs. Henry T. Pyles, nutrition chairmen, gave a demonstration on making a cake from recipes or prepared cake mixes.

Members having birthdays in May received pin cushions. They are Mrs. Mabel Watkins and Mrs. Charles Bauer.

Mrs. James Critchfield was a visitor as well as Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Snyder.

The club decided to exhibit seven-plait rugs at the Cumberland Fair this year.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frank Young and her committee. Mrs. Catherine Kilroy was named chairman of the June meeting.

Bible Lecture Set

LONACONING—A public Bible lecture, "Why Are There So Many Religions?" by Grant Furman, representative of Watch Tower Society, on Sunday, at 6:30 p. m. at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah Witnesses, Rockville.

Iota Epsilon Chapter Honored At Convention

Iota Epsilon Chapter, Cumberland, received two honors at the state convention of Tau Phi Lambda of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, held at the Waldo Hotel, Clarksburg, W. Va. recently. Mrs. Margaret Hartman, state second vice president, was elected delegate to the national convention to be held in Denver, Colo., early in August and the sorority received second place red ribbon award for its scrapbook. The state convention covers sororities in Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Clarksburg and Grafton chapters were hostesses.

Following registration, a business session was held with Mrs. Betty Daddisman, state president, presiding. Mrs. Jane Fredericks, Iota Epsilon chapter, state musician, played several selections at the piano, and was accompanist for all musical and ritualistic activities at the convention.

Mrs. Betty Carbona, president of Clarksburg chapter, gave the words of welcome. Greetings from distinguished guests included Mrs. Jauanita Lease, Cumberland, delegate to 1957 convention. Mrs. Faye K. Littman, national director and state manager for West Virginia and Maryland.

Following the response and roll call of state officers and delegates, the credential committee reported seven national officers, nine state officers, 26 delegates, nine distringuished guests and many members attending. Brief reports were given by each state officer on personal activities of chapters. Reports by chapter delegates included those by Miss Jacqua Day, president of Iota Epsilon, Cumberland; Mrs. Joan Stickley, Iota Pi chapter, Keyser; and Miss Mary Rotruck, Alpha Alpha Theta Chapter, Keyser.

Committee appointments included Miss Day, Iota Epsilon, to the nominating committee, and Mrs. Stickley and Mrs. Rotruck, Keyser chapters, to placard committee.

Mrs. Daddisman was toastmistress for the dinner held in the ballroom of the Waldo Hotel. Mrs. Eloise Dempsey, state chaplain, gave the invocation. Mrs. Frances Hartman, Iota Pi, Keyser, presented three vocal solos. Group singing was led by Mrs. Donna Canterbury, Huntington. Fred Anderson of Parkersburg was the speaker. A plantation theme was used in the decorations. A dance followed the dinner, with music by the Cavaliers and a specialty Chinese song and dance presented by the Fairmont chapter.

Activities at breakfast the second day included special musical selections by the Cumberland, Keyser chorus, "I Heard A Forest Praying" and "Just For Today." Members of the chorus are Miss Juanita Prine, Miss Patricia Phillips, Mrs. Betty Dean, Miss Jacqua Day, all of Iota Epsilon; Miss Mary Rotruck, Mrs. Loretta Keener and Mrs. Frances Hartman of Iota Pi, Keyser. Mrs. Jane Frederick was accompanist.

The nominating committee slate was voted upon and approved unanimously. The new officers are Mrs. Mary Alice Somerfield, Charleston, president; Mrs. Betty Carbona, Clarksburg, second vice president; Miss Mary Lewis, Salem, secretary-treasurer; Miss Elva Wiseman, New Jersey, chaplain; Mrs. Joan Stickley, Keyser, warden; Mrs. Sue Alieo, Parkersburg, advisor; Mrs. Martha Shannonberger, Grafton, musician.

Eight delegates were elected to attend the national convention in Denver, including Mrs. Margaret Hartman, Iota Epsilon, with Jacqua Day, alternate. Mrs. Hartman has held four offices in the local chapter: secretary, vice president, president, and is now serving as historian.

The scrapbook committee reported, with the local chapter receiving second place award of a red ribbon. Miss Patricia Phillips, scrapbook chairman, accepted the award. Each sorority compiles a scrapbook of all its activities between conventions. They were judged by the distinguished guests. The first place winner will be entered in the national convention.

Gifts were presented to visiting national officers by the convention and each chapter was permitted to honor some of its members. Cumberland chapter presented gifts of jewelry to Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Hartman and Mrs. Juanita Lease.

A ritualistic service explaining the pledge and initiation ceremony was given. Mrs. Hartman took part in the service and Mrs. Frederick was accompanist.

The new officers were installed by Miss Mary Coleman, chairman of the advisory committee; Mrs. Ailene Riley, warden; Mrs. Edith Jo Foley, chaplain, and Mrs. Frederick, musician.

Dance Away!

One of the nicest things about taking a distant vacation is the folk ways you learn or pick up to bring back home and show off to your friends. But you'd be surprised how many of them you can learn right at home! Many that are amusing, interesting and beneficial . . . and that certainly will break up the monotony of your regular routine.

For instance, in most of our big cities and thousands of our little ones, you can learn to do as fine a schottische and square dance as can be seen at the most deluxe dude ranch. And while you "put your little foot" you can dress up in the most enchanting of picturesque clothes! Get a group together for just such a party this week.

And here's a suggestion for you to follow this very evening. It's fun and it doesn't cost a dime.

Dig out your favorite Hawaiian record and learn to do these enchanted island hand dances. You will get closer to that native atmosphere than you ever thought you would because they're authentic as all get out!

The "Beach": Raise your arms to shoulder level in front of you keeping your elbows slightly bent. Arrange your hands so they are almost together, palms down and one a little higher than the other. Get that? Now tilt your palms to face right as you sweep your arms as far to the right as you can without straightening your elbows. Then, with a big circling motion turn your palms to face left and sweep your arms to the left side of your body. Continue in rhythm until the coordination of your movements is perfect.

The "Dunes": Place your left hand on your right shoulder. Extend your right arm at shoulder level in front of you. With plenty of wrist motion, describe a small semi-circle with the hand that is extended (as if you were dipping up water from a brook). As you make the circles, move your arm continually back and forth across your body five times and then reverse your hands!

Try them now! You'll get a half hour off from the things of which you're tired and gain grace besides!

Miss Eva Helmstetter Is Honored At Shower

Mrs. Harry Barton and Mrs. K. O. Nelson entertained Miss Eva Mae Helmstetter a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Nelson, McMullen Highway.

Miss Helmstetter is to become the bride of Louis Chiccehitto Jr., McCoole, at St. Ambrose Catholic Church, Cresaptown, Saturday at 11 a. m.

A pale blue and white color scheme was carried out in the bridal decorations. The gifts were concealed beneath a blue and white parasol. Games were played, and Miss Barbara Hall and Mrs. Jo Ann Dickenson won prizes.

A scrapbook depicting events in the life of the prospective bride from her childhood to her wedding day was presented to Miss Helmstetter as part of a "This is Your Life" skit.

A buffet lunch was served at a table decorated with spring flowers, tall tapers, and centered with a cake decorated with parasols. Mrs. John Barton presided at the punch bowl.

Other guests were Mrs. Ferman Helmstetter, Mrs. Louis Chiccehitto, Mrs. Thomas R. Smith, Mrs. Leroy Hershberger, Mrs. Thomas Barton, Mrs. Edward Walker, Mrs. Carlton Helmick, Mrs. Harmon Barton, Mrs. Lloyd Umstot Jr., and Mrs. William Petit.

St. Mary's Alumni Schedules Dance At K Of C Home

The Alumni Association of St. Mary's High School will hold an informal public dance on June 12 at the home of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

Joseph Hauser, alumni president, said the dance will be held from 10 p. m. until 1 a. m. and music will be provided by The Aristocrats.

The 19 members of the 1959 graduating class, who received their diplomas on Sunday, will be guests of honor. This year's graduating class was the final senior class of the high school which closed at the end of the school year.

Co-chairman with Mr. Hauser is Edgar Lee Hollen. Other members of the various dance committees are Mrs. Mary Jane Hollen, Mrs. Mae Dower, Mrs. Margaret Martin, Mrs. Betty Hull, Mrs. Rose Klosterman, Mrs. Colleen Ingram, Mrs. Mary E. Loar, Miss Betty Stegmaier, Miss Martha Rogan, Miss Shirley Green and Miss Margaret King.

The Friendship Bible Class of Park Place Methodist Church will hold a strawberry festival from 5 to 8 p. m. today at the church.

Jean Rowland Circle of Melvin Methodist Church will meet tonight at 7:30 in the social room of the church. Each member is to bring a potted plant.

Social Chart

The Jean Rowland Circle of Melvin Methodist Church, Reynolds and Marion streets, will hold a rummage sale in the church basement tomorrow, starting at 9 a. m.

Beth Jacob Synagogue Women's League will hold its final spring meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel at 6:30 p. m. today, following a dinner for members.

North End Club Hears Mrs. Cook

Mrs. J. S. Zimmerman presided at a recent meeting of the North Cumberland Homemakers Club, which met at Fairview Avenue Church.

After the flag salute, routine reports were given by Mrs. Charles Bauer and Mrs. John Marean. The hymn of the month, "Beneath the Cross of Jesus," was sung and during the roll call members gave their favorite accessory and told how it is used.

Mrs. James Orr, international relations chairman, told of her recent trip to Mexico and showed a display of scarves, sewing basket and other novelties.

She introduced Mrs. John Cook, guest speaker of the day, who is county international relations chairman.

The Rural Woman's Short Course was discussed by Mrs. Woodrow Grimes, chairman. Mrs. John House was named the club's delegate to RWSC. Mrs. May Alma Margherita is alternate. Pictures of last year's trip to College Park were shown by Mrs. John Snyder.

Mrs. Frank Young, 4-H representative, spoke on 4-H work and the club decided to give a cash donation for a girl to attend 4-H Camp.

Mrs. Margaret Brotemarkle spoke on the hooked rug class now in progress. Mrs. Madeline Fanelli and Mrs. Henry T. Pyles, nutrition chairmen, gave a demonstration on making a cake from recipes or prepared cake mixes.

Members having birthdays in May received pin cushions. They are Mrs. Mabel Watkins and Mrs. Charles Bauer.

Mrs. James Critchfield was a visitor as well as Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Snyder.

The club decided to exhibit seven-plait rugs at the Cumberland Fair this year.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frank Young and her committee. Mrs. Catherine Kilroy was named chairman of the June meeting.

Bible Lecture Set

LONACONING—A public Bible lecture, "Why Are There So Many Religions?" by Grant Furman, representative of Watch Tower Society, on Sunday, at 6:30 p. m. at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah Witnesses, Rockville.

Iota Epsilon Chapter Honored At Convention

Iota Epsilon Chapter, Cumberland, received two honors at the state convention of Tau Phi Lambda of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, held at the Waldo Hotel, Clarksburg, W. Va. recently. Mrs. Margaret Hartman, state second vice president, was elected delegate to the national convention to be held in Denver, Colo., early in August and the sorority received second place red ribbon award for its scrapbook. The state convention covers sororities in Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Clarksburg and Grafton chapters were hostesses.

Following registration, a business session was held with Mrs. Betty Daddisman, state president, presiding. Mrs. Jane Fredericks, Iota Epsilon chapter, state musician, played several selections at the piano, and was accompanist for all musical and ritualistic activities at the convention.

Mrs. Betty Carbona, president of Clarksburg chapter, gave the words of welcome. Greetings from distinguished guests included Mrs. Jauanita Lease, Cumberland, delegate to 1957 convention. Mrs. Faye K. Littman, national director and state manager for West Virginia and Maryland.

Following the response and roll call of state officers and delegates, the credential committee reported seven national officers, nine state officers, 26 delegates, nine distringuished guests and many members attending. Brief reports were given by each state officer on personal activities of chapters. Reports by chapter delegates included those by Miss Jacqua Day, president of Iota Epsilon, Cumberland; Mrs. Joan Stickley, Iota Pi chapter, Keyser; and Miss Mary Rotruck, Alpha Alpha Theta Chapter, Keyser.

Committee appointments included Miss Day, Iota Epsilon, to the nominating committee, and Mrs. Stickley and Mrs. Rotruck, Keyser chapters, to placard committee.

Mrs. Daddisman was toastmistress for the dinner held in the ballroom of the Waldo Hotel. Mrs. Eloise Dempsey, state chaplain, gave the invocation. Mrs. Frances Hartman, Iota Pi, Keyser, presented three vocal solos. Group singing was led by Mrs. Donna Canterbury, Huntington. Fred Anderson of Parkersburg was the speaker. A plantation theme was used in the decorations. A dance followed the dinner, with music by the Cavaliers and a specialty Chinese song and dance presented by the Fairmont chapter.

Activities at breakfast the second day included special musical selections by the Cumberland, Keyser chorus, "I Heard A Forest Praying" and "Just For Today." Members of the chorus are Miss Juanita Prine, Miss Patricia Phillips, Mrs. Betty Dean, Miss Jacqua Day, all of Iota Epsilon; Miss Mary Rotruck, Mrs. Loretta Keener and Mrs. Frances Hartman of Iota Pi, Keyser. Mrs. Jane Frederick was accompanist.

The nominating committee slate was voted upon and approved unanimously. The new officers are Mrs. Mary Alice Somerfield, Charleston, president; Mrs. Betty Carbona, Clarksburg, second vice president; Miss Mary Lewis, Salem, secretary-treasurer; Miss Elva Wiseman, New Jersey, chaplain; Mrs. Joan Stickley, Keyser, warden; Mrs. Sue Alieo, Parkersburg, advisor; Mrs. Martha Shannonberger, Grafton, musician.

Eight delegates were elected to attend the national convention in Denver, including Mrs. Margaret Hartman, Iota Epsilon, with Jacqua Day, alternate. Mrs. Hartman has held four offices in the local chapter: secretary, vice president, president, and is now serving as historian.

The scrapbook committee reported, with the local chapter receiving second place award of a red ribbon. Miss Patricia Phillips, scrapbook chairman, accepted the award. Each sorority compiles a scrapbook of all its activities between conventions. They were judged by the distinguished guests. The first place winner will be entered in the national convention.

Gifts were presented to visiting national officers by the convention and each chapter was permitted to honor some of its members. Cumberland chapter presented gifts of jewelry to Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Hartman and Mrs. Juanita Lease.

A ritualistic service explaining the pledge and initiation ceremony was given. Mrs. Hartman took part in the service and Mrs. Frederick was accompanist.

The new officers were installed by Miss Mary Coleman, chairman of the advisory committee; Mrs. Ailene Riley, warden; Mrs. Edith Jo Foley, chaplain, and Mrs. Frederick, musician.

A memorial service was conducted for deceased members and Mrs. Florence Jensen, national president of Woodmens Circle who died in January. All of the Cumberland members took part. They are Mrs. Hartman, Mrs. Dean, Mrs. Hazel Kemp, Mrs. Mary Alice Millholland. Miss Day, Miss Prine, Miss Phillips, Miss Marjorie Crist, Miss Shirley Stair, Mrs. Lease and Mrs. Frederick.

Charleston City Council To Help Mayor Keep Cool

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — City Council has started a campaign to keep Mayor John T. Copenhaver cool.

Councilmen voted Monday night to air condition the city car in which Copenhaver travels so he won't become overheated during his inspection trips of annexed areas this summer.

"We're very fond of the mayor and want to keep him with us," Councilman James Ireland said. "He will be very busy on streets this summer in the city's 19 miles of new territory. Out of feeling for his comfort and health, I propose that we secure an air conditioning unit for his car."

Arion Band Asked To Play At Barton

FROSTBURG—Arion Band will participate in the Firemen's Convention parade to be held in Barton Thursday evening.

A bus will leave the band hall at 6:30 p.m. and all members have been asked to be present in full uniform.

Some scientists estimate that the earth is about three billion years old.

Nursing Data Is Kept On IBM Cards

Health Unit Helps Initiate New Plan

The Allegany County Health Department is helping to initiate the IBM card reporting system in Maryland.

It was selected as one of three counties in Maryland to start the method, according to the current Health Department newsletter.

Data collected through the use of the Mark Sense IBM cards will provide the State Health Department with statistical information needed for:

1. Planning, promoting and evaluating services provided to individuals, schools, industries and communities by public health nurses in county health departments.

2. Reporting to appropriating bodies, state and federal agencies and the public.

3. Making special studies such as cost and service studies, and

4. Determining explicit expenditures for nursing.

Public health nurses here fill out coded IBM cards which are sent to Baltimore for processing.

Officials of the State Health Department have held a number of conferences with the nursing staff to initiate the new system.

S. Russ Minter To Plan Housing In Frostburg

FROSTBURG — William Sluss Jr., executive director of the Frostburg Housing Authority, has announced that S. Russ Minter, Cumberland architect, has been retained to draw up the plans for the local housing development.

Mrs. Josephine McMannus, East Main Street, has been appointed secretary to the executive director. At a recent meeting of the authority, the development program was officially adopted by the group.

Permanent offices have been taken in the Fidelity Bank Building, with office hours established from 1 to 5 p. m., Monday through Friday.

On Raft Crossing

BORDEAUX, France (UPI) — Frenchman Rene Lescombe was reported Tuesday to be making steady progress several hundred miles out at sea in his bid to cross the Atlantic alone on a raft.

A British freighter radioed that it had sighted the lonely navigator and his raft, the Black Pot, 300 miles off the North African coast Sunday. Lescombe set out from Bordeaux last month.

Ryan Elected Chairman Of County Liquor Board

Edward J. Ryan, local attorney and a Democrat yesterday was elected chairman of the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners.

The board members met at the Court House and organized. Ryan replaces Stanley O. Hamilton, who has been chairman for some years. Hamilton is a Republican. Howard Vandegrift, a Democrat, is a holdover member of the board.

The new minority member of the board is Melvin Sloan, of Lonaconing, a Republican, who replaces Hamilton. Sloan has served as a magistrate in Lonaconing and is prominent in GOP circles in the county.

Meanwhile, the Board of Election Supervisors has sent a letter to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners listing the salary for each of the members of the board of supervisors and personnel.

Matthew J. Mullaney, John J. Zapf, both Democrats, and Victor M. Hebb, a Republican, are the members of the board and their salary will be $1,080 per year.

Other board personnel are Julius E. Schindler, board attorney at $1,000 annually; John R. Kelly, chief clerk and registrar, $4,125 annually; Irvin J. Neat, registrar at $4,425; William P. Kelly, clerk at $1,320; Glenn W. Sonner, messenger at $880; Graydon S. Dunlap, voting machine custodian at $550 and Alvin Gentry, deputy custodian of voting machines at $550.

The two registrars are full-time employes of the board while the others officiate only on certain occasions pertaining to primary and general elections and also on meeting days.

MISSING — Barbara Jean Boyer (above), 14, of 501 North Centre Street, has been missing from her home since May 26. City Police, who are investigating, said today all known relatives in the area, including nearby West Virginia, have been checked, but have failed to turn up a lead. Police said the girl is five foot, three inches tall, weighs 110 pounds and has blonde hair and blue eyes.

Utility Employe Gets Promotion

W. Wayne Booth, 913 Michigan Avenue, chief commercial clerk in the Cumberland District office of C & A Gas Company, has been promoted to personnel supervisor of a sister company in New York.

Booth, 33, will be in charge of payroll and other personnel records of some 260 employes of Columbia Gas of New York, from the utility's headquarters in Binghampton. His wife and two daughters will move there later in the summer.

Booth joined C & A in Kingwood, W. Va., in 1947. During his 12-year career he has worked in Kingwood, Elkins, Parsons, Oakland and in Cumberland since 1956. He has worked on both the outside service force and in the office.

A native of Buckhannon, Booth was graduated from Philippi High School. He served in the Navy during World War 2.

Transfer Of Funds Ordered By Bank

The board of directors of Liberty Trust Company at its meeting yesterday authorized the transfer of $100,000 from the bank's undivided profits account to the surplus account.

The capital stock amounts to $700,000 and the surplus account will stand at $1,300,000, a total capital of $2,000,000.

The board also declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 40 cents a share on the bank's $10 par stock payable June 30 to stockholders of record June 16.

Beall Asked To Support More Surplus Food Items

After a lengthy discussion of the surplus food distribution program at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners it was unanimously voted to send a letter to U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall asking him to support legislation in the Senate which would provide additional types of foodstuffs.

At present there are only four foods on the surplus list, cornmeal, rice, dried milk and flour. Commissioner John J. Rowan said the cost of distributing these foods is costly and hardly merits the outlay considering their desirability.

John G. Thomas, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union, appeared before the board to state that he has been notified by John Edeleman, the national TWUA legislative representative in Washington, that U. S. Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota has plans to introduce a bill calling for more and better type foods for the needy of this country.

Since the program was started in the county last December two foodstuffs have been taken off the list. They are cheese and butter.

Several thousand families in the county have been receiving surplus food. These are persons of low incomes or persons on public welfare.

Replacement Of Roads Covered By Bond System

The question of utility firms and others who obtain permits to dig trenches or ditches on county roads came up before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

Rev. Bruce Price, pastor of Park Place Methodist Church, appeared before the board to complain about a condition created by failure of a plumbing firm to replace properly the soil in a ditch dug for new water lines.

The work was contracted by the LaVale Sanitary Commission for the Deal Avenue section and the plumbing firm did replace the hardsurface across the avenue, but the accumulated clay soil alongside the thoroughfare is washing onto his property and into ditches of streets in the neighborhood, according to Rev. Mr. Price.

The minister said that the avenue was placed in excellent condition some months ago by the County Roads Department but the work done in laying the new water lines has resulted in a bad dust condition in time of dry weather and muddy clay washing onto his carport and lawn.

Harry Skelly, roads supervisor, told the commissioners that all digging on county roads must be done by permit and bond posted for the replacement of the roadway to its former condition. The permit also provides for the roadway to be maintained in proper condition for one year. This takes care of cases in which the surfacing would sink in the one-year period, he pointed out.

The clerk to the board was instructed to write the LaVale Sanitary Commission to instruct it to have the permit conditions carried out. It is understood the plumbing firm posted $450 bond for the proper replacement of the roadway.

Ryan Elected Chairman Of County Liquor Board

Edward J. Ryan, local attorney and a Democrat yesterday was elected chairman of the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners.

The board members met at the Court House and organized. Ryan replaces Stanley O. Hamilton, who has been chairman for some years. Hamilton is a Republican. Howard Vandegrift, a Democrat, is a holdover member of the board.

The new minority member of the board is Melvin Sloan, of Lonaconing, a Republican, who replaces Hamilton. Sloan has served as a magistrate in Lonaconing and is prominent in GOP circles in the county.

Meanwhile, the Board of Election Supervisors has sent a letter to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners listing the salary for each of the members of the board of supervisors and personnel.

Matthew J. Mullaney, John J. Zapf, both Democrats, and Victor M. Hebb, a Republican, are the members of the board and their salary will be $1,080 per year.

Other board personnel are Julius E. Schindler, board attorney at $1,000 annually; John R. Kelly, chief clerk and registrar, $4,125 annually; Irvin J. Neat, registrar at $4,425; William P. Kelly, clerk at $1,320; Glenn W. Sonner, messenger at $880; Graydon S. Dunlap, voting machine custodian at $550 and Alvin Gentry, deputy custodian of voting machines at $550.

The two registrars are full-time employes of the board while the others officiate only on certain occasions pertaining to primary and general elections and also on meeting days.

MISSING — Barbara Jean Boyer (above), 14, of 501 North Centre Street, has been missing from her home since May 26. City Police, who are investigating, said today all known relatives in the area, including nearby West Virginia, have been checked, but have failed to turn up a lead. Police said the girl is five foot, three inches tall, weighs 110 pounds and has blonde hair and blue eyes.

Utility Employe Gets Promotion

W. Wayne Booth, 913 Michigan Avenue, chief commercial clerk in the Cumberland District office of C & A Gas Company, has been promoted to personnel supervisor of a sister company in New York.

Booth, 33, will be in charge of payroll and other personnel records of some 260 employes of Columbia Gas of New York, from the utility's headquarters in Binghampton. His wife and two daughters will move there later in the summer.

Booth joined C & A in Kingwood, W. Va., in 1947. During his 12-year career he has worked in Kingwood, Elkins, Parsons, Oakland and in Cumberland since 1956. He has worked on both the outside service force and in the office.

A native of Buckhannon, Booth was graduated from Philippi High School. He served in the Navy during World War 2.

Transfer Of Funds Ordered By Bank

The board of directors of Liberty Trust Company at its meeting yesterday authorized the transfer of $100,000 from the bank's undivided profits account to the surplus account.

The capital stock amounts to $700,000 and the surplus account will stand at $1,300,000, a total capital of $2,000,000.

The board also declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 40 cents a share on the bank's $10 par stock payable June 30 to stockholders of record June 16.

Beall Asked To Support More Surplus Food Items

After a lengthy discussion of the surplus food distribution program at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners it was unanimously voted to send a letter to U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall asking him to support legislation in the Senate which would provide additional types of foodstuffs.

At present there are only four foods on the surplus list, cornmeal, rice, dried milk and flour. Commissioner John J. Rowan said the cost of distributing these foods is costly and hardly merits the outlay considering their desirability.

John G. Thomas, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union, appeared before the board to state that he has been notified by John Edeleman, the national TWUA legislative representative in Washington, that U. S. Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota has plans to introduce a bill calling for more and better type foods for the needy of this country.

Since the program was started in the county last December two foodstuffs have been taken off the list. They are cheese and butter.

Several thousand families in the county have been receiving surplus food. These are persons of low incomes or persons on public welfare.

Tawes Names Four Members To State Board

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The governor's office Tuesday announced appointment of four new members of the Board of Natural Resources, Maryland's top conservation agency.

They are Myron L. Bloom, former Washington County delegate to the Legislature; David Hume, Washington attorney and farmer who resides near Bryantown in Charles County; Richard H. Collins Jr. of Chestertown; and Edward R. Grimes of Sykesville.

They join George W. Todd of Crisfield, Lester N.Towner of Baltimore and Charles S. Dell Sr. of Annapolis as appointive members of the board.

Ex - officio members are directors of the state's various conservation agencies. Under a new law the chairman of the board will be the director of the Department of Tidewater Fisheries.

It was previously headed by the chairman of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission when this job was combined with that of fisheries department director. The 1959 Legislature reorganized the TFC with a five-member commission and a fulltime department director.

At present Dr. H. C. Byrd is serving both as commission chairman and as acting department director until a professional director can be found. He presumably also will serve temporarily as chairman of the Board of Natural Resources.

Election Board And Personnel

These persons constitute the reorganized Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors and its supervisory personnel. Seated, left to right, are John J. Zapf, Oldtown; Matthew J. Mullaney, this city, new board chairman, and Victor M. Hebb, this city, the three board members. Mr. Zapf and Mr. Mullaney are Democrats and Mr. Hebb is a Republican. Standing, same order, are Mrs. Ursula Smith, clerk; John R. Kelly, chief clerk and Democratic registrar; Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar; Glenn W. Sonner, messenger, and William P. Kelly, clerk to the board. All of the personnel except Mr. Neat are Democrats.

Wilson Named To Study Group

William L. Wilson Jr., local attorney, has been named to a 12-member commission appointed by Governor J. Millard Tawes to study the problem of expansion at the University of Maryland.

The appointments were announced yesterday by Lloyd L. Simpkins, executive assistant acting for the governor, who is in Europe.

Court Probates Three Wills

Wills of three octogenarians who died in the past several months were probated yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

One was the last testament of Richard Olin Layman, the 87-year-old founder of Layman's Hardware Store in Frostburg, who died April 1. The will provided cash bequests to a son, Emory H. Layman; a niece, Reta Dando, Akron, Ohio, and a brother, Walter Layman, Baltimore.

Mr. Layman stipulated that his wife, Margaret R. Layman, was not included in the will because a separate agreement had been made with her. All of the rest of the estate was left to another son, G. Woodrow Layman, West Main Street, Frostburg, who qualified as executor under a $1,000 bond. The will was dated November 19, 1955.

Another will probated yesterday was that of Miss Florence Sloan, 83, of Lonaconing, who died in a fire May 6. Her brother, D. Lindley Sloan, and the Liberty Trust Company qualified as executors under a $2,000 bond.

Miss Sloan's estate was divided five ways under terms of her will, which was dated July 30, 1951. A one-quarter share was left to D. Lindley Sloan and his wife, Marion DeWitt Sloan; one-quarter to another brother, James M. Sloan Jr., now deceased; and one-quarter in trust for a nephew, Frederick Robertson Sloan Jr. Two nieces, Ella Sloan Yanquell and Julia DeKalb Kuehnemund, were left one-eighth shares each.

Also probated yesterday was the will of Mrs. Margaret L. Rusmisel, who was an 86-year-old resident of 224 National Highway, LaVale, when she died May 3. A codicil named Francis Theodore Bell, a son-in-law with whom she resided, as executor under a $1,000 bond. All of her estate was left to her daughter, Miriam Isabelle Rusmisel Bell. The will was dated October 31, 1949.

Father Receives Suspended Sentence

Kenneth Edward Gray, 332 Virginia Avenue, yesterday received a 30-day suspended sentence in Allegany County Jail after being found guilty of assaulting his 13-year-old daughter, Tonya Jean Gray.

Magistrate F. Allen Weatherholt warned the man not to appear in Trial Magistrates Court again for threatening or striking the girl and said the next time he would impose a stiffer penalty.

Court Probates Three Wills

Wills of three octogenarians who died in the past several months were probated yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

One was the last testament of Richard Olin Layman, the 87-year-old founder of Layman's Hardware Store in Frostburg, who died April 1. The will provided cash bequests to a son, Emory H. Layman; a niece, Reta Dando, Akron, Ohio, and a brother, Walter Layman, Baltimore.

Mr. Layman stipulated that his wife, Margaret R. Layman, was not included in the will because a separate agreement had been made with her. All of the rest of the estate was left to another son, G. Woodrow Layman, West Main Street, Frostburg, who qualified as executor under a $1,000 bond. The will was dated November 19, 1955.

Another will probated yesterday was that of Miss Florence Sloan, 83, of Lonaconing, who died in a fire May 6. Her brother, D. Lindley Sloan, and the Liberty Trust Company qualified as executors under a $2,000 bond.

Miss Sloan's estate was divided five ways under terms of her will, which was dated July 30, 1951. A one-quarter share was left to D. Lindley Sloan and his wife, Marion DeWitt Sloan; one-quarter to another brother, James M. Sloan Jr., now deceased; and one-quarter in trust for a nephew, Frederick Robertson Sloan Jr. Two nieces, Ella Sloan Yanquell and Julia DeKalb Kuehnemund, were left one-eighth shares each.

Also probated yesterday was the will of Mrs. Margaret L. Rusmisel, who was an 86-year-old resident of 224 National Highway, LaVale, when she died May 3. A codicil named Francis Theodore Bell, a son-in-law with whom she resided, as executor under a $1,000 bond. All of her estate was left to her daughter, Miriam Isabelle Rusmisel Bell. The will was dated October 31, 1949.

Father Receives Suspended Sentence

Kenneth Edward Gray, 332 Virginia Avenue, yesterday received a 30-day suspended sentence in Allegany County Jail after being found guilty of assaulting his 13-year-old daughter, Tonya Jean Gray.

Magistrate F. Allen Weatherholt warned the man not to appear in Trial Magistrates Court again for threatening or striking the girl and said the next time he would impose a stiffer penalty.

Graduation Day At 'The Springs'

Mixed metaphor or not, the Air Force Falcons will be strutting like peacocks today. The Air Academy at Colorado Springs is graduating its first cadet class, and the flight of 207 starch-winged fledglings from the gleaming nest at the base of the Rockies marks a sort of official coming of age for the youngest of the services.

Although long the dominant branch as measured by the defense budget, the Air Force has always felt keenly its lack of a distinctively-trained officer corps. The hot pilot of World War II, with his crushed cap and cocky manner, created many a legend of heroism. But he was often as not a half-taught kid, fresh off some college campus, getting by on raw guts and instinctive skill.

In recent years, of course, U. S. pilots have had elaborate and virtually continuous training. But the Air Force has had to depend on West Point to furnish the rounded career officers who would become its senior leaders. Eight of the 12 four-star generals in the Air Force, including Joint Chiefs Chairman Twining, Chief of Staff White and NATO Commander Norstad, are alumni of the Point. Junior officers have usually been supplied by the college ROTC courses and air cadet schools where the training is intensive but the theoretical foundations and military background are slight.

At the new Academy, however, cadets must submit to rigorous intellectual discipline which crowds a five-year curriculum into four years. Cadets take 48 credit hours of military airmanship—about a year-and-a-half at normal college pace. But they are also required to complete a full liberal arts schedule of 135 credit hours in the sciences, social sciences and humanities.

It will be a few years before the results of this kind of training begin to be felt in the Air Force, of course. Meanwhile the Academy itself has begun to make something of an academic splash. One of this year's graduates has earned a Rhodes scholarship (there are only 32 given in the country) and five others will be taking graduate work at leading Eastern universities. This and the Falcons' Cotton Bowl performance last January 1 should give West Point and Annapolis something to worry about.

The Third International

A major arm of Communist activity in the world has been and is the Third International. This is a union of all Communist Parties in every country on Earth, under the leadership and direction of Soviet Russia. During World War II, Soviet Russia announced the abolition of the Comintern (Third International). This was done to please President Roosevelt. The Third International, however, could not be abolished because Communist Parties require a mechanism for mutual activity and for communications.

Therefore, the Cominform was organized to take its place. This was said to be an international Communist information service, but actually, it was the same old Third International, an arm of the Kremlin extending into every country on Earth. From this body, Communist Parties all over the world get their line and their orders.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has issued a valuable and impressive study on this subject. This study is particularly important for those who fail to realize how vast and effective this international organization has been and what direct control it has had over the American Communist Party. This study establishes the history of the close relations between the Third International and the American Communist Party.

This relationship has never been broken. As recently as the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, a representative of the American Communist Party, James E. Jackson, delivered an address at the Congress in Moscow, and greetings were sent signed by Eugene Dennis, national secretary, and Robert Thompson, executive secretary.

The Third International remains an underground movement which works in about 70 countries. Among these is, of course, Cuba as well as the United States. It is short-sighted to disregard the Communist factor in the current Cuban revolution and to fail to recognize that every Communist is guided by the Third International. At the 21st Congress of the Communist Party U.S.S.R. the United States was represented by Morris Childs and James E. Jackson.

The Third International was organized in 1919 by Lenin to spread the gospel. The First International was organized by Karl Marx in 1864; it was then called the International Workingmen's Association. Its first headquarters were in London; it died in 1876 upon being moved to New York. The Second International, a group of non-Bolshevik and anti-Bolshevik Social Democrats, was organized in 1889 and fell apart during World War I. (The term Bolshevik, as used here, is non-technical as that element came into existence in 1903.) As an interesting footnote, I mention that Mussolini, when he was Socialist editor of "Avanti," was a creature of the Second International. Leon Trotzky attempted to organize an anti-Stalinist Fourth International and was killed for his pains.

These various Internationals have existed a long time and have exercised a great influence over European thought and politics. To ignore the Third International is to ignore reality. Its affiliated party in the United States is the Communist Party U.S.A., an organization with a continuous existence since about 1919. The international head of the Third International now is Otto V. Kuusinen, a Finn, who has been one of the most active members of the Communist Party of the world and who has been one of the principal managers of the Third International.

In the development of national Communist Parties, the Third International has been a guiding force, sending its agents to every part of the world, dictating the line to be followed in each country, selecting leaders by recognizing their authority and always serving Soviet Russia, supervising personnel to the extent that it ordered the American Communist Party to depose Benjamin Gitlow and Jay Lovestone and to accept William Z. Foster and Earl Browder instead. Recently, it ordered Earl Browder deposed from leadership.

The Third International functions today.

Khrushchev Is Using Albanian Bases To Influence Decision At Geneva

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The fraternal conclave of Communist leaders now being held in rough, isolated Albania is in my opinion, the most significant move made in the cold war of nerves for some time. It's probably as important as the threats on Berlin—though the two go hand-in-hand.

What it means is that Nikita Khrushchev is ready to parcel out his large store of intermediate range ballistics missiles to the satellite countries, including Red China, if we set up NATO missile bases in Western Europe.

Khrushchev is spending 12 days in Albania, which under most circumstances would be a very boring visit. I have walked or ridden horseback over much of northern Albania, also lived on the Montenegrin-Albanian border for almost two years. How a man as busy and restless as Khrushchev could keep occupied there for 12 days is hard to understand. This is real self-sacrifice. Albania is about the size of Delaware, has only three or four movie theatres, no golf courses, and Khrushchev could visit every corner of the country in a week.

Eisenhower spent one day and a half cementing relations with our most important southern neighbor at the luxury playground of Acapulco where there is plenty of fascinating diversion. Khrushchev is spending 12 days in a conuntry with few toilet facilities, very little electricity, where the only diversions are coffee, conversation, and trigger-happy tribal warfare.

Can Back Up Bluff

His reason may well be bluff. However, Khrushchev has the power to carry out his bluff. He has approximately 750 IRBM's able to fire 700 to 1,800 miles. In contrast we have about 48.

That means that the missile bases we are establishing in Italy and England can fire only about 20 missiles each. After that, they're out of ammunition.

In contrast, Khrushchev can take 750 IRBM's and parcel them out rather generously among Albania, East Germany, Bulgaria and China, so that each will have considerably more missiles than we can supply Italy and England.

This alarming possibility is one of the factors which prompted Jack Anderson's and my book, "USA — Second-Class Power?" It's also one reason why the present Army-Air Force row over missiles is so disturbing. We still don't know what type of missile we want to build.

Meanwhile, every single report in the Pentagon, without exception, shows that Russia is well ahead of us in missiles, and has the capacity to stay ahead. Secretary of Defense McElroy admitted this when he told the Senators that the United States had no plans for catching up with Russia in the race for intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Trigger-Happy Albanians

Albania is a natural fortress. Its high mountains protect it from its neighbors, Yugoslavia and Greece, on three sides. This is one reason its people still speak an original language, uncontaminated by either the Slavs or the Romans.

Albanians are of three religious faiths — Mohammedan, Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox—and in the old days were torn by bitter differences. There were also tribal differences. You could travel through some parts of Albania safely only by swearing blood brotherhood or "besa" with the local tribal chieftain. Then if anyone molested you, he killed them. And you had to do the same for him—if the occasion demanded.

I once picked up a wounded Albanian in a field where he had been plowing. He had been shot through the leg, arm, and ribs in a feudal gun duel. The American doctor to whom I drove him had to cut off his arm. He refused to take an anesthetic.

Is Khrushchev Bluffing?

American diplomats have believed that Khrushchev in the past has not been anxious to distribute Russian missiles among the satellites. Some of the satellites, among them the Albanians, are inclined to be trigger-happy. Other Russian partners, especially the Red Chinese, have been nudging Moscow for power, and missiles in their hands would increase their power. Moscow wants to remain supreme.

American intelligence also indicates that the Kremlin has been genuinely worried over what might happen if atomic weapons got into the hands of too many governments.

However, the Chinese defense minister, Marshal Peng Teh-Huai, is now in Albania conferring with Khrushchev. It has the earmarks of a bluff, but Khrushchev has the power to carry out his bluff if Gromyko doesn't get his way at Geneva.

Note—Missiles based in Albania would not be aimed at nearby Greece and Italy, which are too close, but at U. S. bases in Spain and North Africa. At Tripoli, North Africa, the U. S. Air Force has the biggest base in the world outside Dayton, Ohio. One missile could put it out of business.

Geneva Conference Conclusions Contradictory

By David Lawrence

GENEVA — Two contradictory conclusions can be reached as this correspondent leaves the scene of the four-power conference after three weeks of first-hand study and private talks with various officials of Western countries.

One is that the conference is a complete failure, and the other is that nothing is a failure which involves continuous talk rather than war between two adversaries.

Within a few days the Geneva sessions will end with a communique that will gloss over the true deadlock on fundamental issues. A minor agreement will be made to recognize formally the previous rights of the Western countries in their sector of Berlin. It will be hailed as an "interim solution." It will have one advantage—it will confirm the legal rights of the West and set them forth more clearly than was done in the fuzzily worded agreements after the end of World War II.

But basically what was the conference all about? Nikita Khrushchev issued an ultimatum last October demanding that the Western troops get out of their part of Berlin and then abandoned the demand temporarily when he got his way—a four-power conference and a promise of a "summit" meeting. Judged by what has been revealed here, even a "summit" meeting is foredoomed to failure, too, in the sense that no solution of Europe's over-all problem is likely to be agreed upon. When such a "summit" meeting—which would last just a week or so—is over, the same subjects will be turned over to another foreign ministers' conference to be discussed further. For already the West has found itself approving of protracted and prolonged negotiations that may extend over a period of years.

What is all this getting the people of the world? Is there any chance of a program of disarmament to relieve taxpayers of their big burdens? Is there a possibility of a ban on the further production of nuclear weapons, as the United States has advocated?

The answer is that, when it suits Mr. Khrushchev to make a concession that is in his own interest, he may give a crumb here and there in exchange for something he really wants.

But the over-all picture will not change as a result of mere negotiations. The reason is that Western pressure upon Khrushchev is not military and cannot be, and no other pressure from the outside is being exerted that seems likely as yet to affect him.

What then is the answer, and from whence will it come? This correspondent is convinced the answer will come from the peoples behind the Iron Curtain and particularly from the people in the Soviet Union itself. Khrushchev himself is trying desperately to get world prestige. The West is involuntarily helping him. He is not popular inside the Soviet Union or with the members of his own party. He is regarded as something of a clown by lots of his own people. To the outside world he is a man with immense power. But his power could crumble overnight if the 200,000,000 people inside the Soviet Union decided to ditch him.

Are there any outward signs of it. Revolutionaries don't advertise in advance their plans or their feelings. Prior to the outbreak against the Czar in 1917, there were no such signs either, but, when the revolt came, the Army and the secret police went over to the revolution instantly.

Inside the Soviet Union competent observers find that Communism as a doctrine is accepted as preferable to capitalism. That's not novel. Even inside the United States and Britain there are prominent politicians who are anti-capitalist and who favor socialistic policies in the economic field. But inside the Soviet Union criticism of Communism is growing. The argument is that it isn't achieving its professed ideals. The discussion is about ways to improve its operation. The question is whether the present regime can in the long run satisfy the present criticism, which is bound to increase because many of Khrushchev's policies and programs are inadequate even from the standpoint of Communist doctrine.

The West can continue to talk. It can watch the process inside the Soviet Union as an interested spectator and do nothing. But the West can hasten the day of revolution inside the Soviet Union by refusing to play up to Khrushchev or help him politically inside his own country. To go to a "summit" conference and let a lot of pictures be printed throughout the Communist world showing President Eisenhower fraternizing with the cruel and ruthless Khrushchev is to dishearten millions of liberty-loving people in the satellite countries as well as in the Soviet Union itself.

There are those in the West who think Khrushchev can be converted to reasonableness and decency. There were in the 1930s many who thought "you could do business with Hitler." There is only one possible advantage in talking to a dictator, and that's of limited scope. It is to use the occasion to publicize before the whole world the cause of freedom —not with the idea of penetrating the deaf ears of the dictator himself but to instill courage and hope in the hearts and minds of all the peoples behind the Iron Curtain who must some day exert their true power to attain their freedom.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

A behind-the-scenes battle between the administration and the Democratic majority in Congress could well result in no federal school-aid legislation this year, although both factions agree that such aid is needed.

Early this year, the administration proposed a school building program under which needy school districts would receive federal guarantees to pay half of the principal and interest on bonds they issued for new construction. Administration sources figured the program for five years with the government guaranteeing up to $600,000,000 worth of bonds each year.

The feature of the program was that the government's cash outlays would stretch out over a period of 20 to 30 years, instead of being paid currently in a lump sum.

Congressional Democrats gave the program scant attention and instead have gotten behind their own measure which would give each state $25 for each child of school age. This payment would be made annually for four years, the funds to be used either for school construction or to increase teachers' salaries. It would cost about $4,500,000,000 over the four years.

There is a third faction on Capitol Hill which opposes both bills. This group, joining with either of the other two has an effective voting majority. Thus, unless the two factions which favor some form of federal aid can get together, neither has the strength to put through its own proposal.

At present, there is no compromise in sight and most probably the classroom shortage throughout the nation will continue for years to come.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

June 6, 1944

The moon tossed a handful of sparkling coins across the town of Sainte-Mere-Eglise. The hour was past midnight, and there was excitement in the old town. The roof of a home was on fire and men rushed through the town square to assist the fire brigade. Even the mayor, M. Renaud, helped to pump water.

The flames fought the moonlight to a standstill and lit the church tower, where German machine gunners in coal scuttle helmets watched the fire below. A few minutes later, someone pulled the church bell rope and the town rang with the deep toll of doom. Men stopped fighting the blaze to look at the church.

Above it, in the soft June night sky, hundreds and hundreds of planes and gliders were silhouetted like black crosses. Behind them fell a blizzard of men, floating like giant snowflakes on the summer breeze. This was the start of D-Day, which occurred 15 years ago next Saturday. It is now part of a fine book called "D-Day," written by David Howarth, published by McGraw-Hill.

This was the opening move. The machine gunners began to fire, and, from outside the town, the big German anti-aircraft batteries started to stammer. The machine gunners couldn't miss. They picked off Americans floating in chute harness, and they caught others hanging in the trees and left them as loose as rag dolls. One man floated down through the burning roof. He never uttered a sound.

The chutists were part of a regiment of 2,200 men who dropped seven miles behind the beach called Utah on the Cherbourg Peninsula. Their job was to liberate Sainte-Mere-Eglise. The commander of the German unit was an old Austrian. In years gone by, he had been the music critic of a newspaper in Vienna.

A soldier standing under a tree nodded to a parachutist hanging dead in his harness. "Tommies," he said. "All kaput." He was wrong both ways. They weren't British Tommies; they were Americans. They were not kaput: the Germans were.

Mayor Renaud went back to his house and waited. At dawn, there was a knock on his door. He opened it slowly. An American captain stood looking at him. The American offered a piece of gum. The mayor declined, with thanks. The two men walked to German headquarters. The Nazis had fled. The swastika, which had flown for four years, was gone. An American flag, which had flown over Naples, was now snapping in the breeze.

Sainte-Mere-Eglise was the first town to be freed. At 2:30 a. m., long before any landings on the beaches, General Maxwell Taylor, divisional commander, bumped the ground and unhitched his harness four miles southeast of Sainte-Mere-Eglise. His artillery commander, General McAuliffe, was somewhere out there in the dark.

The generals, for a while, were on their own. There were 11,000 men in this area, and not one to be seen. General Taylor, for a time, was an ordinary doughfoot at the ready. When he saw his first American buck private, the general did something unsoldierly and human: he threw both arms around him.

Little by little, hour by hour, bits and chunks of the division found other bits and chunks. At dawn, the job was to strike toward the causeways to the sea, to join up with the scores of thousands of men now landing on Utah Beach.

The men looked in the long swale grass for little orange flags. These, as David Howarth explains, were flags of recognition. At 11 a. m. someone saw an orange flag, barely topping the reeds. The man was grabbed, and escorted to General Taylor.

The general grinned and stuck out his hand. The soldier saluted. "Captain George Mabry," he said. "Eighth Infantry Regiment, Fourth Division, U.S. Army."

It doesn't sound like very much now, 15 years later. But when the parachutists joined up with the forces fighting inland from the beach, the words of Captain Mabry sounded as though they had come fresh out of the Bible...

Hoarseness Could Mean Cancer Of The Larynx

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Hoarseness is a symptom rather than a disease. When it lasts longer than 10 days to three weeks, examination must be made to determine the cause. Infection and vocal strain are the most likely origins. But it is smart to play safe because cancer of the larynx always is an outside contender.

The vocal cords cannot be seen by the ordinary type of examination in which the patient says "ah" as the physician looks into the mouth. Most specialists utilize a head mirror or lamp to reflect light into the throat. A small round mirror is placed in the back of the patient's throat so the examiner can see around the bend at the base of the tongue.

The tongue is held forward to keep it out of the way. When the stage is set and the voice box is in view, the individual is asked to say "e." This letter has been chosen because it opens the throat, allowing the physician to see the vocal cords. It is painless and no anesthetic is needed.

A more detailed study can be made with the laryngoscope, if an abnormality is noted. This instrument consists of a tube with a handle and eyepiece at one end and a light at the other. It is possible to see the interior of the larynx when the device is inserted gently into the back of the throat.

Cancer of the larynx is easy to treat when detected early. At this stage, removal of the voice box (laryngectomy) is not necessary and speech is retained. Radium, for example, may be used to destroy the lesion without damaging the vocal cords.

Malignancies never stop growing and the longer the victim waits the larger the cancer becomes. In time it may be necessary to sacrifice the voice to save the life of the victim. This means removal of the larynx and the glands in the neck. Following recovery, the individual must learn to use one of the artificial devices so he can speak.

The latest is an electrostatic speaker attached to a dental prosthesis. It is a hearing aid in reverse. An ingenious operation may be suggested to reconstruct a second mechanism to help in talking.

TOMORROW: Childhood nephrosis.

BACKACHE IN OLDSTER

M. S. S. writes: Is it harmful to use an electric pad on a 79 year old woman's back? She has slight arthritis of the spine and heat seems to relieve it a little.

REPLY

No, but avoid burning. I assume X-rays have been taken and that you are certain of the diagnosis. Osteoporosis is another common cause of backache in oldsters and dramatic improvement often follows the use of certain hormones.

DOUBLE EPILEPSY

Mrs. M. writes: Can an epileptic have both the grand mal and petit mal types of seizures?

REPLY

Yes, and many do, especially children.

SALT AND HYPERTENSION

Mrs. M. writes: Why can't you have salt with high blood pressure?

REPLY

Because the sodium in salt aggravates the condition.

ASTHMATIC HEART

W. L. writes: Is an asthmatic heart serious?

REPLY

Yes, if you refer to the type of heart disease that occurs in an individual who has been bothered for years with asthma.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

The local gossip was waiting on the stoop when the traveling salesman came home from his winter trip. "While you were away," he cackled, "I saw a tall, dark man kissing your wife." The salesman asked, "Did he wear glasses and white shoes, and did he have a big mustache?" "That's the one," exulted the gossip.

"Forget it," advised the salesman. "That was our milkman. He'll kiss anybody."

George de Witt told a fellow thespian he kept seeing spots in front of his eyes. "Have you seen an oculist yet?" inquired his worried friend. "Not yet," admitted de Witt. "Just spots."

"I beg you," beseeched the junior miss' wear buyer to the beautiful new model, "whisper those three little words that will have me walking on air." The model obliged with, "Go hang yourself."

Americans smoked more than 434 billion cigarets last year, the Agriculture department estimates. No wonder some folk seem to always be running out of matches!

The island town of Norderney, West Germany, has just replaced its century-old horse-drawn street car with a spanking new bus. Guess the townfolk have finally decided the gas buggy is here to stay.

Somewhere in Brazil must be the world's bravest cat burglar. He stole two huge jaguars from a city zoo.

A British subject has been ordered to pay his ex-wife the equivalent of a cent a year in alimony. A penny for his — and her — thoughts!

Some of the emperors of ancient Rome insisted on having asbestos material woven into their burial robes — historical footnote. Must have figured in advance the trip would be a hot one.

Graduation Day At 'The Springs'

Mixed metaphor or not, the Air Force Falcons will be strutting like peacocks today. The Air Academy at Colorado Springs is graduating its first cadet class, and the flight of 207 starch-winged fledglings from the gleaming nest at the base of the Rockies marks a sort of official coming of age for the youngest of the services.

Although long the dominant branch as measured by the defense budget, the Air Force has always felt keenly its lack of a distinctively-trained officer corps. The hot pilot of World War II, with his crushed cap and cocky manner, created many a legend of heroism. But he was often as not a half-taught kid, fresh off some college campus, getting by on raw guts and instinctive skill.

In recent years, of course, U. S. pilots have had elaborate and virtually continuous training. But the Air Force has had to depend on West Point to furnish the rounded career officers who would become its senior leaders. Eight of the 12 four-star generals in the Air Force, including Joint Chiefs Chairman Twining, Chief of Staff White and NATO Commander Norstad, are alumni of the Point. Junior officers have usually been supplied by the college ROTC courses and air cadet schools where the training is intensive but the theoretical foundations and military background are slight.

At the new Academy, however, cadets must submit to rigorous intellectual discipline which crowds a five-year curriculum into four years. Cadets take 48 credit hours of military airmanship—about a year-and-a-half at normal college pace. But they are also required to complete a full liberal arts schedule of 135 credit hours in the sciences, social sciences and humanities.

It will be a few years before the results of this kind of training begin to be felt in the Air Force, of course. Meanwhile the Academy itself has begun to make something of an academic splash. One of this year's graduates has earned a Rhodes scholarship (there are only 32 given in the country) and five others will be taking graduate work at leading Eastern universities. This and the Falcons' Cotton Bowl performance last January 1 should give West Point and Annapolis something to worry about.

These Days

The Third International

A major arm of Communist activity in the world has been and is the Third International. This is a union of all Communist Parties in every country on Earth, under the leadership and direction of Soviet Russia. During World War II, Soviet Russia announced the abolition of the Comintern (Third International). This was done to please President Roosevelt. The Third International, however, could not be abolished because Communist Parties require a mechanism for mutual activity and for communications.

Therefore, the Cominform was organized to take its place. This was said to be an international Communist information service, but actually, it was the same old Third International, an arm of the Kremlin extending into every country on Earth. From this body, Communist Parties all over the world get their line and their orders.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has issued a valuable and impressive study on this subject. This study is particularly important for those who fail to realize how vast and effective this international organization has been and what direct control it has had over the American Communist Party. This study establishes the history of the close relations between the Third International and the American Communist Party.

This relationship has never been broken. As recently as the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, a representative of the American Communist Party, James E. Jackson, delivered an address at the Congress in Moscow, and greetings were sent signed by Eugene Dennis, national secretary, and Robert Thompson, executive secretary.

The Third International remains an underground movement which works in about 70 countries. Among these is, of course, Cuba as well as the United States. It is short-sighted to disregard the Communist factor in the current Cuban revolution and to fail to recognize that every Communist is guided by the Third International. At the 21st Congress of the Communist Party U.S.S.R. the United States was represented by Morris Childs and James E. Jackson.

The Third International was organized in 1919 by Lenin to spread the gospel. The First International was organized by Karl Marx in 1864; it was then called the International Workingmen's Association. Its first headquarters were in London; it died in 1876 upon being moved to New York. The Second International, a group of non-Bolshevik and anti-Bolshevik Social Democrats, was organized in 1889 and fell apart during World War I. (The term Bolshevik, as used here, is non-technical as that element came into existence in 1903.) As an interesting footnote, I mention that Mussolini, when he was Socialist editor of "Avanti," was a creature of the Second International. Leon Trotzky attempted to organize an anti-Stalinist Fourth International and was killed for his pains.

These various Internationals have existed a long time and have exercised a great influence over European thought and politics. To ignore the Third International is to ignore reality. Its affiliated party in the United States is the Communist Party U.S.A., an organization with a continuous existence since about 1919. The international head of the Third International now is Otto V. Kuusinen, a Finn, who has been one of the most active members of the Communist Party of the world and who has been one of the principal managers of the Third International.

In the development of national Communist Parties, the Third International has been a guiding force, sending its agents to every part of the world, dictating the line to be followed in each country, selecting leaders by recognizing their authority and always serving Soviet Russia, supervising personnel to the extent that it ordered the American Communist Party to depose Benjamin Gitlow and Jay Lovestone and to accept William Z. Foster and Earl Browder instead. Recently, it ordered Earl Browder deposed from leadership.

The Third International functions today.

Khrushchev Is Using Albanian Bases To Influence Decision At Geneva

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The fraternal conclave of Communist leaders now being held in rough, isolated Albania is in my opinion, the most significant move made in the cold war of nerves for some time. It's probably as important as the threats on Berlin—though the two go hand-in-hand.

What it means is that Nikita Khrushchev is ready to parcel out his large store of intermediate range ballistics missiles to the satellite countries, including Red China, if we set up NATO missile bases in Western Europe.

Khrushchev is spending 12 days in Albania, which under most circumstances would be a very boring visit. I have walked or ridden horseback over much of northern Albania, also lived on the Montenegrin-Albanian border for almost two years. How a man as busy and restless as Khrushchev could keep occupied there for 12 days is hard to understand. This is real self-sacrifice. Albania is about the size of Delaware, has only three or four movie theatres, no golf courses, and Khrushchev could visit every corner of the country in a week.

Eisenhower spent one day and a half cementing relations with our most important southern neighbor at the luxury playground of Acapulco where there is plenty of fascinating diversion. Khrushchev is spending 12 days in a conuntry with few toilet facilities, very little electricity, where the only diversions are coffee, conversation, and trigger-happy tribal warfare.

Can Back Up Bluff

His reason may well be bluff. However, Khrushchev has the power to carry out his bluff. He has approximately 750 IRBM's able to fire 700 to 1,800 miles. In contrast we have about 48.

That means that the missile bases we are establishing in Italy and England can fire only about 20 missiles each. After that, they're out of ammunition.

In contrast, Khrushchev can take 750 IRBM's and parcel them out rather generously among Albania, East Germany, Bulgaria and China, so that each will have considerably more missiles than we can supply Italy and England.

This alarming possibility is one of the factors which prompted Jack Anderson's and my book, "USA — Second-Class Power?" It's also one reason why the present Army-Air Force row over missiles is so disturbing. We still don't know what type of missile we want to build.

Meanwhile, every single report in the Pentagon, without exception, shows that Russia is well ahead of us in missiles, and has the capacity to stay ahead. Secretary of Defense McElroy admitted this when he told the Senators that the United States had no plans for catching up with Russia in the race for intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Trigger-Happy Albanians

Albania is a natural fortress. Its high mountains protect it from its neighbors, Yugoslavia and Greece, on three sides. This is one reason its people still speak an original language, uncontaminated by either the Slavs or the Romans.

Albanians are of three religious faiths — Mohammedan, Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox—and in the old days were torn by bitter differences. There were also tribal differences. You could travel through some parts of Albania safely only by swearing blood brotherhood or "besa" with the local tribal chieftain. Then if anyone molested you, he killed them. And you had to do the same for him—if the occasion demanded.

I once picked up a wounded Albanian in a field where he had been plowing. He had been shot through the leg, arm, and ribs in a feudal gun duel. The American doctor to whom I drove him had to cut off his arm. He refused to take an anesthetic.

Is Khrushchev Bluffing?

American diplomats have believed that Khrushchev in the past has not been anxious to distribute Russian missiles among the satellites. Some of the satellites, among them the Albanians, are inclined to be trigger-happy. Other Russian partners, especially the Red Chinese, have been nudging Moscow for power, and missiles in their hands would increase their power. Moscow wants to remain supreme.

American intelligence also indicates that the Kremlin has been genuinely worried over what might happen if atomic weapons got into the hands of too many governments.

However, the Chinese defense minister, Marshal Peng Teh-Huai, is now in Albania conferring with Khrushchev. It has the earmarks of a bluff, but Khrushchev has the power to carry out his bluff if Gromyko doesn't get his way at Geneva.

Note—Missiles based in Albania would not be aimed at nearby Greece and Italy, which are too close, but at U. S. bases in Spain and North Africa. At Tripoli, North Africa, the U. S. Air Force has the biggest base in the world outside Dayton, Ohio. One missile could put it out of business.

Geneva Conference Conclusions Contradictory

By David Lawrence

GENEVA — Two contradictory conclusions can be reached as this correspondent leaves the scene of the four-power conference after three weeks of first-hand study and private talks with various officials of Western countries.

One is that the conference is a complete failure, and the other is that nothing is a failure which involves continuous talk rather than war between two adversaries.

Within a few days the Geneva sessions will end with a communique that will gloss over the true deadlock on fundamental issues. A minor agreement will be made to recognize formally the previous rights of the Western countries in their sector of Berlin. It will be hailed as an "interim solution." It will have one advantage—it will confirm the legal rights of the West and set them forth more clearly than was done in the fuzzily worded agreements after the end of World War II.

But basically what was the conference all about? Nikita Khrushchev issued an ultimatum last October demanding that the Western troops get out of their part of Berlin and then abandoned the demand temporarily when he got his way—a four-power conference and a promise of a "summit" meeting. Judged by what has been revealed here, even a "summit" meeting is foredoomed to failure, too, in the sense that no solution of Europe's over-all problem is likely to be agreed upon. When such a "summit" meeting—which would last just a week or so—is over, the same subjects will be turned over to another foreign ministers' conference to be discussed further. For already the West has found itself approving of protracted and prolonged negotiations that may extend over a period of years.

What is all this getting the people of the world? Is there any chance of a program of disarmament to relieve taxpayers of their big burdens? Is there a possibility of a ban on the further production of nuclear weapons, as the United States has advocated?

The answer is that, when it suits Mr. Khrushchev to make a concession that is in his own interest, he may give a crumb here and there in exchange for something he really wants.

But the over-all picture will not change as a result of mere negotiations. The reason is that Western pressure upon Khrushchev is not military and cannot be, and no other pressure from the outside is being exerted that seems likely as yet to affect him.

What then is the answer, and from whence will it come? This correspondent is convinced the answer will come from the peoples behind the Iron Curtain and particularly from the people in the Soviet Union itself. Khrushchev himself is trying desperately to get world prestige. The West is involuntarily helping him. He is not popular inside the Soviet Union or with the members of his own party. He is regarded as something of a clown by lots of his own people. To the outside world he is a man with immense power. But his power could crumble overnight if the 200,000,000 people inside the Soviet Union decided to ditch him.

Are there any outward signs of it. Revolutionaries don't advertise in advance their plans or their feelings. Prior to the outbreak against the Czar in 1917, there were no such signs either, but, when the revolt came, the Army and the secret police went over to the revolution instantly.

Inside the Soviet Union competent observers find that Communism as a doctrine is accepted as preferable to capitalism. That's not novel. Even inside the United States and Britain there are prominent politicians who are anti-capitalist and who favor socialistic policies in the economic field. But inside the Soviet Union criticism of Communism is growing. The argument is that it isn't achieving its professed ideals. The discussion is about ways to improve its operation. The question is whether the present regime can in the long run satisfy the present criticism, which is bound to increase because many of Khrushchev's policies and programs are inadequate even from the standpoint of Communist doctrine.

The West can continue to talk. It can watch the process inside the Soviet Union as an interested spectator and do nothing. But the West can hasten the day of revolution inside the Soviet Union by refusing to play up to Khrushchev or help him politically inside his own country. To go to a "summit" conference and let a lot of pictures be printed throughout the Communist world showing President Eisenhower fraternizing with the cruel and ruthless Khrushchev is to dishearten millions of liberty-loving people in the satellite countries as well as in the Soviet Union itself.

There are those in the West who think Khrushchev can be converted to reasonableness and decency. There were in the 1930s many who thought "you could do business with Hitler." There is only one possible advantage in talking to a dictator, and that's of limited scope. It is to use the occasion to publicize before the whole world the cause of freedom —not with the idea of penetrating the deaf ears of the dictator himself but to instill courage and hope in the hearts and minds of all the peoples behind the Iron Curtain who must some day exert their true power to attain their freedom.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

A behind-the-scenes battle between the administration and the Democratic majority in Congress could well result in no federal school-aid legislation this year, although both factions agree that such aid is needed.

Early this year, the administration proposed a school building program under which needy school districts would receive federal guarantees to pay half of the principal and interest on bonds they issued for new construction. Administration sources figured the program for five years with the government guaranteeing up to $600,000,000 worth of bonds each year.

The feature of the program was that the government's cash outlays would stretch out over a period of 20 to 30 years, instead of being paid currently in a lump sum.

Congressional Democrats gave the program scant attention and instead have gotten behind their own measure which would give each state $25 for each child of school age. This payment would be made annually for four years, the funds to be used either for school construction or to increase teachers' salaries. It would cost about $4,500,000,000 over the four years.

There is a third faction on Capitol Hill which opposes both bills. This group, joining with either of the other two has an effective voting majority. Thus, unless the two factions which favor some form of federal aid can get together, neither has the strength to put through its own proposal.

At present, there is no compromise in sight and most probably the classroom shortage throughout the nation will continue for years to come.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

June 6, 1944

The moon tossed a handful of sparkling coins across the town of Sainte-Mere-Eglise. The hour was past midnight, and there was excitement in the old town. The roof of a home was on fire and men rushed through the town square to assist the fire brigade. Even the mayor, M. Renaud, helped to pump water.

The flames fought the moonlight to a standstill and lit the church tower, where German machine gunners in coal scuttle helmets watched the fire below. A few minutes later, someone pulled the church bell rope and the town rang with the deep toll of doom. Men stopped fighting the blaze to look at the church.

Above it, in the soft June night sky, hundreds and hundreds of planes and gliders were silhouetted like black crosses. Behind them fell a blizzard of men, floating like giant snowflakes on the summer breeze. This was the start of D-Day, which occurred 15 years ago next Saturday. It is now part of a fine book called "D-Day," written by David Howarth, published by McGraw-Hill.

This was the opening move. The machine gunners began to fire, and, from outside the town, the big German anti-aircraft batteries started to stammer. The machine gunners couldn't miss. They picked off Americans floating in chute harness, and they caught others hanging in the trees and left them as loose as rag dolls. One man floated down through the burning roof. He never uttered a sound.

The chutists were part of a regiment of 2,200 men who dropped seven miles behind the beach called Utah on the Cherbourg Peninsula. Their job was to liberate Sainte-Mere-Eglise. The commander of the German unit was an old Austrian. In years gone by, he had been the music critic of a newspaper in Vienna.

A soldier standing under a tree nodded to a parachutist hanging dead in his harness. "Tommies," he said. "All kaput." He was wrong both ways. They weren't British Tommies; they were Americans. They were not kaput; the Germans were.

Mayor Renaud went back to his house and waited. At dawn, there was a knock on his door. He opened it slowly. An American captain stood looking at him. The American offered a piece of gum. The mayor declined, with thanks. The two men walked to German headquarters. The Nazis had fled. The swastika, which had flown for four years, was gone. An American flag, which had flown over Naples, was now snapping in the breeze.

Sainte-Mere-Eglise was the first town to be freed. At 2:30 a. m., long before any landings on the beaches, General Maxwell Taylor, divisional commander, bumped the ground and unhitched his harness four miles southeast of Sainte-Mere-Eglise. His artillery commander, General McAuliffe, was somewhere out there in the dark.

The generals, for a while, were on their own. There were 11,000 men in this area, and not one to be seen. General Taylor, for a time, was an ordinary doughfoot at the ready. When he saw his first American buck private, the general did something unsoldierly and human: he threw both arms around him.

Little by little, hour by hour, bits and chunks of the division found other bits and chunks. At dawn, the job was to strike toward the causeways to the sea, to join up with the scores of thousands of men now landing on Utah Beach.

The men looked in the long swale grass for little orange flags. These, as David Howarth explains, were flags of recognition. At 11 a. m. someone saw an orange flag, barely topping the reeds. The man was grabbed, and escorted to General Taylor.

The general grinned and stuck out his hand. The soldier saluted. "Captain George Mabry," he said. "Eighth Infantry Regiment, Fourth Division, U.S. Army."

It doesn't sound like very much now, 15 years later. But when the parachutists joined up with the forces fighting inland from the beach, the words of Captain Mabry sounded as though they had come fresh out of the Bible...

Hoarseness Could Mean Cancer Of The Larynx

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Hoarseness is a symptom rather than a disease. When it lasts longer than 10 days to three weeks, examination must be made to determine the cause. Infection and vocal strain are the most likely origins. But it is smart to play safe because cancer of the larynx always is an outside contender.

The vocal cords cannot be seen by the ordinary type of examination in which the patient says "ah" as the physician looks into the mouth. Most specialists utilize a head mirror or lamp to reflect light into the throat. A small round mirror is placed in the back of the patient's throat so the examiner can see around the bend at the base of the tongue.

The tongue is held forward to keep it out of the way. When the stage is set and the voice box is in view, the individual is asked to say "e." This letter has been chosen because it opens the throat, allowing the physician to see the vocal cords. It is painless and no anesthetic is needed.

A more detailed study can be made with the laryngoscope, if an abnormality is noted. This instrument consists of a tube with a handle and eyepiece at one end and a light at the other. It is possible to see the interior of the larynx when the device is inserted gently into the back of the throat.

Cancer of the larynx is easy to treat when detected early. At this stage, removal of the voice box (laryngectomy) is not necessary and speech is retained. Radium, for example, may be used to destroy the lesion without damaging the vocal cords.

Malignancies never stop growing and the longer the victim waits the larger the cancer becomes. In time it may be necessary to sacrifice the voice to save the life of the victim. This means removal of the larynx and the glands in the neck. Following recovery, the individual must learn to use one of the artificial devices so he can speak.

The latest is an electrostatic speaker attached to a dental prosthesis. It is a hearing aid in reverse. An ingenious operation may be suggested to reconstruct a second mechanism to help in talking.

BACKACHE IN OLDSTER

M. S. S. writes: Is it harmful to use an electric pad on a 79 year old woman's back? She has slight arthritis of the spine and heat seems to relieve it a little.
REPLY

No, but avoid burning. I assume X-rays have been taken and that you are certain of the diagnosis. Osteoporosis is another common cause of backache in oldsters and dramatic improvement often follows the use of certain hormones.

DOUBLE EPILEPSY

Mrs. M. writes: Can an epileptic have both the grand mal and petit mal types of seizures?
REPLY

Yes, and many do, especially children.

SALT AND HYPERTENSION

Mrs. M. writes: Why can't you have salt with high blood pressure?
REPLY

Because the sodium in salt aggravates the condition.

ASTHMATIC HEART

W. L. writes: Is an asthmatic heart serious?
REPLY

Yes, if you refer to the type of heart disease that occurs in an individual who has been bothered for years with asthma.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

The local gossip was waiting on the stoop when the traveling salesman came home from his winter trip. "While you were away," he cackled, "I saw a tall, dark man kissing your wife." The salesman asked, "Did he wear glasses and white shoes, and did he have a big mustache?" "That's the one," exulted the gossip.

"Forget it," advised the salesman. "That was our milkman. He'll kiss anybody."

George de Witt told a fellow thespian he kept seeing spots in front of his eyes. "Have you seen an oculist yet?" inquired his worried friend. "Not yet," admitted de Witt. "Just spots."

"I beg you," beseeched the junior miss' wear buyer to the beautiful new model, "whisper those three little words that will have me walking on air." The model obliged with, "Go hang yourself."

67 Donors Give Blood To RC At Westernport

Two Persons Join Two-Gallon Club

WESTERNPORT—Residents of the Tri-Towns and area yesterday afternoon gave a total of 67 pints of blood when the Red Cross Bloodmobile unit from Johnstown, Pa., visited at the home of Victory Post 155, American Legion.

The quota was 85 pints, according to Mrs. Carlton Bell, of Piedmont, chairman, who said that yesterday's total was 10 more pints than were received when the unit was in Piedmont in March this year.

Some 138 persons were scheduled to give blood yesterday. There were 17 walk-ins and five persons who gave for the first time.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stanhagen of Keyser and Melvin B. Foley, Westernport, joined the two-gallon club. Nine donors joined the one-gallon club.

They are Joseph B. Miller, of Cumberland; Mrs. Olive Folk, Miss Sue Gleeson, of Piedmont; James S. Poland, Luke; Ronald Jezerc, Raymond W. Snyder, George Failing, Lacy B. Tinsley and Mrs. Peggy Shaw, all of here.

Physicians on duty were Dr. James W. Wolverton Jr. and Dr. P. E. Berry, both of Piedmont and Dr. William Lesh of here.

Registered nurses on duty were Mrs. Marie Fromhart of here, Mrs. Viola Daniels, Keyser and Miss Helen Hopkins, of Luke.

Mrs. Owen Rhodes was canteen chairman and Mrs. Benjamin Mamolen, hostesses chairman.

Piedmont Council Organizes

Sewerage Proposal Given Approval

PIEDMONT — The first meeting of the newly elected Town Council was held Monday. Assuming duties were Mayor Rodney Baker, incumbent, and Commissioners James Bissett and A. Kingsley Skidmore, incumbents, and Michael Lannon. Holdover councilmen are Joseph Maybury and Elmer Shaver.

Mayor Baker appointed the following committees: Water — Lannon, chairman, and Bissett; finance — Maybury, chairman, and Skidmore; streets — Bissett, chairman, and Lannon, and building — Shaver.

Another step in joining the sewage treatment project was taken when council approved the preliminary survey conducted by the Robert T. Register Engineering Company of Baltimore. Edward Kidd, representative of the firm, submitted a report.

The total project was estimated to cost $120,000, including $15,000 for the survey of the engineering company and a spot check of work.

The approximate cost also provides for two pumping stations, one which will pump 700 gallons a minute and another 200 gallons a minute. One will be built in the east of town and the other in the vicinity of the K of P armory at the rear of Water Street.

The town hopes to get a loan of $30,000 from the government and start work next spring. Kidd stated he thought the project would not take more than six months for completion after work gets underway.

Council authorized the engineering firm to continue with the project, and asked officials to review the bids when they are received.

The sewage waste treatment plant is being built at the east end of Westernport by the Upper Potomac River Commission for the principal use of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Westernport, Luke and Piedmont have indicated they will participate in the project.

Jonas Skidmore Appointed To Street Dept.

Council Names Superintendent

FROSTBURG—Jonas Skidmore was appointed street superintendent at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council. He succeeds the late Allan Baker. Harry Hanson was named tax collector.

Last week, Donald Griffith assumed the duties as police chief. Two other city positions remain open—police commissioner and water superintendent.

Expenditures from the Corporate Fund included $88.22 to the Fire Department and $106.45 general expense.

Ludwig Neilson asked council to run a sewer line from the rear of a lot on Linden Street to the front of the lot to join the city sewer. Council will run the line to the curb on Linden Street and the balance of the work will be Neilson's responsibility.

Residents from the new development of the Borden Mining Company at the west city limits were present to inquire about forming a water company for their area.

Philip Beeman asked council if plans are being made to hire a life-saving instructor at the swimming pool. He asked permission to conduct private classes for two weeks and council took the matter under advisement.

Fred Jones was granted a refund of $8.25 for an overpaid water bill.

A contract was awarded the Fuller Construction Company to install new windows, including sash and frames, and a new door in City Hall.

Council members and City Clerk William Vogtman will attend the Maryland Municipal League Conference to be held in Ocean City, June 15 and 16.

Rev. Harpold Gives Sermon At Mt. Savage

MT. SAVAGE — "Life Is A Study" was the subject of the seventh annual sermon delivered at Mt. Savage High School by the Rev. William C. Harpold of the Methodist Church, at the baccalaureate services in the school auditorium Sunday afternoon.

Miss Mabel Myers, of Frostburg, was at the organ for the prelude, processional and recessional.

The seniors were joined in the academic march by the faculty. The audience participated in the singing of the first hymn and the invocation was given by Rev. Harvey L. Williams of the Evangelical United Brethren Church in Ellerslie. The Responsive Reading taken from St. Timothy 2:1-5 was directed by Rev. John B. Zinn of the United Church of Christ in Corriganville and Ellerslie.

Two selections were presented by the Senior Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Florence Conrad, "Praise Ye the Lord, the Almighty" and "Goin' Home."

The prayer was given by Rev. John B. Zinn and the benediction by Rev. Harvey L. Williams.

The traditional blue gown and caps with yellow tassels were worn by the boys. The girls appeared in white gowns and caps with yellow tassels.

Following the services the seniors and their parents were guests at the annual tea given by the faculty.

Piedmont Council Organizes

Sewerage Proposal Given Approval

PIEDMONT — The first meeting of the newly elected Town Council was held Monday. Assuming duties were Mayor Rodney Baker, incumbent, and Commissioners James Bissett and A. Kingsley Skidmore, incumbents, and Michael Lannon. Holdover councilmen are Joseph Maybury and Elmer Shaver.

Mayor Baker appointed the following committees: Water — Lannon, chairman, and Bissett; finance — Maybury, chairman, and Skidmore; streets — Bissett, chairman, and Lannon, and building — Shaver.

Another step in joining the sewage treatment project was taken when council approved the preliminary survey conducted by the Robert T. Register Engineering Company of Baltimore. Edward Kidd, representative of the firm, submitted a report.

The total project was estimated to cost $120,000, including $15,000 for the survey of the engineering company and a spot check of work.

The approximate cost also provides for two pumping stations, one which will pump 700 gallons a minute and another 200 gallons a minute. One will be built in the east of town and the other in the vicinity of the K of P armory at the rear of Water Street.

The town hopes to get a loan of $30,000 from the government and start work next spring. Kidd stated he thought the project would not take more than six months for completion after work gets underway.

Council authorized the engineering firm to continue with the project, and asked officials to review the bids when they are received.

The sewage waste treatment plant is being built at the east end of Westernport by the Upper Potomac River Commission for the principal use of the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Westernport, Luke and Piedmont have indicated they will participate in the project.

Jonas Skidmore Appointed To Street Dept.

Council Names Superintendent

FROSTBURG—Jonas Skidmore was appointed street superintendent at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council. He succeeds the late Allan Baker. Harry Hanson was named tax collector.

Last week, Donald Griffith assumed the duties as police chief. Two other city positions remain open—police commissioner and water superintendent.

Expenditures from the Corporate Fund included $88.22 to the Fire Department and $106.45 general expense.

Ludwig Neilson asked council to run a sewer line from the rear of a lot on Linden Street to the front of the lot to join the city sewer. Council will run the line to the curb on Linden Street and the balance of the work will be Neilson's responsibility.

Residents from the new development of the Borden Mining Company at the west city limits were present to inquire about forming a water company for their area.

Philip Beeman asked council if plans are being made to hire a life-saving instructor at the swimming pool. He asked permission to conduct private classes for two weeks and council took the matter under advisement.

Fred Jones was granted a refund of $8.25 for an overpaid water bill.

A contract was awarded the Fuller Construction Company to install new windows, including sash and frames, and a new door in City Hall.

Council members and City Clerk William Vogtman will attend the Maryland Municipal League Conference to be held in Ocean City, June 15 and 16.

Rev. Harpold Gives Sermon At Mt. Savage

MT. SAVAGE — "Life Is A Study" was the subject of the seventh annual sermon delivered at Mt. Savage High School by the Rev. William C. Harpold of the Methodist Church, at the baccalaureate services in the school auditorium Sunday afternoon.

Miss Mabel Myers, of Frostburg, was at the organ for the prelude, processional and recessional.

The seniors were joined in the academic march by the faculty. The audience participated in the singing of the first hymn and the invocation was given by Rev. Harvey L. Williams of the Evangelical United Brethren Church in Ellerslie. The Responsive Reading taken from St. Timothy 2:1-5 was directed by Rev. John B. Zinn of the United Church of Christ in Corriganville and Ellerslie.

Two selections were presented by the Senior Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Florence Conrad, "Praise Ye the Lord, the Almighty" and "Goin' Home."

The prayer was given by Rev. John B. Zinn and the benediction by Rev. Harvey L. Williams.

The traditional blue gown and caps with yellow tassels were worn by the boys. The girls appeared in white gowns and caps with yellow tassels.

Following the services the seniors and their parents were guests at the annual tea given by the faculty.

Card Club Meets

MT. SAVAGE — The Cheerful Card Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Leona Reagan. Refreshments were served and prizes were won by Mrs. Mae Blank, Miss Martha Reagan and Miss Mary Murray.

The next meeting of the club will be held June 7.

May Records Frost, Snow, Heavy Rain

FROSTBURG — Cold weather for mid-May was experienced in Frostburg the past month according to C. Walter Hayes, weather observer for the Upper Potomac River Commission.

Saturday morning, May 9, the temperature was down to 32 degrees and a white frost covered the ground. This was the lowest temperature for the month. Another low occurred on the morning of the 15th when temperature was 38 degrees with snow flurries. On the morning of the 16th the temperature was down to 35 degrees. Sunday the 25th the low was 38 degrees and frost and ice on car windshields were observed in the Grahamtown area.

Monday, 11th was the warmest day when mercury reached 86 degrees. The normal high for May is 71.9 degrees, the normal low is 47.8 degrees.

Rain fell on 14 days of the month. On the 13th and 14th there was .95 inches of rain and again heavy rain on the 28th and 29th amounted to 1.22 inches. This brought the total for the month to 3.21 inches. Normal rainfall for May is 3.83 inches.

Frost occurs on the average as late as May 20 but in June 1958 a killing frost occurred on the 7th.

Hospital's New Surgical Recovery Room In Use

A surgical recovery room has been placed in operation at Memorial Hospital, according to John A. Moberly, superintendent.

Moberly said the purpose of the room is to provide for patients a unit which offers maximum efficiency and the utilization of personnel; equipment and supplies during the immediate post-operative period.

The new room, which cost approximately $6,000, has seven recovery beds and features piped-in oxygen to each bed. The oxygen operates from six tanks which are stored in a separate room and each tank provides 50 pounds of pressure.

The oxygen is controlled from the bedside, and in the event a tank would become low, a low pressure alarm installed in the room will alert the nurses on duty.

Moberly said that with the addition of the new recovery room a surgical patient will be taken from the operating room directly to the recovery room where a staff of nurses and the attending surgeon will be on hand to administer to the patient.

The beds in the new room feature large wheels which will allow the hospital to move the patient from the operating table to the bed, and following the recovery period to the patient's room with the minimum number of moves.

Moberly said the room will have a respirator, various emergency packs and everything concentrated for emergency use. The patients, the superintendent said, will be under constant observation of a team of trained nurses and supervisors.

Moberly said recovery rooms are the trend of modern hospitals, and the need for such a room in Cumberland has been under study for a number of years.

The low cost of the room, Moberly said, was due to the fact that employes of the hospital performed much of the labor.

'Sparky' Fire Unit Planning Bake Sale

The "Sparky" Fire Unit of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company will hold a bake sale Saturday from 2 to 5 p. m. at the fire hall, E. J. Young, chairman of the "Sparky" committee, announced yesterday.

Young said members of the "Sparky" committee have been asked to attend a meeting Friday at 8 p. m. at the fire hall.

The use of gases in warfare dates back at least to 431 B.C., when the Spartans burned pitch and sulphur under the walls of the cities of Belium and Platea to suffocate troops defending the cities.

Council Gets Report About City Airport

The Mayor and Council Monday heard a number of routine reports during its regular session.

Warren R. Mullenax, operator of Municipal Airport, called attention to the amount of work necessary to prepare for the sports car races held here two weekends ago. He said seven parking areas were prepared, outside toilets erected and five excavations made for the sponsors, the Cumberland Lions Club. He said five men worked three days cleaning up the airport after the races but were ordered to stop when he was informed the Lions Club had given the job to a private contractor because it could be done for less money.

At the present time, Mullenax continued, many ruts and holes need to be filled and the 18 toilets must be removed. He said oil drained from cars on grass plots and runways and several fires were built on the grass. Loose hay which was scattered around the area also remains, his report added.

Street Commissioner John J. Long listed 831 paved streets cleaned; the Potomac River bridge cleaned 11 times and 22 catch basins cleaned. Seven streets, three sidewalks and the window sills at City Hall were repaired with concrete; 10 streets and one driveway with blacktop; 28 streets potholed with blacktop; 15 with crusher run and six light surfaced.

Council filed a letter from Bert Caldara acknowledging that he will stage the annual fireworks display in Constitution Park July 4.

Local Jaycees Cancel Meeting

The Junior Association of Commerce has cancelled its regular meeting scheduled for this evening.

Edward F. Mullan Jr., president, said the meeting was cancelled due to the association's annual installation of officers ceremony scheduled Saturday, June 13, at Clarysville Inn.

The ceremony will begin with a cocktail party at 6:30 p. m., Mullan said.

Jeffries Will Admitted To Probate Here

The will of Charles S. Jeffries, retired Frostburg businessman, who died May 28, was offered for probate in the Orphan's Court of Allegany County yesterday.

The estate, having an estimated value of a quarter million dollars, was disposed of as follows:

After specific devises and bequests to his brother, George G. Jeffries, his sister-in-law, Edith (Price) Jeffries, numerous nieces, nephews, grandnephews, cousins, friends and local organizations aggregating $50,000, the remainder of his estate was placed in trust with the provision that the income be distributed to his brother, George G. Jeffries, and to Edith (Price) Jeffries for life; and that upon their death the principal of the estate be divided equally among Mr. Jeffries' six nieces and nephews who are the children of his brother, George G. Jeffries, and of his deceased brother, S. Bolitha Jeffries.

The institutions receiving cash bequests include First Methodist Church of Frostburg, the Eva H. Jeffries Sunday School Class of said church, St. John's Episcopal Church of Frostburg, Farrady Post of the American Legion of Frostburg, the German Arion Band of Frostburg, Frostburg Lodge of Elks and Strawbridge Home for Boys.

The will, which is dated June 28, 1958, names the Mercantile-Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Baltimore and William A. Gunter of Cumberland as executors and trustees.

Paper Company Sells Stock

NEW YORK (UPI) —West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. has sold its majority stock interest in Hinde and Dauch Paper Co. of Canada Ltd., to St. Lawrence Corp., Ltd., for an undisclosed amount of cash, it was announced here.

The transaction involved the transfer of 189,864 shares of common stock, representing 52.74 per cent of the 360,000 shares of Hinde common outstanding.

West Virginia Pulp obtained its stock interest in Hinde of Canada in 1953 when it acquired the parent, Hinde & Dauch Paper Co., Sandusky, Ohio, through an exchange of stock.

The latest transaction will have no bearing on West Virginia's operations in the corrugated box field in the U.S. where further expansion is planned.

Constellation Will Be Open To Visitors In Baltimore Soon

The USS Constellation, oldest U.S. Navy ship still afloat has been moved from her obscurity at Booz Brothers Shipyard at Key Highway to Pier 1, Pratt Street, in Baltimore, Robert E. Michael, chairman of the restoration committee of the Constellation Commission announced.

He said the Wilson-Tolchester Line, which leases the pier, is providing space as a community service.

The port-side of the 170-foot wooden vessel has been replanked, caulked, and new sister frames added.

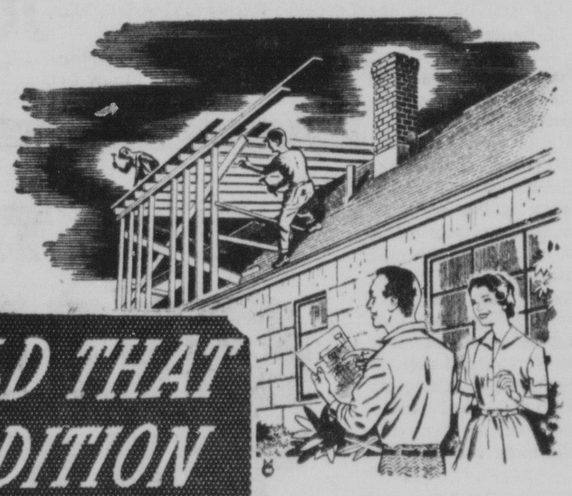

Jean Hoffmeister, harbor master and treasurer of the Constellation group, said the vessel will be open to visitors in about a week or so. She needs to be cleaned first and new staging and gangway must be made for visitors, he said.

New York was named after the Duke of York and Albany, who received a patent to New Netherland from his brother, Charles II.

A New York hotel says its bell boys walk an average of eight miles a day in the performance of their duties.

Rainfall reaches as much as 140 inches a year on the mountain slopes of the Olympic peninsula in Washington.

Tom Davis Named Winner Of Hipsley Memorial Trophy

Sentinel Star Receives 10th Grid Award

145 Attend Booster Dinner; Coaches Of Teams Given Gifts

One hundred and forty-five persons attended the annual dinner of the Fort Hill Booster Club, held last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club in honor of athletic teams, coaches and cheerleaders of Fort Hill High School.

Thomas Davis, 1958 co-captain, and regular fullback of Fort Hill football teams for the past two years, was announced as the winner of the tenth annual James H. Hipsley Memorial Trophy. A replica of the trophy was presented to Davis by Victor D. Heisey, principal of the school. Davis' name will be inscribed on the large trophy that remains at the school. A member of the 1958 All-City Football Team, Davis was chosen winner of the trophy on the basis of his football playing ability, leadership, loyalty to the team and coach and sportsmanship. Football lettermen choose a senior for the award each year.

Clifford H. Spiker, president of the Fort Hill Booster Club, introduced Art Davis, former Fort Hill student and teacher, now employed by Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Talks were given by Coaches William P. Hahn, Wayne Boor, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, James Eckard, Mrs. Henrietta Snyder, girls' mentor, and Mrs. Christine Alderton, coach of the cheerleaders.

Co-captain Davis presented an orchid to Joyce Holshey, football queen; parents of the players on Fort Hill's city championship baseball team presented gifts to Coach and Mrs. Cavanaugh and Bob Rowley, co-captain of the football team, presented the coaches with gifts from the members of the various teams.

RECEIVES HIPSLEY TROPHY—Thomas Davis, senior back and co-captain of Fort Hill High School's 1958 football team, was presented a replica of the James H. Hipsley Memorial Trophy last night by Victor D. Heisey, principal, right, at the annual dinner held by the Fort Hill Booster Club in honor of boys and girls athletic teams, coaches and cheerleaders of the school at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Davis was the tenth Fort Hill athlete to receive the award which was instituted in 1950. At the left is the large Hipsley Memorial Trophy which remains at the school with the winner's names inscribed on it.

Cincinnati Edges Los Angeles, 5-4

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds survived shaky pitching and faulty base-running Tuesday night by outhitting Los Angeles for a 5-4 victory.

The triumph broke a three-game Cincinnati losing streak.

An unearned run in the eighth inning was the decisive marker.

Bob Mabe, second of three Cincinnati hurlers, collected the victory.

The Dodgers had tied it up in the eighth when Johnny Roseboro hit his first season homer after Gil Hodges had walked.

But the Reds' unearned run came next. With one out, Don Zimmer threw wildly on Frank Thomas' grounder and he went to second on the error. Eddie Kasko, running for Thomas, went to third on Don Newcombe's pinch-hit single, and scored on Johnny Temple's sacrifice fly.

Tom Acker held the Dodgers hitless in the last inning.

Orioles Trip Chisox, Take Second Place

Wilhelm Is Victor Despite Gnats, 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Neither an attack by a swarm of gnats nor the Chicago White Sox bats fazed pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm too much Tuesday night.

He notched his eighth victory without defeat, holding the Sox to 7 hits for a 3-2 Baltimore triumph that put the Orioles into second place.

The veteran knuckleballer was chased from the mound only by a cloud of bugs in the first inning. After walking Nellie Fox, the second man he faced, Wilhelm began waving his arms frantically, as if warding off an unseen enemy.

Gnats had descended on him.

Oriole Coach Al Vincent tried to wave them away with a towel.

Bug bombs were sprayed around the mound.

Wilhelm was covered with insecticide ointment and his uniform dusted with bug spray by Umpire Hank Soar.

Newspapers were burned on the mound.

But the gnats kept dive-bombing.

Finally, Sox President Bill Veeck had a fireworks bomb set off on the mound. A loud bang, a puff of white smoke—and the attack was over. The game had been delayed 16 minutes.

The bug warfare temporarily upset Wilhelm. He walked Earl Torgeson and hit Sherm Lollar with a pitch to fill the bases. Larry Doby forced Lollar at second, Fox scoring on the play, and Wilhelm had the first run against him in 23 innings.

Three hits and a fumble by shortstop Chico Carrasquel gave the Sox an unearned run in the fourth.

Baltimore tied the score in the sixth when Whitey Lockman tripled and Bill Klaus hit his first homer of the season.

The Orioles knocked the Sox to third place with their 8th loss in their last 10 starts, wrapped up the decision in the ninth. Successive singles by Willie Tasby, Gene Woodling and Gus Triandos did it.

Jim Bailey of Strawberry Plains, Tenn., won 10 games for Nashville last season. He is the younger brother of Cincinnati catcher Ed Bailey.

Shamrock Green, 1958 Victor Here, Wins At Belmont

Shamrock Green, winner of the feature race and the major portion of the $1,000 purse on Knights of Columbus Day at Fairgo, Sept. 19, 1958, won in faster company yesterday at Belmont Park, New York.

The horse with the Irish name copped the fourth race at the New York track under the guidance of Jockey Johnny Ruane from Ireland and returned $5.20, the same price he paid when he won at Fairgo. Yesterday's race was a $4,000 claimer.

Shamrock Green's win here was by four lengths over Bonnally Boy and apprentice Larry Reynolds was aboard the victor.

Second All-Star Game Approved

MILWAUKEE UPI — A Milwaukee Braves' official said Tuesday players and club owners have approved a second major league All-Star game and tentatively selected Los Angeles as the site.

The game will be held in early August, said Birdie Tebbetts, executive vice president of the Braves, at a press and radio luncheon.

Tebbetts said he believes the two games will be played in American League cities next year, one after the other rather than spread out as they will be this season. After that, the games will be alternated between the two leagues, he said.

Yankees Sign WVU Captain

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—The New York Yankees have signed West Virginia University baseball Capt. Ronnie Retton to a contract which included a $10,000 bonus provision, it was announced Tuesday.

The five-foot-seven inch shortstop will be assigned to the Auburn, N. Y., club in the New York-Pennsylvania League.

A graduate of Fairview High School where he played football, basketball and baseball, Retton won a scholarship to WVU where he starred in basketball and baseball.

Before graduation this year, Retton was named to the All-Southern Conference baseball team for his second straight year. He posted a 1959 batting average of .315.

Pony Loop Meets, To Hear Protest

A meeting of the Bi-State Pony Baseball League will be held today at 8 p. m., at Frostburg City Hall to hear a protest by LaVale in their recent game with Lonaconing.

The following players have been signed by league teams:

Lonaconing — Gerald Winters, Thomas Howard James. Frostburg—Robert Harper. Mt. Savage—Gary Miller. LaVale—Gary (Wniters, James, Harper and Hartman are 15-year-olds).

Lonaconing has released Tom Nightengale and Charles Groves while Frostburg has cut loose Kenny Pollock.

Harvey Haddix Scores Shutout Over Cards, 3-0

Buc Lefty Fans Six, 28,644 See Game

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Southpaw Harvey Haddix, making his first appearance since his 12-perfect inning feat, scattered eight hits and struck out six Tuesday night to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-0 shutout over the St. Louis Cardinals.

A crowd of 28,644 gave Haddix a standing ovation at the beginning of the game and stood up and cheered when Bob Skinner took Hal Smith's fly for the last out of the game.

Haddix who lost 1-0 to the Milwaukee Braves in the 13th inning after his historic mound performance, allowed only two walks to the Cardinals in the regularly scheduled game. St. Louis won 3-1 in completing a game suspended last May 3 and finished before Tuesday night's contest.

Stan Musial's second-inning double and Bill White's ninth-inning triple were the only extra - base hits registered by the Cards. The Pirates got their first run in the third inning on Bill Virdon's double and Dick Groat's single. In the next inning they picked up a pair of tallies, one of them coming in on Haddix' single.

Haddix showed no effects from last week's hectic game as his slider and curve ball worked effectively.

Starting pitcher Larry Jackson absorbed his sixth loss against three victories while Haddix brought his chart to 4-3.

Gino Cimoli was ejected from the game in the third inning after he was thrown out at the plate. Cimoli, who had singled, attempted to score on Musial's double but Skinner threw a perfect strike to prevent him from scoring. Cimoli jawed with umpire Augie Donatelli and was ordered out of the game.

Aaron And Haddix Tie For Player Of Month

Each Get 17 Votes; Face Receives Four, Johnny Logan, Two

CINCINNATI (AP)—The hitting of Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves and the pitching of Harvey Haddix of the Pittsburgh Pirates gave them a tie Tuesday for the National League's first Player of the Month award for 1959. The award covers play during May.

League President Warren C. Giles announced Aaron and Haddix each received 17 votes from the 40-man committee of baseball writers and broadcasters who cover league games.

Only two other players received votes—Elroy Face, the Pirates' relief pitching star, got four and two went to Johnny Logan, shortstop for the Braves.

Much of the support given Haddix came as the result of one game—the tilt with Milwaukee on May 26 when he pitched 12 consecutive perfect innings before losing in the 13th.

But the little 33-year-old southpaw did some other good pitching. Although he had only a 2-3 record for May, he completed 4 of the 6 games he started, allowed only 34 hits, walked only 7 and struck out 39. His earned run average was 2.08.

Aaron, the league's leading batter, compiled a .376 average during May. He hit 8 home runs and drove in 31.

Mossi Stops Yanks, 2-0, On Four-Hitter

Detroit Obtains Only Three Hits

DETROIT (AP) — Don Mossi stopped New York on four hits Tuesday night as the Tigers eked out a 2-0 triumph.

Beating the Yankees for the fifth straight time, three times this year, the veteran ex-reliefer checked New York's winning streak at four with the Tigers' first shutout of the campaign.

Three Yankee pitchers yielded only three singles, but fielding blunders by Bill Skowron and wildness on the part of starter Duke Maas contributed to the defeat. Maas walked his way into trouble in the second inning when the Tigers scored their first run, and an error by first baseman Skowron opened the way for the other Tiger run in the third.

Mossi and Gail Harris drove in Detroit's runs with sacrifice flies.

The victory was Detroit's eighth in nine games.

Groza To Coach College Cagers

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Alex Groza, involved in point-shaving scandals while starring for the University of Kentucky, will return to the basketball court next month as coach at Bellarmine Catholic College, it was announced Tuesday.

Msgr. Algred F. Horrigan, president of the college, said the one-time All-America center from Martins Ferry, Ohio, succeeds Gene Kenny, former Notre Dame player who resigned to become head coach at St. Joseph's Prep School at nearby Bardstown.

After leaving UK, Groza conducted a television sports show at Wheeling, W. Va., and only recently applied for a coaching job at Loyola University in New Orleans. Terms of his one-year contract at Bellarmine were not disclosed.

Tom Kelleher, 24, of the Bronx, N. Y., won 21 games for Selma, Ala., last season. His team won the Alabama-Florida League pennant.

Rush Blanks Giants, 2-0

Mathews Belts 17th Home Run

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee's veteran Bob Rush, stopped San Francisco with a masterful five hit shutout Tuesday night as the first-place Braves posted a 3-0 victory to move back into a 2½-game lead over the Giants.

Rush, 33-year-old right hander in his 11th National League season, struck out eight men in his first complete game of the year. He didn't walk a man and didn't allow a San Francisco player to reach second base.

Eddie Mathews hit a first inning pitch for his 17th homer, tops in the National League.

The Braves added two more runs in the fifth on San Francisco starter Stu Miller to insure their victory.

Hank Aaron, the National League batting leader, had two doubles and a single, plus an intentional walk to boost his average nine points to .424.

Senators Top Cleveland On Homer In 10th

Samford Connects, Ramos Winner, 3-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ronnie Samford hit a 10th inning home run for Washington to give the Senators a 3-2 victory over the league-leading Cleveland Indians Tuesday night. Pedro Ramos went the route with a seven-hitter.

The loss, the Indians' fourth straight, marked their longest losing spell of the season.

Bob Allison homered for Washington and Vic Power for Cleveland, both with none aboard. For eight innings, Ramos and Jim (Mudcat) Grant dueled in the speedy game, which took only two hours. Grant was lifted for a pinchhitter when Cleveland tied the score 2-2 in the eighth on a walk, a double and a sacrifice fly by Power.

Bud Podbielan was the loser, his first decision. Ramos won his sixth against five losses. He struck out eight and walked only one.

Tom Davis Named Winner Of Hipsley Memorial Trophy

Sentinel Star Receives 10th Grid Award

145 Attend Booster Dinner; Coaches Of Teams Given Gifts

One hundred and forty-five persons attended the annual dinner of the Fort Hill Booster Club, held last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club in honor of athletic teams, coaches and cheerleaders of Fort Hill High School.

Thomas Davis, 1958 co-captain, and regular fullback of Fort Hill football teams for the past two years, was announced as the winner of the tenth annual James H. Hipsley Memorial Trophy. A replica of the trophy was presented to Davis by Victor D. Heisey, principal of the school. Davis' name will be inscribed on the large trophy that remains at the school. A member of the 1958 All-City Football Team, Davis was chosen winner of the trophy on the basis of his football playing ability, leadership, loyalty to the team and coach and sportsmanship. Football lettermen choose a senior for the award each year.

Clifford H. Spiker, president of the Fort Hill Booster Club, introduced Art Davis, former Fort Hill student and teacher, now employed by Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Talks were given by Coaches William P. Hahn, Wayne Boor, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, James Eckard, Mrs. Henrietta Snyder, girls' mentor, and Mrs. Christine Alderton, coach of the cheerleaders.

Co-captain Davis presented an orchid to Joyce Holshey, football queen; parents of the players on Fort Hill's city championship baseball team presented gifts to Coach and Mrs. Cavanaugh and Bob Rowley, co-captain of the football team, presented the coaches with gifts from the members of the various teams.

RECEIVES HIPSLEY TROPHY—Thomas Davis, senior back and co-captain of Fort Hill High School's 1958 football team, was presented a replica of the James H. Hipsley Memorial Trophy last night by Victor D. Heisey, principal, right, at the annual dinner held by the Fort Hill Booster Club in honor of boys and girls athletic teams, coaches and cheerleaders of the school at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Davis was the tenth Fort Hill athlete to receive the award which was instituted in 1950. Cincinnati Edges Los Angeles, 5-4

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds survived shaky pitching and faulty base-running Tuesday night by outhitting Los Angeles for a 5-4 victory.

The triumph broke a three-game Cincinnati losing streak.

An unearned run in the eighth inning was the decisive marker.

Bob Mabe, second of three Cincinnati hurlers, collected the victory.

The Dodgers had tied it up in the eighth when Johnny Roseboro hit his first season homer after Gil Hodges had walked.

But the Reds' unearned run came next. With one out, Don Zimmer threw wildly on Frank Thomas' grounder and he went to second on the error. Eddie Kasko, running for Thomas, went to third on Don Newcombe's pinch-hit single, and scored on Johnny Temple's sacrifice fly.

Tom Acker held the Dodgers hitless in the last inning.

Orioles Trip Chisox, Take Second Place

Wilhelm Is Victor Despite Gnats, 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Neither an attack by a swarm of gnats nor the Chicago White Sox bats fazed pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm too much Tuesday night.

He notched his eighth victory without defeat, holding the Sox to 7 hits for a 3-2 Baltimore triumph that put the Orioles into second place.

The veteran knuckleballer was chased from the mound only by a cloud of bugs in the first inning. After walking Nellie Fox, the second man he faced, Wilhelm began waving his arms frantically, as if warding off an unseen enemy.

Gnats had descended on him.

Oriole Coach Al Vincent tried to wave them away with a towel.

Bug bombs were sprayed around the mound.

Wilhelm was covered with insecticide ointment and his uniform dusted with bug spray by Umpire Hank Soar.

Newspapers were burned on the mound.

But the gnats kept dive-bombing.

Finally, Sox President Bill Veeck had a fireworks bomb set off on the mound. A loud bang, a puff of white smoke—and the attack was over. The game had been delayed 16 minutes.

The bug warfare temporarily upset Wilhelm. He walked Earl Torgeson and hit Sherm Lollar with a pitch to fill the bases. Larry Doby forced Lollar at second, Fox scoring on the play, and Wilhelm had the first run against him in 23 innings.

Three hits and a fumble by shortstop Chico Carrasquel gave the Sox an unearned run in the fourth.

Baltimore tied the score in the sixth when Whitey Lockman tripled and Bill Klaus hit his first homer of the season.

The Orioles knocked the Sox to third place with their 8th loss in their last 10 starts, wrapped up the decision in the ninth. Successive singles by Willie Tasby, Gene Woodling and Gus Triandos did it.

Jim Bailey of Strawberry Plains, Tenn., won 10 games for Nashville last season. He is the younger brother of Cincinnati catcher Ed Bailey.

Shamrock Green, 1958 Victor Here, Wins At Belmont

Shamrock Green, winner of the feature race and the major portion of the $1,000 purse on Knights of Columbus Day at Fairgo, Sept. 19, 1958, won in faster company yesterday at Belmont Park, New York.

The horse with the Irish name copped the fourth race at the New York track under the guidance of Jockey Johnny Ruane from Ireland and returned $5.20, the same price he paid when he won at Fairgo. Yesterday's race was a $4,000 claimer.

Shamrock Green's win here was by four lengths over Bonnally Boy and apprentice Larry Reynolds was aboard the victor.

Second All-Star Game Approved

MILWAUKEE UPI — A Milwaukee Braves' official said Tuesday players and club owners have approved a second major league All-Star game and tentatively selected Los Angeles as the site.

The game will be held in early August, said Birdie Tebbetts, executive vice president of the Braves, at a press and radio luncheon.

Tebbetts said he believes the two games will be played in American League cities next year, one after the other rather than spread out as they will be this season. After that, the games will be alternated between the two leagues, he said.

Yankees Sign WVU Captain

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —The New York Yankees have signed West Virginia University baseball Capt. Ronnie Retton to a contract which included a $10,000 bonus provision, it was announced Tuesday.

The five-foot-seven inch shortstop will be assigned to the Auburn, N. Y., club in the New York-Pennsylvania League.

A graduate of Fairview High School where he played football, basketball and baseball, Retton won a scholarship to WVU where he starred in basketball and baseball.

Before graduation this year, Retton was named to the All-Southern Conference baseball team for his second straight year. He posted a 1959 batting average of .315.

It's believed his contract with the Yankees is one of the largest ever given a West Virginia college player.

Pony Loop Meets, To Hear Protest

A meeting of the Bi-State Pony Baseball League will be held today at 8 p. m., at Frostburg City Hall to hear a protest by LaVale in their recent game with Lonaconing.

The following players have been signed by league teams:

Lonaconing — Gerald Winters, Thomas Howard James. Frostburg—Robert Harper. Mt. Savage—Gary Miller. LaVale—Gary (Wniters, James, Harper and Hartman are 15-year-olds).

Lonaconing has released Tom Nightengale and Charles Groves while Frostburg has cut loose Kenny Pollock.

Harvey Haddix Scores Shutout Over Cards, 3-0

Buc Lefty Fans Six, 28,644 See Game

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Southpaw Harvey Haddix, making his first appearance since his 12-perfect inning feat, scattered eight hits and struck out six Tuesday night to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-0 shutout over the St. Louis Cardinals.

A crowd of 28,644 gave Haddix a standing ovation at the beginning of the game and stood up and cheered when Bob Skinner took Hal Smith's fly for the last out of the game.

Haddix who lost 1-0 to the Milwaukee Braves in the 13th inning after his historic mound performance, allowed only two walks to the Cardinals in the regularly scheduled game. St. Louis won 3-1 in completing a game suspended last May 3 and finished before Tuesday night's contest.

Stan Musial's second-inning double and Bill White's ninth-inning triple were the only extra - base hits registered by the Cards. The Pirates got their first run in the third inning on Bill Virdon's double and Dick Groat's single. In the next inning they picked up a pair of tallies, one of them coming in on Haddix' single.

Haddix showed no effects from last week's hectic game as his slider and curve ball worked effectively.

Starting pitcher Larry Jackson absorbed his sixth loss against three victories while Haddix brought his chart to 4-3.

Gino Cimoli was ejected from the game in the third inning after he was thrown out at the plate. Cimoli, who had singled, attempted to score on Musial's double but Skinner threw a perfect strike to prevent him from scoring. Cimoli jawed with umpire Augie Donatelli and was ordered out of the game.

Aaron And Haddix Tie For Player Of Month

Each Get 17 Votes; Face Receives Four, Johnny Logan, Two

CINCINNATI (AP)—The hitting of Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves and the pitching of Harvey Haddix of the Pittsburgh Pirates gave them a tie Tuesday for the National League's first Player of the Month award for 1959. The award covers play during May.

League President Warren C. Giles announced Aaron and Haddix each received 17 votes from the 40-man committee of baseball writers and broadcasters who cover league games.

Only two other players received votes—Elroy Face, the Pirates' relief pitching star, got four and two went to Johnny Logan, shortstop for the Braves.

Much of the support given Haddix came as the result of one game—the tilt with Milwaukee on May 26 when he pitched 12 consecutive perfect innings before losing in the 13th.

But the little 33-year-old southpaw did some other good pitching. Although he had only a 2-3 record for May, he completed 4 of the 6 games he started, allowed only 34 hits, walked only 7 and struck out 39. His earned run average was 2.08.

Aaron, the league's leading batter, compiled a .376 average during May. He hit 8 home runs and drove in 31.

Mossi Stops Yanks, 2-0, On Four-Hitter

Detroit Obtains Only Three Hits

DETROIT (AP) — Don Mossi stopped New York on four hits Tuesday night as the Tigers eked out a 2-0 triumph.

Beating the Yankees for the fifth straight time, three times this year, the veteran ex-reliefer checked New York's winning streak at four with the Tigers' first shutout of the campaign.

Three Yankee pitchers yielded only three singles, but fielding blunders by Bill Skowron and wildness on the part of starter Duke Maas contributed to the defeat. Maas walked his way into trouble in the second inning when the Tigers scored their first run, and an error by first baseman Skowron opened the way for the other Tiger run in the third.

Mossi and Gail Harris drove in Detroit's runs with sacrifice flies.

The victory was Detroit's eighth in nine games.

Groza To Coach College Cagers

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Alex Groza, involved in point-shaving scandals while starring for the University of Kentucky, will return to the basketball court next month as coach at Bellarmine Catholic College, it was announced Tuesday.

Msgr. Algred F. Horrigan, president of the college, said the one-time All-America center from Martins Ferry, Ohio, succeeds Gene Kenny, former Notre Dame player who resigned to become head coach at St. Joseph's Prep School at nearby Bardstown.

After leaving UK, Groza conducted a television sports show at Wheeling, W. Va., and only recently applied for a coaching job at Loyola University in New Orleans. Terms of his one-year contract at Bellarmine were not disclosed.

Tom Kelleher, 24, of the Bronx, N. Y., won 21 games for Selma, Ala., last season. His team won the Alabama-Florida League pennant.

Rush Blanks Giants, 2-0

Mathews Belts 17th Home Run

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee's veteran Bob Rush, stopped San Francisco with a masterful five hit shutout Tuesday night as the first-place Braves posted a 3-0 victory to move back into a 2½-game lead over the Giants.

Rush, 33-year-old right hander in his 11th National League season, struck out eight men in his first complete game of the year. He didn't walk a man and didn't allow a San Francisco player to reach second base.

Eddie Mathews hit a first inning pitch for his 17th homer, tops in the National League.

The Braves added two more runs in the fifth on San Francisco starter Stu Miller to insure their victory.

Hank Aaron, the National League batting leader, had two doubles and a single, plus an intentional walk to boost his average nine points to .424.

Senators Top Cleveland On Homer In 10th

Samford Connects, Ramos Winner, 3-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ronnie Samford hit a 10th inning home run for Washington to give the Senators a 3-2 victory over the league-leading Cleveland Indians Tuesday night. Pedro Ramos went the route with a seven-hitter.

The loss, the Indians' fourth straight, marked their longest losing spell of the season.

Bob Allison homered for Washington and Vic Power for Cleveland, both with none aboard. For eight innings, Ramos and Jim (Mudcat) Grant dueled in the speedy game, which took only two hours. Grant was lifted for a pinchhitter when Cleveland tied the score 2-2 in the eighth on a walk, a double and a sacrifice fly by Power.

Bud Podbielan was the loser, his first decision. Ramos won his sixth against five losses. He struck out eight and walked only one.

Joe Brown 3-1 Choice Over Rosi

Lightweight Title Bout Set Tonight At Uline Arena

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joe Brown, one of the slickest ring workmen in years, was a 3-1 favorite Tuesday to whip Paolo Rosi in his seventh lightweight title defense. Brown puts his championship at stake Wednesday night when he takes on Rosi, the balding import from Italy, in a nationally televised 15-rounder at Uline Arena (ABC, 9 p.m. EST).

A crowd of 6,000 or so is expected to witness the capital's first championship bout in 18 years.

Tale Of Tape For Title Go

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Here's the tale-of-the-tape for Wednesday's Joe Brown - Paolo Rosi lightweight championship fight.

Win or lose, the 33-year-old Brown will get 40 per cent of the gate and the same share of a $40,000 TV fee. Rosi signed for 20 per cent.

Both are expected to weigh within ounces of the 135-pound limit.

Rosi, 31, currently ranks third, behind Kenny Lane and Carlos Ortiz, among lightweight contenders.

Paolo throws a savage left hook and has kayed 13 of his 31 victims in 36 fights. He has lost four and had one draw.

Brown enters his 100th scrap with a 72-16-9 record plus 2 ruled no contest. He has kayed 32 and been stopped 3 times.

British Bantam Champion Wins

WEMBLEY, England (UPI)— Freddie Gilroy of Ireland, the British and Empire bantamweight champion, outpointed Philippine champion Al Asuncion in a 10-round crowd-pleasing bout at the Empire Pool Tuesday night.

The baby-faced Northern Irelander's vicious hooking tactics seemed to worry the Filipino in the early stages of the bout and Asuncion did not get rolling until the fifth round.

Then Gilroy had to be more cautious. His early spoling tactics failed to wear down the tough Filipino, who after the fifth round started to give Gilroy some of his own medicine.

Jim O'Toole, Reds' Hurler, Injured

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim O'Toole, rookie bonus pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, was injured early Tuesday when his automobile struck a utility pole.

O'Toole suffered facial lacerations. Miss Carol Sacurella, Cincinnati model who was with O'Toole, suffered a cut knee and back and chest injuries.

Police charged O'Toole with reckless driving.

WOW Could Stop 6-Year Reign Of Legion Shufflers

The six-year reign of Farrady Post, American Legion, Frostburg, in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League is seriously threatened as the Mountain City team awaits the last three games of its six-game series with the Cumberland W.O.W., set for tonight at 8:30 in Frostburg.

Last week the Woodmen of the World got away to a flying start in the title set by capturing the first three games by the margin of 22 points, 73-51. If Farrady Post can overcome that 22-point handicap tonight the title is theirs for the 7th year in a row.

Third place in the playoffs also will be determined tonight when the Golden Nugget of Frostburg hosts Hann's Tavern in the last three games of their series. Golden Nugget held a 7-point lead at the end of three games, 74-67.

35th Annual Babst Award Will Be Presented Friday

Hazelwood Award 19th And Rapplier Is In 22nd Year

Outstanding athletes at four Allegany County high schools will receive special awards at graduation exercises Thursday, Friday and Sunday.

The oldest of all sports awards in the county is that instituted by Charles E. Babst, Allegany High School alumnus, in 1925. This is the 35th year that Mr. Babst, an employe of the Celanese Corporation of America in North Carolina, will donate a gold wrist watch to the boy chosen as the top student-athlete at the Allegany High commencement program Friday night.

Beall High School's Varsity Club Award marks its 21st birthday on Friday and this will be the 19th year for the George F. Hazelwood Award at Fort Hill High School on Thursday.

This is the twenty-second year for the Rapplier Club Award at LaSalle High School. This attractive plaque, donated by the Rapplier Club, composed of members of the graduating class of 1933, will be presented at LaSalle's 50th commencement on Sunday night at Carroll Hall. The past award winners:

McDaniel Stars In Relief Rolé

Stops Pittsburgh, St. Louis Wins, 3-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Big Lindy McDaniel came on in relief Tuesday night to hold the Pittsburgh Pirates scoreless for three innings and insure a 3-1 victory for the St. Louis Cardinals. The game was the completion of a suspended May 3 contest and preceded Tuesday night's regular game.

McDaniel gave up only one hit in his three innings. The lone hit came in the seventh inning, a looping single into center field by Dick Groat.

Gary Blaylock, who started the game, garnered his third victory of the season against three defeats.

The Cards tallied an insurance run in the eighth inning off relief hurler Al Jackson. Bobby Gene Smith doubled to left field, went to third on a sacrifice and scored on Hal Smith's single.

The Cardinals held a 2-1 lead over the Pirates when the game was called.

Ward Cops Lead In Point Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Roger Ward's 500-mile victory Saturday gave him a 200-point lead toward the 1959 national racing championship, the U.S. Auto Club announced Tuesday.

Ward had been tied with Jim Rathmann of Miami, who won a 100-mile race at Daytona Beach, Fla., in April. Ward now has 1,320 points. Rathmann, who finished second here, has 1,120.

Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., the defending national champion, held onto third at 800 by finishing fourth here.

Twin Bill Set Today In Frostburg League

Frostburg Little League teams will play a doubleheader today as a result of rain washing out yesterday's game between the Eagles and K. of C.

At 5 p. m., the Eagles will play the K. of C., and in the second game the Rotary Club will meet the Republican Club.

Thursday at 5 p. m., the Eagles will battle the Lions.

Game Rescheduled

The Pen-Mar Little League game yesterday between Tri-State Memorial and the LaVale Maroons was postponed on account of rain and has been rescheduled for today at 6:15 p. m., at LaVale.

Two American Owned Horses Vie In Derby

Dan Cupid, Arvak Run At Epsom Today

EPSOM, England (UPI) — Two American-owned horses, both longshots, were listed Tuesday night among the 20 three-year-olds expected to match strides Wednesday in the 180th and richest running of the English Derby.

Dan Cupid, owned by Mrs. P.A.B. Widener of Philadelphia, was about 20-1 in the final callover of odds while Arvak, representing Mrs. Josephine Bay Paul of New York, was 33-1 for the famed mile and one-half event.

Royalty To Attend

Queen Elizabeth, the Duke of Edinburgh, Princess Margaret and other members of the royal family will witness the race along with an estimated 250,000 English "punters." The event annually attracts world wide interest because it is used to determine winners in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes.

The gross value of this latest renewal of the derby, which dates back to 1780, will be 42,680 pounds sterling ($119,504). The winning owner will receive 20,487 pounds ($57,536).

Prince Aly Kahn, who sent out the winners of Britain's first two classic winners earlier this year, has another hot hand for the derby. He will be represented by Princillon, the favorite at 7-1 odds, and Saint Crespin III, the fourth choice at 10-1.

England's hope of winning the famed blue ribbon of the turf rests with three horses, Carnoustie, Fidalgo and Parthia. Each was quoted at 10 to 1 in pre-race betting.

Queen's Entry Is 22-1

Most fans are hoping Queen Elizabeth will enjoy good luck in her effort to win this third of the five classic horse races. But if her entry — Above Suspicion, a 22 to 1 shot—gets home first it will be one of the biggest upsets for many seasons. The colt has shown anything but classic form in his outings this year.

Sugar Will Not Be Reinstated By NBA

MULLENS, W. Va. UPI—Sugar Ray Robinson will not be reinstated as middleweight champion despite the New York State Athletic Commission's decision to permit him to keep his title, the president of the National Boxing Assn. said here Tuesday.

Commenting on the commission's decision, Dr. Ward Wylie said he had no knowledge of any contract being signed between Robinson and Carmen Basilio for a title bout in Philadelphia next September.

North Fork Plays CCC Golf Team

Johnstown Team Is Here Today

The men's golf team of the Cumberland Country Club will play its first home match of the season today when it faces the linksmen of the North Fork Country Club of Johnstown, Pa., over the Christie Road layout at 1 p. m., following a luncheon at noon.

Cumberland played its first match away from home and upset Fountain Head Country Club at Hagerstown by the score of 41 to 31.

North Fork is scheduled to play two matches with the CCC team this season, the return affair being set for August 12.

Rain yesterday washed out the Frank Martin Trophy Tournament of the Women's Golf Association and the annual handicap event has been reset for next Tuesday.

National Golf Day will be observed at the Cumberland Country Club this weekend and men and women golfers will try to tie or beat the score of the winner in the match between Tommy Bolt, National Open champion, and Dow Finsterwald, PGA champion, who are scheduled to meet Saturday at the Happy Hollow Country Club, Omaha, Neb.

The Men's Golf Association will hold a Mixed Scotch Foursome Twilight Tournament Friday at 4 p. m., while on Sunday a pro-am tournament is scheduled.

Del Rice Suffers Fracture Of Leg

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Catcher Del Rice of the Milwaukee Braves suffered a fracture of the left leg when he was hit hard by Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants sliding home in the eighth inning of Monday night's game.

X-rays showed the fracture just above the ankle.

Keech's To Practice

Keech's Drug Stores team of the Rec Softball League will practice today at 5:30 p. m., at Celanese Field. Holdovers and others seeking tryouts are urged to attend.

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, with 253 victories already on the books, is shooting for a career total of 300—last achieved in the majors by Lefty Grove in 1941.

And Lefty will tell you the first 300 were the easiest. It's No. 301 that kills you. Grove never did get that one.

The magnitude of Lefty's achievement — or of Spahn's goal —shouldn't be dismissed so lightly for only 12 pitchers in all of baseball history have done it. Grove and Eddie Plank were the only left-handers.

But for Grove, No. 301, proved highly elusive. On July 25, 1941, pitching for the Red Sox against the Indians, Lefty picked up No. 300 with a 10-6 victory aided by a two-run homer by Jimmy Foxx that got him out of a hole. The decision made Grove 7-4 for the year.

Lefty went out six more times in quest of old 301. Three times he was beaten. In the other three, he had no decision.

Called It Quits

Then came Pearl Harbor and Grove decided to call it quits on a rich baseball career, "though I'm sure I could have won a few more ball games."

At 41, the rigors of training and heavy campaigning — though he worked usually but once a week —were more than Bob cared to tackle.

Spahn, 38, well could hit 300 and maybe even 301 for, unlike Grove, the talented Braves southpaw never has been plagued by arm trouble.

Grove, in his early days, strictly was a fast-baller and, he says, "sooner or later arm trouble comes to every fastball pitcher. It just has to happen."

When Lefty got his in 1938, he abruptly changed his style from pitching with his arm to the "head and heart" routine that has saved many of the great ones from baseball's boneyard.

Uses Everything

Spahn has been using head and heart as well as his arm for years. His only major ailments have been with his knees, not his pitching arm, and both knees now are sound.

No pitcher knows more about National League hitters than does Spahnie and he's a joy to watch at work, winning or losing. He teases, cajoles and baits a hitter but with speed on the ball and not what the hitters call "junk."

Under normal conditions, Spahn figures he can last another two or three years but regards a 20-game season this year as essential to his 300-victory ambition.

If he adds 20 this year, it'll be his 10th at 20 or more. And not even Grove did that.

Reds To Test Hyndman's High Scoring Team

A team that has scored 45 runs in its last three games will be angling for its fourth straight win today when the Hyndman Merchants (8-1) tackle the Reds at Centerville, Pa., in a Pen-Mar Baseball League battle.

Hyndman, leading the league by one game over Barrelville, has beaten Mt. Savage 14-5, Wellersburg 23-1 and Grantsville 8-2 in its last three outings and will be gunning for its second win of the season over Barrelville. The score of the series opener was 5-2.

Barrelville (7-2) will play the Sluggers at Grantsville, Mt. Savage entertains Flintstone's Aggies and Salisbury plays at Wellersburg in other Wednesday twilight games at 6 o'clock.

All games are scheduled to get under way at 6 p. m.

Joe Brown 3-1 Choice Over Rosi

Lightweight Title Bout Set Tonight At Uline Arena

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joe Brown, one of the slickest ring workmen in years, was a 3-1 favorite Tuesday to whip Paolo Rosi in his seventh lightweight title defense. Brown puts his championship at stake Wednesday night when he takes on Rosi, the balding import from Italy, in a nationally televised 15-rounder at Uline Arena (ABC, 9 p.m. EST).

A crowd of 6,000 or so is expected to witness the capital's first championship bout in 18 years.

SWING OF A CHAMPION—You are looking at the windup of a swing by Deane Beman, the collegiate golfer from Maryland who now holds the British amateur championship. Beman, 21, of Silver Spring, Md., attends University of Maryland.

Tale Of Tape For Title Go

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Here's the tale-of-the-tape for Wednesday's Joe Brown - Paolo Rosi lightweight championship fight.

BROWN		ROSI
33 yrs.	Age	31 yrs.
5 ft. 7½ in	Height	5 ft. 7 in.
134½ lbs.	Weight	134½ lbs.
68 in.	Reach	68 in.
35 in.	Chest	37½ in.
27 in.	Waist	29 in.
14½ in.	Forearm	15 in.
11 in.	Fist	12 in.
12½ in.	Biceps	13 in.
14½ in.	Neck	15 in.
18¾ in.	Thigh	20 in.
12¼ in.	Calf	13 in.
9 in.	Ankle	9 in.
6½ in.	Wrist	7 in.

Win or lose, the 33-year-old Brown will get 40 per cent of the gate and the same share of a $40,000 TV fee. Rosi signed for 20 per cent.

Both are expected to weigh within ounces of the 135-pound limit.

Rosi, 31, currently ranks third, behind Kenny Lane and Carlos Ortiz, among lightweight contenders.

Paolo throws a savage left hook and has kayed 13 of his 31 victims in 36 fights. He has lost four and had one draw.

Brown enters his 100th scrap with a 72-16-9 record plus 2 ruled no contest. He has kayed 32 and been stopped 3 times.

British Bantam Champion Wins

WEMBLEY, England (UPI)— Freddie Gilroy of Ireland, the British and Empire bantamweight champion, outpointed Philippine champion Al Asuncion in a 10-round crowd-pleasing bout at the Empire Pool Tuesday night.

The baby-faced Northern Irelander's vicious hooking tactics seemed to worry the Filipino in the early stages of the bout and Asuncion did not get rolling until the fifth round.

Then Gilroy had to be more cautious. His early spoling tactics failed to wear down the tough Filipino, who after the fifth round started to give Gilroy some of his own medicine.

Jim O'Toole, Reds' Hurler, Injured

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim O'Toole, rookie bonus pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds, was injured early Tuesday when his automobile struck a utility pole.

O'Toole suffered facial lacerations. Miss Carol Sacurella, Cincinnati model who was with O'Toole, suffered a cut knee and back and chest injuries.

Police charged O'Toole with reckless driving.

WOW Could Stop 6-Year Reign Of Legion Shufflers

The six-year reign of Farrady Post, American Legion, Frostburg, in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League is seriously threatened as the Mountain City team awaits the last three games of its six-game series with the Cumberland W.O.W., set for tonight at 8:30 in Frostburg.

Last week the Woodmen of the World got away to a flying start in the title set by capturing the first three games by the margin of 22 points, 73-51. If Farrady Post can overcome that 22-point handicap tonight the title is theirs for the 7th year in a row.

Third place in the playoffs also will be determined tonight when the Golden Nugget of Frostburg hosts Hann's Tavern in the last three games of their series. Golden Nugget held a 7-point lead at the end of three games, 74-67.

Twilight League To Meet Tonight

The Twilight Baseball League will hold a meeting today at 7:30 p. m., at Eddie's Place in Piedmont.

League teams have signed the following players:

35th Annual Babst Award Will Be Presented Friday

Hazelwood Award 19th And Rapplier Is In 22nd Year

Outstanding athletes at four Allegany County high schools will receive special awards at graduation exercises Thursday, Friday and Sunday.

The oldest of all sports awards in the county is that instituted by Charles E. Babst, Allegany High School alumnus, in 1925. This is the 35th year that Mr. Babst, an employe of the Celanese Corporation of America in North Carolina, will donate a gold wrist watch to the boy chosen as the top student-athlete at the Allegany High commencement program Friday night.

Beall High School's Varsity Club Award marks its 21st birthday on Friday and this will be the 19th year for the George F. Hazelwood Award at Fort Hill High School on Thursday.

This is the twenty-second year for the Rapplier Club Award at LaSalle High School. This attractive plaque, donated by the Rapplier Club, composed of members of the graduating class of 1933, will be presented at LaSalle's 50th commencement on Sunday night at Carroll Hall. The past award winners:

McDaniel Stars In Relief Rolé

Stops Pittsburgh, St. Louis Wins, 3-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Big Lindy McDaniel came on in relief Tuesday night to hold the Pittsburgh Pirates scoreless for three innings and insure a 3-1 victory for the St. Louis Cardinals. The game was the completion of a suspended May 3 contest and preceded Tuesday night's regular game.

McDaniel gave up only one hit in his three innings. The lone hit came in the seventh inning, a looping single into center field by Dick Groat.

Gary Blaylock, who started the game, garnered his third victory of the season against three defeats.

The Cards tallied an insurance run in the eighth inning off relief hurler Al Jackson. Bobby Gene Smith doubled to left field, went to third on a sacrifice and scored on Hal Smith's single.

The Cardinals held a 2-1 lead over the Pirates when the game was called.

Rain yesterday washed out the Frank Martin Trophy Tournament of the Women's Golf Association and the annual handicap event has been reset for next Tuesday.

National Golf Day will be observed at the Cumberland Country Club this weekend and men and women golfers will try to tie or beat the score of the winner in the match between Tommy Bolt, National Open champion, and Dow Finsterwald, PGA champion, who are scheduled to meet Saturday at the Happy Hollow Country Club, Omaha, Neb.

The Men's Golf Association will hold a Mixed Scotch Foursome Twilight Tournament Friday at 4 p. m., while on Sunday a pro-am tournament is scheduled.

Del Rice Suffers Fracture Of Leg

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Catcher Del Rice of the Milwaukee Braves suffered a fracture of the left leg when he was hit hard by Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants sliding home in the eighth inning of Monday night's game.

X-rays showed the fracture just above the ankle.

Keech's To Practice

Keech's Drug Stores team of the Rec Softball League will practice today at 5:30 p. m., at Celanese Field. Holdovers and others seeking tryouts are urged to attend.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, with 253 victories already on the books, is shooting for a career total of 300—last achieved in the majors by Lefty Grove in 1941.

And Lefty will tell you the first 300 were the easiest. It's No. 301 that kills you. Grove never did get that one.

The magnitude of Lefty's achievement — or of Spahn's goal —shouldn't be dismissed so lightly for only 12 pitchers in all of baseball history have done it. Grove and Eddie Plank were the only left-handers.

But for Grove, No. 301, proved highly elusive. On July 25, 1941, pitching for the Red Sox against the Indians, Lefty picked up No. 300 with a 10-6 victory aided by a two-run homer by Jimmy Foxx that got him out of a hole. The decision made Grove 7-4 for the year.

Lefty went out six more times in quest of old 301. Three times he was beaten. In the other three, he had no decision.

Called It Quits

Then came Pearl Harbor and Grove decided to call it quits on a rich baseball career, "though I'm sure I could have won a few more ball games."

At 41, the rigors of training and heavy campaigning — though he worked usually but once a week —were more than Bob cared to tackle.

Spahn, 38, well could hit 300 and maybe even 301 for, unlike Grove, the talented Braves southpaw never has been plagued by arm trouble.

Grove, in his early days, strictly was a fast-baller and, he says, "sooner or later arm trouble comes to every fastball pitcher. It just has to happen."

When Lefty got his in 1938, he abruptly changed his style from pitching with his arm to the "head and heart" routine that has saved many of the great ones from baseball's boneyard.

Uses Everything

Spahn has been using head and heart as well as his arm for years. His only major ailments have been with his knees, not his pitching arm, and both knees now are sound.

No pitcher knows more about National League hitters than does Spahnie and he's a joy to watch at work, winning or losing. He teases, cajoles and baits a hitter but with speed on the ball and not what the hitters call "junk."

Under normal conditions, Spahn figures he can last another two or three years but regards a 20-game season this year as essential to his 300-victory ambition.

If he adds 20 this year, it'll be his 10th at 20 or more. And not even Grove did that.

Reds To Test Hyndman's High Scoring Team

A team that has scored 45 runs in its last three games will be angling for its fourth straight win today when the Hyndman Merchants (8-1) tackle the Reds at Centerville, Pa., in a Pen-Mar Baseball League battle.

Hyndman, leading the league by one game over Barrelville, has beaten Mt. Savage 14-5, Wellersburg 23-1 and Grantsville 8-2 in its last three outings and will be gunning for its second win of the season over Barrelville. The score of the series opener was 5-2.

Barrelville (7-2) will play the Sluggers at Grantsville, Mt. Savage entertains Flintstone's Aggies and Salisbury plays at Wellersburg in other Wednesday twilight games at 6 o'clock.

All games are scheduled to get under way at 6 p. m.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—It took "Let No Man Write My Epitaph" to get Shelley Winters away from "A Piece of Blue Sky," the stage play she's been trying out in the East for several months. Sam Briskin, head of Columbia, gave her a contract for Willard Motley's "Let No Man Write My Epitaph," dramatic novel about Chicago, and Shelley will play a young skid-row mother.

Previously she had been mentioned for "Jovanka," and since her movie "Diary of Anne Frank" she's had many movie offers but she's preferred working like a trouper with the play which she still hopes will open on Broadway.

The script of "Epitaph" has been written by Robert Presnell, Jr., and Boris D. Kaplan is slated as the producer.

With a complete disregard for the cost of a long-distance call from Australia, Sal Mineo talked to me for fully 30 minutes. He said that he gets his way and will play Gene Krupa as a married man. "If they made Krupa an unmarried man, I wouldn't have reported for work but would have gone on to Tokyo," said Sal—but with a laugh. I don't really think he would give up this part, he wants to do it so much.

Sal went on to tell me to tell his Hollywood tailor that he owes him three new tuxedos. He said the tailor had said the coats would stand wear and tear, but all three of them were torn off his back by the eager Australian fans. He said that down under they love American movie stars and went all out to prove it.

Right from the set of "Suddenly Last Summer" I hear that Monty Clift is fighting Joe Mankiewicz on every scene. He's being very temperamental. They're all hopping—Joe, Sam Spiegel and the rest—that when his pal, Elizabeth Taylor, turns up for work she'll be able to keep him in line. I hear that Liz won't work though for two weeks because she's been put on a strict diet—she still has some weight to lose.

Spiegel, by the way, will do "The Story of Gandhi" next year in India. He has signed Alec Guinness to star and David Lean to direct.

The former Lisa Ferraday, now married to John W. Anderson and living in Grosse Pointe, Mich., writes to say that she and her husband are just back from Europe. In London, Cary Grant, Dan Dailey, Laurence Harvey and his wife, Margaret Leighton, Jack Lemmon, Camille Williams, who is Dan Dailey's dancing partner and one of Debbie Reynolds' closest friends, and Johnny Meyer were all at a dinner given for them at Les Ambassadeurs.

She said that Johnny Meyer said he still loves his wife Diane and their baby, and he would do anything to keep their marriage together. Lisa said that all during the seven days they saw him in London they never saw him with a date. He was always alone and always unhappy. She said Dan Dailey has just finished the "Four Just Men" TV series and is talking about doing another one.

Just as Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher were being besieged by London reporters, there were announcements of the present Mrs. Michael Wilding's jewels being sold at Christy's. The current Mrs. Wilding (the former Susan Nell), said she has been robbed twice and doesn't want to keep up the insurance on what she has left. She will wear only what jewelry Wilding has given her.

When Elizabeth was interviewed she said after two or three more pictures she wants only to be a wife and mother—exactly what she said when she was in London with Mike Todd.

The $100 a plate command performance dinner-dance June 13 for the City o' Hope has a big show lined up. Producer-Director Bernie Wiesen promises Pearl Bailey and her entire company (they open at the Cocoanut Grove two nights later), Harold Stern and his violins, Lester Horton Dancers, Agnes Moorhead, Jan Clayton, Johnny Green, Judith Anderson, Theodore Bikel, Joe Moshay's orchestra with George Jessel as toastmaster. The place—the Beverly Hills Hotel.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	2 NT.
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	3 NT.
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♦.

Today's hand presents an interesting application of the hold-up play. Lack of familiarity with the card combinations led to declarer's downfall.

The final contract of three no trump was not the best. With the North hand, our preference would have been to carry on to four hearts, for South's repeated no trump bids are negative responses and do not guarantee stoppers in all unbid suits.

West opened his fourth best diamond and East's ace captured dummy's jack. The eight of diamonds was returned. South covered with the queen but West refused the trick, permitting East to retain a diamond in his hand should he be able to obtain the lead again. Declarer then tried the heark finesse and when it lost to East, the diamond return permitted West to run enough tricks to set the contract.

South could have prevented this disaster by pausing to ask the time worn question, "What do I fear?" The answer would be, "That East has the king of hearts and that there is a five card diamond suit out against me." That West has a five card diamond suit seems likely from the fact that East returned the eight.

Since the queen and ten of diamonds constitute one stopper whether taken now or a minute later, and since South could well afford to lose three diamond tricks, he should have refused to cover the eight. In this way he would have succeeded in exhausting East of diamonds. Then when the heart finesse was taken, its loss would cause South no concern. If East should happen to have another diamond, it would mean that there was only a four card suit out against declarer originally.

Corle Scores At Delaware

Riversun Returns $33.20 In Feature

STANTON, Del., June 2 (AP)—Lightly regarded Riversun won the featured Beaugy Purse at Delaware Park with a hard stretch run that barely nipped Marauder at the wire of the one mile run.

Marauder tired badly in the stretch on the sloppy track but still had five lengths to spare over the favored Derrick.

Riversun, under Jockey Robert E. Corle, returned $33.20, $10.80 and $4.40. Marauder under Jockey Dick Lawless paid $5.20 and $2.80 and Derrick with Jockey Bill Hartack in the saddle returned $2.40 for his third place finish in the field of eight three year olds.

Marauder took the early lead and stretched his margin to five lengths at the half pole over Jennie's Joy. At this point Corle made his move. Jennie's Joy faded and Derrick moved into third by a neck at the wire.

Riversun, owned by Walter Crismer, ran the distance in 1:38 4/5.

25,642 Nonpaying Customers Attend Races At Suffolk

BOSTON, June 2 (AP)—Jockey Phil Grimm, New England's leading rider, added three more victories to his skein today at Suffolk Downs before a crowd of 25,642 nonpaying customers. It was open house day.

Grimm's third winner of a nasty rainy matinee was Jim Carr's Glory Union in the featured seventh race, styled the Adams Purse.

Glory Union was the third favorite to succeed paying $8.00, $4.60 and $3.00. Good G. returned $6.20 and $4.00 while Ruffjohn paid $3.40 to show.

The victory for Grimm followed successful rides on Eddie Sue $19.20 and Knife $14.80. The Pennsylvania-born rider now has 47 winners in 38 days at Suffolk Downs.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—It took "Let No Man Write My Epitaph" to get Shelley Winters away from "A Piece of Blue Sky," the stage play she's been trying out in the East for several months. Sam Briskin, head of Columbia, gave her a contract for Willard Motley's "Let No Man Write My Epitaph," dramatic novel about Chicago, and Shelley will play a young skid-row mother.

Previously she had been mentioned for "Jovanka," and since her movie "Diary of Anne Frank" she's had many movie offers but she's preferred working like a trouper with the play which she still hopes will open on Broadway.

The script of "Epitaph" has been written by Robert Presnell, Jr., and Boris D. Kaplan is slated as the producer.

With a complete disregard for the cost of a long-distance call from Australia, Sal Mineo talked to me for fully 30 minutes. He said that he gets his way and will play Gene Krupa as a married man. "If they made Krupa an unmarried man, I wouldn't have reported for work but would have gone on to Tokyo," said Sal—but with a laugh. I don't really think he would give up this part, he wants to do it so much.

Sal went on to tell me to tell his Hollywood tailor that he owes him three new tuxedos. He said the tailor had said the coats would stand wear and tear, but all three of them were torn off his back by the eager Australian fans. He said that down under they love American movie stars and went all out to prove it.

Right from the set of "Suddenly Last Summer" I hear that Monty Clift is fighting Joe Mankiewicz on every scene. He's being very temperamental. They're all hoping—Joe, Sam Spiegel and the rest—that when his pal, Elizabeth Taylor, turns up for work she'll be able to keep him in line. I hear that Liz won't work though for two weeks because she's been put on a strict diet—she still has some weight to lose.

Spiegel, by the way, will do "The Story of Gandhi" next year in India. He has signed Alec Guinness to star and David Lean to direct.

The former Lisa Ferraday, now married to John W. Anderson and living in Grosse Pointe, Mich., writes to say that she and her husband are just back from Europe. In London, Cary Grant, Dan Dailey, Laurence Harvey and his wife, Margaret Leighton, Jack Lemmon, Camille Williams, who is Dan Dailey's dancing partner and one of Debbie Reynolds' closest friends, and Johnny Meyer were all at a dinner given for them at Les Ambassadeurs.

She said that Johnny Meyer said he still loves his wife Diane and their baby, and he would do anything to keep their marriage together. Lisa said that all during the seven days they saw him in London they never saw him with a date. He was always alone and always unhappy. She said Dan Dailey has just finished the "Four Just Men" TV series and is talking about doing another one.

Just as Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher were being besieged by London reporters, there were announcements of the present Mrs. Michael Wilding's jewels being sold at Christy's. The current Mrs. Wilding (the former Susan Nell), said she has been robbed twice and doesn't want to keep up the insurance on what she has left. She will wear only what jewelry Wilding has given her.

When Elizabeth was interviewed she said after two or three more pictures she wants only to be a wife and mother—exactly what she said when she was in London with Mike Todd.

The $100 a plate command performance dinner-dance June 13 for the City of Hope has a big show lined up. Producer-Director Bernie Wiesen promises Pearl Bailey and her entire company (they open at the Cocoanut Grove two nights later), Harold Stern and his violins, Lester Horton Dancers, Agnes Moorhead, Jan Clayton, Johnny Green, Judith Anderson, Theodore Bikel, Joe Moshay's orchestra with George Jessel as toastmaster. The place—the Beverly Hills Hotel.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	2 NT.
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	3 NT.
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♦.

Today's hand presents an interesting application of the hold-up play. Lack of familiarity with the card combinations led to declarer's downfall.

The final contract of three no trump was not the best. With the North hand, our preference would have been to carry on to four hearts, for South's repeated no trump bids are negative responses and do not guarantee stoppers in all unbid suits.

West opened his fourth best diamond and East's ace captured dummy's jack. The eight of diamonds was returned. South covered with the queen but West refused the trick, permitting East to retain a diamond in his hand should he be able to obtain the lead again. Declarer then tried the heart finesse and when it lost to East, the diamond return permitted West to run enough tricks to set the contract.

South could have prevented this disaster by pausing to ask the time worn question, "What do I fear?" The answer would be, "That East has the king of hearts and that there is a five card diamond suit out against me." That West has a five card diamond suit seems likely from the fact that East returned the eight.

Since the queen and ten of diamonds constitute one stopper whether taken now or a minute later, and since South could well afford to lose three diamond tricks, he should have refused to cover the eight. In this way he would have succeeded in exhausting East of diamonds. Then when the heart finesse was taken, its loss would cause South no concern. If East should happen to have another diamond, it would mean that there was only a four card suit out against declarer originally.

Corle Scores At Delaware

Riversun Returns $33.20 In Feature

STANTON, Del., June 2 (AP)—Lightly regarded Riversun won the featured Beaugy Purse at Delaware Park with a hard stretch run that barely nipped Marauder at the wire of the one mile run.

Marauder tired badly in the stretch on the sloppy track but still had five lengths to spare over the favored Derrick.

Riversun, under Jockey Robert E. Corle, returned $33.20, $10.80 and $4.40. Marauder under Jockey Dick Lawless paid $5.20 and $2.80 and Derrick with Jockey Bill Hartack in the saddle returned $2.40 for his third place finish in the field of eight three year olds.

Marauder took the early lead and stretched his margin to five lengths at the half pole over Jennie's Joy. At this point Corle made his move. Jennie's Joy faded and Derrick moved into third by a neck at the wire.

Riversun, owned by Walter Crismer, ran the distance in 1:38 4/5.

25,642 Nonpaying Customers Attend Races At Suffolk

BOSTON, June 2 (AP)—Jockey Phil Grimm, New England's leading rider, added three more victories to his skein today at Suffolk Downs before a crowd of 25,642 nonpaying customers. It was open house day.

Grimm's third winner of a nasty rainy matinee was Jim Carr's Glory Union in the featured seventh race, styled the Adams Purse.

Glory Union was the third favorite to succeed paying $8.00, $4.60 and $3.00. Good G. returned $6.20 and $4.00 while Ruffjohn paid $3.40 to show.

The victory for Grimm followed successful rides on Eddie Sue $19.20 and Knife $14.80. The Pennsylvania-born rider now has 47 winners in 38 days at Suffolk Downs.

Search For Bandits

WARSAW (UPI)—Polish radio broadcast a nationwide alarm Tuesday for three bandits who shot and killed a post office guard and wounded another guard in a $25,000 robbery of a postal truck in central Warsaw.

The three men halted the truck at gunpoint near one of the capital's main squares. They opened fire on the guards after they had refused to hand over some 600,000 zlotys ($25,000) in cash. The bandits then seized the cash and fled.

BURNED OUT — Forlornly scanning the ashes of the Pines Hotel, a Fire Island, N. Y., landmark, is Fiona, three-year-old-whippet who was mascot in a section of the resort where scores of writers, artists and advertising men spend their summers. The resort hotel was burned to the ground.

W.Va. Reports Two New Polio Cases

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Health Department said Tuesday two new cases of polio were reported last week in West Virginia, raising the total to 15 for the year.

One of the new cases, in Fayette County, was of a paralytic nature, the department said. The other was in Raleigh County.

West Virginia reported only six cases of the crippling disease for a similar period in 1958.

The number of influenza - like diseases also dipped sharply last week with only 84 reported compared to 156 the previous week. However, the total for the year is 26,130 compared to 8,530 for the corresponding period last year.

Winners Listed

MT. SAVAGE—The GN Card Club of Calla Hill met recently at the home of Mrs. Thelma Green. Refreshments were served and prizes won by Mrs. Freda McKenzie, Mrs. Louise Herring and Mrs. Maude Holsinger. Mrs. Freda Rice and Mrs. Louise Herring were guests of the club. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bertha Hott on June 11.

CD Of A Sponsors Benefit Tonight

MT. SAVAGE — The monthly card party sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in St. Patrick's hall. Only 500 will be played.

Miss Mary Murray is chairlady of the affair and will be assisted by Miss Coleta McNamee, Mrs. Anastacia McGann, Mrs. Betty Ann Gracie, Mrs. Eleanor DuVall, Mrs. Susan Crump, and Miss Martha Reagan.

Children Aid Fire Company

LONACONING — Central School students in their presentation of the operetta "Space Saucer X-2000" for the Good Will Fire Company No. 1 building fund, netted $106.85.

This amount has been given to the Lonaconing Fire Company to help in their plans of building a new fire house on Main Street.

Compensation Set

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — The legislative Yuan (parliament) Tuesday passed the first Nationalist Chinese law providing compensation to persons falsely arrested or convicted.

The bill had been before parliament for nearly eight years. It provides for compensation through court action in cases of wrongful arrest, detention or conviction.

Compensation also may be claimed by heirs of persons wrongly executed or who die while serving terms based on false conviction.

Pilgrimage Planned

LOURDES, France (UPI)— More than 30,000 servicemen from 11 countries, including the United States, will take part in a three-day military pilgraimage to this Roman Catholic shrine this weekend.

The soldiers will arrive in 29 special trains and several chartered planes. Participating will be troops from France, Germany, Belgium, Spain, Holland, Chile, Venezuela, Austria, Norway and Denmark as well as the United States.

Oakland Couple Home From Cruise

OAKLAND—Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, 53 Wilson Street, here, have returned from a five-week vacation in Hawaii on the Imperial Shrine Cruise. While in San Francisco they visited Mrs. Naylor's brother, Robert H. Porter. Returning home they visited Los Vegas, Grand Canyon and a friend of Mrs. Naylor in Cheyenne, Wyoming.

State Building Sought By County

An effort is being made to attempt to have the new State Department of Motor Vehicles building erected in Allegany County.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has passed a motion to request the State Board of Public Works to consider a site in this county for the new building.

There has been some discussion about having the new building in Anne Arundel County, but the price of the land at $12,500 an acre is involved. The Allegany County board feels that a site here would remove the building from the congested Baltimore metropolitan area and at the same time provide a boost to the local economy.

Search For Bandits

WARSAW (UPI)—Polish radio broadcast a nationwide alarm Tuesday for three bandits who shot and killed a post office guard and wounded another guard in a $25,000 robbery of a postal truck in central Warsaw.

The three men halted the truck at gunpoint near one of the capital's main squares. They opened fire on the guards after they had refused to hand over some 600,000 zlotys ($25,000) in cash. The bandits then seized the cash and fled.

BURNED OUT — Forlornly scanning the ashes of the Pines Hotel, a Fire Island, N. Y., landmark, is Fiona, three-year-old-whippet who was mascot in a section of the resort where scores of writers, artists and advertising men spend their summers. The resort hotel was burned to the ground.

W.Va. Reports Two New Polio Cases

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Health Department said Tuesday two new cases of polio were reported last week in West Virginia, raising the total to 15 for the year.

One of the new cases, in Fayette County, was of a paralytic nature, the department said. The other was in Raleigh County.

West Virginia reported only six cases of the crippling disease for a similar period in 1958.

The number of influenza - like diseases also dipped sharply last week with only 84 reported compared to 156 the previous week. However, the total for the year is 26,130 compared to 8,530 for the corresponding period last year.

Winners Listed

LONACONING — Central School students in their presentation of the operetta "Space Saucer X-2000" for the Good Will Fire Company No. 1 building fund, netted $106.85.

This amount has been given to the Lonaconing Fire Company to help in their plans of building a new fire house on Main Street.

Compensation Set

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — The legislative Yuan (parliament) Tuesday passed the first Nationalist Chinese law providing compensation to persons falsely arrested or convicted.

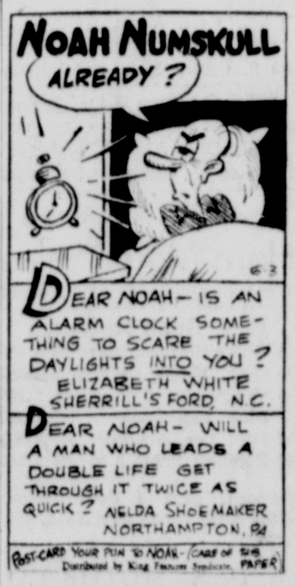

The bill had been before parliament for nearly eight years. It provides for compensation through court action in cases of wrongful arrest, detention or conviction.

Compensation also may be claimed by heirs of persons wrongly executed or who die while serving terms based on false conviction.

Pilgrimage Planned

LOURDES, France (UPI)— More than 30,000 servicemen from 11 countries, including the United States, will take part in a three-day military pilgraimage to this Roman Catholic shrine this weekend.

The soldiers will arrive in 29 special trains and several chartered planes. Participating will be troops from France, Germany, Belgium, Spain, Holland, Chile, Venezuela, Austria, Norway and Denmark as well as the United States.

State Building Sought By County

An effort is being made to attempt to have the new State Department of Motor Vehicles building erected in Allegany County.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has passed a motion to request the State Board of Public Works to consider a site in this county for the new building.

There has been some discussion about having the new building in Anne Arundel County, but the price of the land at $12,500 an acre is involved. The Allegany County board feels that a site here would remove the building from the congested Baltimore metropolitan area and at the same time provide a boost to the local economy.

Prices Tumble As Heavy Selling Hits Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Widespread selling, touched off by profit-taking in recently favored groups such as the electronics and chemicals, wiped out more than two billion dollars of stock market valuations.

The declines, despite some late recovery progress, brought individual losses ranging to 2 points or more in virtually all groups and gave the industrial average its sharpest loss since May 7. Thirty industrials declined 6.06 to 637.45; 20 rails declined 1.28 to 165.34; utilities 0.58 to 88.67 and Dow-Jones 65-stock general average 1.84 to 214.65. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 0.40 to 58.23.

Activity picked up on the decline but turnover of 3,120,000 shares, while 390,000 shares above Monday, was well below the 4,000,000-share days of recent weeks.

Brokers saw nothing in the news picture to cause the selling and emphasized the market had been pointing lower for some time with more issues declining than advancing in daily trading although investment purchasing of blue chips had sustained the averages.

Wall Street, in customary fashion, however, sought a reason for the drop and some pinned it on reported moves in Washington to lift the interest ceiling on long-term government bonds, now restricted to 4¼ per cent. Many of these issues, however, are selling in the open market at yields of better than 4¼ per cent and are attracting no heavy demand so this was seen as more of an excuse than a cause for Tuesday's move.

N.Y. Eggs And Butter

NEW YORK (AP) — (USDA) — Wholesale egg receipts moderate. Demand fair. Receipts 26,500.

Nearby Whites: Top quality (48-50 lbs) 30-33½; mediums 22¾-24½; smalls 16½-17½.

Browns: Top quality (48-50 lbs) 30-31½; mediums 25-26; smalls 19½-20½.

Butter receipts increased. Demand fair. Receipts 905,000. Prices unchanged.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were mixed today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was off ⅝ to up ¾; corn off ¼ to up ½; oats off ⅜ to up ½; new oats unchanged to off ⅜; rye up ¼ to ⅝; soybeans up ⅛ to ⅞.

Wheat firmed near the close, but 1960 contracts were weak. There was moderate hedge selling, but most activity was in the form of spreading between July and December. Commercial interests were on both sides of the market in a small way.

Corn was mixed. Nearby contracts were firm as an elevator house and cash house brokers bought July and September. Lake shipments totaled 554,000 bushels. Receipts were light, and the spot basis was firm. Export acceptances on subsidy bids were 240,000 bushels.

Oats firmed and then steadied near the close. Old July had a fair demand with little offerings. Export acceptances totaled 245,000 bushels.

Rye and soybeans were also firm. Beans rallied from early lows in a generally quiet trade. A broker bought December rye and offered July.

Oils and lard were higher, but meal was easier.

According to export reports, India and the United Kingdom bought wheat, Austria bought corn and Israel purchased a cargo of soybeans.

Outside markets were mixed. The range:

Prices Tumble As Heavy Selling Hits Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Widespread selling, touched off by profit-taking in recently favored groups such as the electronics and chemicals, wiped out more than two billion dollars of stock market valuations.

The declines, despite some late recovery progress, brought individual losses ranging to 2 points or more in virtually all groups and gave the industrial average its sharpest loss since May 7. Thirty industrials declined 6.06 to 637.45; 20 rails declined 1.28 to 165.34; utilities 0.58 to 88.67 and Dow-Jones 65-stock general average 1.84 to 214.65. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 0.40 to 58.23.

Activity picked up on the decline but turnover of 3,120,000 shares, while 390,000 shares above Monday, was well below the 4,000,000-share days of recent weeks.

Brokers saw nothing in the news picture to cause the selling and emphasized the market had been pointing lower for some time with more issues declining than advancing in daily trading although investment purchasing of blue chips had sustained the averages.

Wall Street, in customary fashion, however, sought a reason for the drop and some pinned it on reported moves in Washington to lift the interest ceiling on long-term government bonds, now restricted to 4¼ per cent. Many of these issues, however, are selling in the open market at yields of better than 4¼ per cent and are attracting no heavy demand so this was seen as more of an excuse than a cause for Tuesday's move.

N.Y. Eggs And Butter

NEW YORK (AP) — (USDA) — Wholesale egg receipts moderate. Demand fair. Receipts 26,500.

Nearby Whites: Top quality (48-50 lbs) 30-33½; mediums 22¾-24½; smalls 16½-17½.

Browns: Top quality (48-50 lbs) 30-31½; mediums 25-26; smalls 19½-20½.

Butter receipts increased. Demand fair. Receipts 905,000. Prices unchanged.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were mixed today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was off ⅝ to up ¾; corn off ¼ to up ½; oats off ⅜ to up ½; new oats unchanged to off ¾; rye up ¼ to ⅝; soybeans up ⅛ to ⅞.

Wheat firmed near the close, but 1960 contracts were weak. There was moderate hedge selling, but most activity was in the form of spreading between July and December. Commercial interests were on both sides of the market in a small way.

Corn was mixed. Nearby contracts were firm as an elevator house and cash house brokers bought July and September. Lake shipments totaled 554,000 bushels. Receipts were light, and the spot basis was firm. Export acceptances on subsidy bids were 240,000 bushels.

Oats firmed and then steadied near the close. Old July had a fair demand with little offerings. Export acceptances totaled 245,000 bushels.

Rye and soybeans were also firm. Beans rallied from early lows in a generally quiet trade. A broker bought December rye and offered July.

Oils and lard were higher, but meal was easier.

According to export reports, India and the United Kingdom bought wheat. Austria bought corn and Israel purchased a cargo of soybeans.

Outside markets were mixed. The range:

Action Delayed On Canal Bill By Committee

Lack Of Quorum Prevents Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lack of a quorum Tuesday delayed House subcommittee action on a bill to create a Chesapeake and Ohio Canal National Historical Park.

A House Interior Subcommittee had been called to vote on the bill. But after an hour without a quorum the group turned to other matters for which no quorum was necessary.

Rep. Gracie Pfost (D-Idaho), subcommittee chairman, said later she is sure the park legislation will be scheduled for a vote June 11.

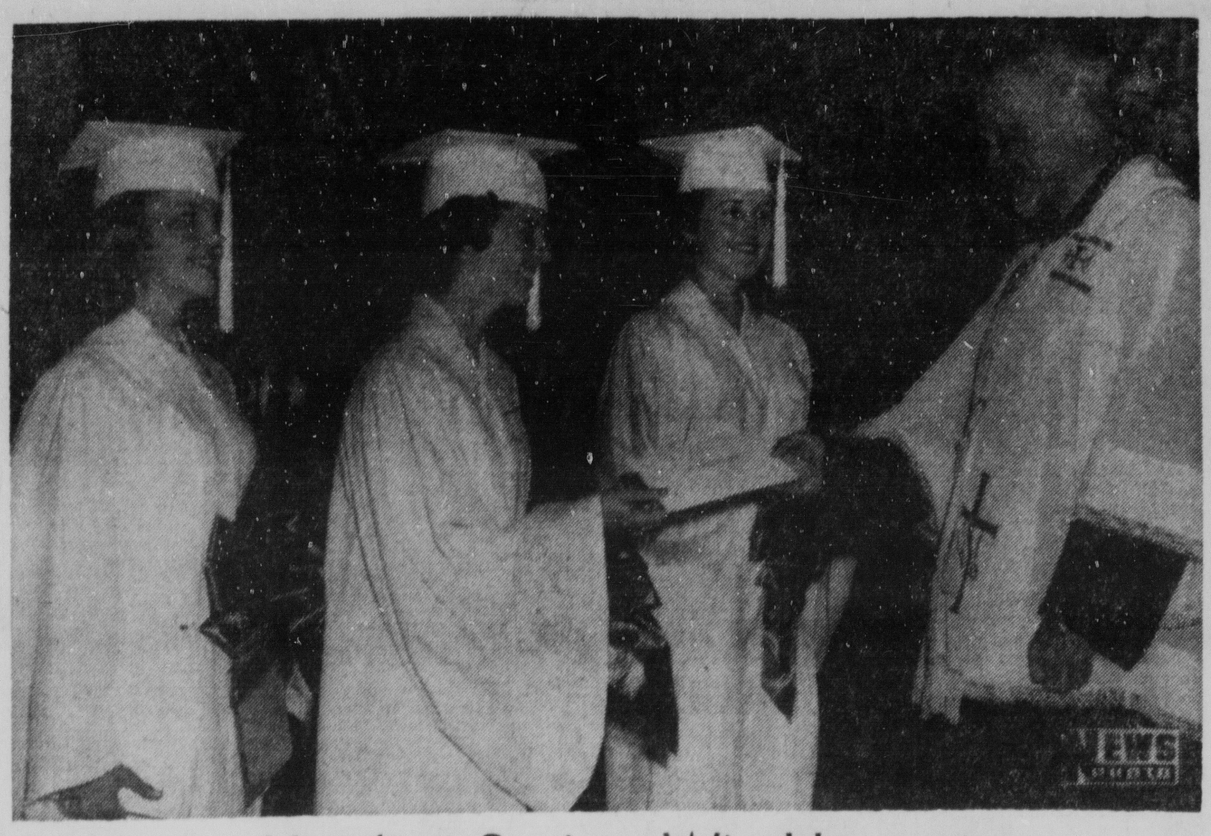

"I'm sure it will be the first order of business at the next meeting," she said.

Eight members of the subcommittee, one short of a quorum, were on hand at one time Tuesday.

The legislation, which ran into considerable controversy during hearings, would set up a park along the historic canal between Washington and Cumberland.

Controversy has centered on proposals to reserve for a possible dam and reservoir an area in the Potomac River basin between River Bend, above Great Falls, to a point near Brunswick, Md. A reservoir there would flood some 35 miles of the canal area.

Conservationists and others have contended no such reservation is needed in the legislation. Others have contended the reservation is necessary in looking ahead to Washington's future water needs.

Ursuline Seniors Win Honors

Rita Dressman Tops Her Class At Ursuline

32 Senior Girls Get Diplomas

Thirty-two Ursuline Academy seniors received their diplomas last night in commencement exercises in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church.

Rev. John Moore, M.M., assistant pastor at Transfiguration Church in New York City, delivered the sermon. Rev. David Dressman, OFM Cap., pastor at St. Joseph Church in Dover, Ohio, conferred diplomas upon the 32 graduates and presented awards.

Father Dressman's niece, Rita Dressman, was the top honor student in the graduating class and received four awards. These were for the highest average over four years, the Ursuline Auxiliary award in religion, in Spanish and in science.

Fay Moore, niece of Father Moore, received a special diploma in recognition of having completed the high school course in piano as prescribed by the institution.

Celeste Madden received an award for second highest scholastic average and the Ursuline Auxiliary award in English. Cynthia Parsons won the Ursuline Auxiliary award in business. Irene Drumm received the Catholic Daughters of America award for effort and application. Kathleen Neely was the winner of the faculty award in dramatics. Judith Firlie was the recipient of the Ursuline Alumnae award for general Ursuline school spirit and interest.

Five members of the class received scholarships. Celeste Madden and Carolyn Mason won four-year scholarships to Mt. St. Agnes College in Baltimore. Margaret Aaron received an honor grant for four years to Seton Hill College in Greensburg, Pa. Mary Louise Kelley obtained a one-year scholarship sponsored by Algonquin Chapter of the National Secretaries' Association to Catherman's Business School in Cumberland. Judith Reinhart was the recipient of a four-year scholarship to Western Maryland College in Westminster.

EMERSON H. MILLER

Miller Receives Music Degree At Shenandoah

Emerson Harris Miller, 1954 graduate of Allegany High School, received a bachelor of music education degree Sunday during the 84th annual commencement exercises of Shenandoah Conservatory of Music at Shenandoah College, Dayton, Va.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Miller of 217 Valley Street.

While in high school, Miller was a member of the senior band and orchestra and was also a member of the Cumberland Municipal Band and the Community Orchestra.

He is married to the former Miss Elaine Doris Carpenter of Shelby, N. C., who graduated from the conservatory last year. The couple has a one-year-old son, Philip G. Miller.

W. V. Martin Hospitalized After Crash

Former Mayor Eves Escapes Injury

Walter Vincent Martin, 509 Riehl Avenue, was injured yesterday shortly after 5 p. m., in a two-car collision at Valley and North Mechanic streets.

Escaping injury in the accident was former Cumberland mayor Roy W. Eves, who was operating one of the vehicles.

Officers W. E. Shank and Clarence Valentine investigated the accident which occurred about 5:05 p. m.

They said Mr. Martin, employed as night foreman of the composing room at the Times and Alleganian Company, was traveling south on North Mechanic Street. His car collided with Mr. Eves' automobile which was headed west on Valley Street across the intersection.

Witnesses told police Mr. Eves stopped his car at the blind intersection and then started up again as Mr. Martin passed. The front of the Eves automobile collided with the left rear of Mr. Martin's car, which then went out of control.

The Martin car jumped the sidewalk and struck a utility pole, spinning around to hit a parked car belonging to John Shober, 447 North Mechanic Street, which was parked in front of the Shober house. Both cars were badly damaged. The Eves car was only slightly damaged.

Mr. Martin, taken to Sacred Heart Hospital where he was admitted, had abrasions of the right leg, right elbow and chest. He was held for observation and X-rays, attendants said, and his condition is reported "good."

Mr. Eves told police he stopped at the intersection but could not see the approaching cars on North Mechanic Street. As he started up again he saw Mr. Martin's car and halted, but the two cars hit in the intersection and the Martin car went out of control.

Mr. Martin said he lost control of his car after the two vehicles collided and it went into a spin on the wet street, caused by yesterday's day-long rain.

Police did not prefer charges pending completion of their investigation and the outcome of Mr. Martin's injuries.

Miss Morrissey Will Be Honored By Social Group

Miss Margaret Morrissey, who will retire this year after over 35 years of service as a public health nurse, will be honored at a dinner to be held Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at Minke's Cottage Inn.

The testimonial event will be sponsored by the Social Group, which includes the Allegany County Health Department, the Associated Charities and the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Up to 80 members of the group, county officials and friends and associates of Miss Morrissey will attend.

Miss Henrietta Lippold, executive secretary of the Crippled Children's League, will give the invocation and Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, executive assistant of the Health Department, will be toastmistress.

An entertainment skit will be presented by Mrs. Lois Jackson, Mrs. Helen Vogel, Mrs. Ella Everstine, Mrs. Helen Ruby, Miss Jeannette Bonig and Mrs. Rose Loible.

Commissioner John Tucker Mason will make a brief address.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, will present State of Maryland Merit System years of service awards to Miss Morrissey, Mrs. Lois Jackson, Mrs. Everstine, Miss Pauline Fisher and Miss Margaret Poole.

The Social Group will also present its own service awards to Miss Morrissey, 36 years; Miss Bonig, 33 years, and Mrs. Grahame, 20 years. Dr. van Strien will make the presentations.

Mrs. Betty Lou Lindner, Social Group president, will present a wedding gift to Mrs. Mary Jane Harden, who was married recently.

Group singing will be held at the end of the formal program.

The program is being planned by Alice Engle, Gaylord Brooks, Mary Rooney, Mary Jane Harden, Erma Robertson, Doris Messman, Helen Vogel, Joann Zembower, Lois Jackson and Patricia Malloy.

The program includes a memorial to W. Arnold Gunther, chief bacteriologist for the Allegany County Health Department for over 45 years, who died last December 16.

Dr. Cole To Lead Civic Orchestra Next Season

Dr. Ward N. Cole, who will make his second appearance tonight as conductor of the Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra, has accepted the conductorship of the orchestra for all of next season, according to Robert F. Tomsko, president of the orchestra.

Tonight's concert will be presented at the Maryland Theatre starting at 8:15 o'clock.

Dr. Cole, who is chairman of the music department of Frostburg State Teachers College, will leave soon with his wife for Seattle, Wash., his home town. While there he will attend the National Convention of the American Federation of Musicians from June 15-19. The Coles will return to Frostburg in the late summer.

Library Group Offers Four Scholarships

The Maryland Library Association is offering four scholarships available immediately, and the deadline for filing applications is June 5.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian at the Cumberland Free Public Library, has been notified that the scholarships include two Joseph Ruzicka scholarships at $500 each and two Deiches Fund scholarships of $1,500 each.

She said the recipients must agree to accept positions in public libraries following graduation.

The association also has a scholarship loan fund from which students may borrow up to $500 to be repaid without interest after employment begins.

The Association of School Librarians of Maryland has a scholarship of $250 immediately available. Recipients of any of the above scholarships or loans must attend a graduate library school accredited by the American Library Association. Inquiries may be addressed to Miss Mae Graham, 400 Cathedral Street, Baltimore 1.

The University of Maryland has grants-in-aid to assist students who attend the graduate library school at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

A deadline for filing these applications has not been set, but it was suggested that inquiries be made immediately. Fifteen grants are available for the school year 1959-60 and 10 grants are available for the 1959 summer session.

Applicants must be residents of Maryland and must meet admission requirements to the University of North Carolina. Grants cover out-of-state tuition costs plus the $100 special fee required at North Carolina.

Inquiries may be sent to Howard Rovelstadt, director of libraries, University of Maryland, College Park.

Mayor Keech Asked To Welcome Elks

Mayor J. Edwin Keech has been invited to make the official address of welcome at the opening of the Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia Elks Association convention here July 30-August 2.

He is scheduled to speak at the opening session July 30 at 8 p.m. in the ballroom of the Elks Home here.

The invitation was extended by Harry S. Tracy, chairman of the Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B.P.O. Elks, Convention committee.

Three Start New Dwellings

Building permits for three homes which will be built at a total cost of about $22,000 have been issued to Allegany County residents by the Assessing Department office at the Court House.

Stanley H. Bodkin, of McMullen Highway, was granted a permit to construct a 24 feet by 56 feet frame dwelling at a cost of about $10,000.

He said the home will have a concrete block foundation, composition shingle roof and a cellar.

Bernard Baker of RD 2, Flintstone, was issued a permit to build a one-story frame dwelling which will measure 40 feet by 24 feet, and will cost about $8,000.

The dwelling will have a concrete block foundation and composition shingle roof and a cellar.

Charles G. Crawford, of 813 Maryland Avenue, city, was granted a permit to construct a stone veneer dwelling with a stone foundation. He said the residence which will cost about $4,000 will have a composition roof but no cellar.

Man Gets One Year For Non-Support

Ronald N. Collins, about 24, of 507 South Street, yesterday was sentenced to one year in the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of non-support.

He was given a hearing before Juvenile Magistrate Louis Fatkin who sentenced the man for not supporting his wife and three minor children.

Hearing Set For Girl On Parole Count

Trial Also Slated In Gas Station Theft

A Baltimore area girl who received a five-year suspended sentence last fall for her part in the breaking and entering of a roadside snack bar will be given a hearing today in Circuit Court for violation of parole.

Florence Etta Edwards, of Ferndale, who was 16 at the time of the trial here in October, was returned here Friday by deputies of the sheriff's office and is being held in the County Jail.

She and another girl and two male companions were found guilty of breaking and entering Mason's Snack Bar last September and taking 29 silver dollars, some merchandise and a safe which contained $188.33.

Judge Morgan C. Harris placed both girls on strict probation and gave the two men five-year terms in the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

Authorities here received word recently that the girl had violated her parole terms while living in Baltimore and a bench warrant was secured here for her arrest.

Ellis Joseph Shifflett, 32, Bowman's Addition, also will be given a hearing this morning in Circuit Court on criminal information in the breaking and entering on a local service station in April.

Shifflett, who has been held in County Jail in default of $500 bond since April, petitioned for an immediate trial and the criminal information was filed Monday in Circuit Court by Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney.

City Police arrested Shifflett in connection with the theft of watch valued at $10 and a knife from Weslow's Gulf Station, corner of Market and North Mechanic streets.

Judge Harris will conduct both hearings this morning.

New Dog Licenses Now Are Available

New 1959-60 Allegany County dog licenses for the fiscal year starting July 1 are now available at the Court House, according to James G. Stevenson, clerk to the county commissioners.

The two dog wardens, Merwin R. Hast Jr. and Burza Hanlin, also are expected to have a supply of the new tags. They cost $1 for male dogs, $2 for female dogs and $1 for spayed females.

Skidmore Elected In Ridgeley

Council To Have One New Member

Mayor Charles H. Fryer of Ridgeley, who was unopposed yesterday in the town's biennial election, was re-elected to his third two-year term in office.

Archie Lough, town recorder, was also unopposed and was returned to office by the voters.

There will be a new face in the council which will take over July 1. Keith Skidmore, who received a total of 131 votes in both precincts, won over William D. Bittinger, incumbent who placed sixth in the council race with 85 votes.

Returned to office were Councilmen William C. Knieriem, who received 171 votes; A. Ted Dayton, 157 votes; Thomas P. Cowan, 150 votes; and Mrs. Elizabeth J. Tabler, 144 votes.

Unsuccessful candidates for council were Arthur Maiers, 97 votes; Robert Maiers, 55 votes, and John J. Dawson, 47 votes.

Mayor Fryer received a total of 188 and Mr. Lough received the highest vote, 192.

Poll clerks at precinct 14, City Building, were Mrs. Regina Collins, Mrs. Verna Skidmore, Mrs. Ruth Coffman, Mrs. Hilda Bobo and Mrs. Alice Brooks.

Clerks at Precinct 13, Ridgeley Elementary School, were Mrs. Evelyn Baker, Mrs. Mabel Ridgely, Mrs. Frances Davis, Mrs. Mary Agnes Lantz and Mrs. Jerry Baker.

Police Commissioner Knieriem, who led the ticket, is beginning his seventh consecutive term in council. He was first appointed to serve out a year of an unexpired term as councilman and has been elected seven consecutive times, for two-year terms each time.

The last three elections, Mr. Knieriem has led the entire ticket.

Three Local Guardsmen Study At Armor School

The rugged life of a tanker will soon be experienced by three local young men who are home on leave from the Armor School at Fort Knox, Ky.

They are among 18 members of Headquarters Company, First Medium Tank Battalion, 29th Infantry Division of the Maryland National Guard stationed in Cumberland, now getting training in Kentucky.

David Lee Garrett, of 1105 Bedford Street, George Myers, also of Bedford Street and Robert Roby, of South Cumberland, are due back Friday at Fort Knox for additional tank training.

Upon their return there they will rejoin the other guard members to become tank drivers, gunners, or radio men. Capt. Patsy Algieri, commander of Headquarters Company, said that when the young men complete the training they will return to Cumberland to become an important cog in the operations of the local unit.

The three men have completed nine weeks of basic training and will soon be taking specialized training under the guidance of regular Army instructors.

Some 14 more members of the local unit are scheduled to begin training at Fort Knox this month.

Locally the company is being advised in tank tactics by Capt. Charles Witt, who was assigned here as a regular Army advisor. He is also responsible for advising units in Frostburg, Oakland and Hagerstown.

There are openings in Headquarters Company for at least 18 high school graduates interested in learning the fundamentals of the medium tank.

Captain Algieri said the local men now undergoing training at Fort Knox are fulfilling their obligation with the Selective Service Board. Upon their return here they will continue to be members of the Guard and attend regular drill nights.

Minimum Pay Bill Studied By C Of C Unit

The legislative committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce is making a comprehensive study of the $1.25 minimum wage bill.

Pros and cons of the legislation as drafted in Senate Bill 1046 have been discussed by the committee headed by Harry I. Stegmaier.

The bill provides for a new federal minimum wage of $1.25 an hour and would put about seven million more workers, chiefly in retail and service establishments, under the law.

The committee has asked U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall to provide copies of the proposed legislation and invited him to express what he feels is good or bad about the bill.

Attending the meeting was J. Frank Melton, Atlanta, district manager of the U.S. Chamber, who briefed the members on the C of C Action Course in Practical Politics.

Scholarships Available

Four new scholarships are available to freshmen entering the University of Maryland College of Agriculture in September.

The scholarships will cover a period of four years and will provide for the payment of all college expenses dfuring the first year including fixed charges, fees, room and board. For the second year, they will provide for approximately 80 per cent of the costs.

In order to qualify for these scholarships, an applicant must have acquired a "B" average in the major subjects in the last two years of high school, be a resident of the State of Maryland, show evidence of financial need and plan to study dairying.

In making the announcement, Dr. Paul Poffenberger, chairman of the university's committee on scholarships and grants-in-aid, said that the donor of the scholarships wished to remain anonymous.

Qualified and deserving students should write to the scholarship and grants-in-aid committee at College Park for an application form.

Shives To Face Federal Auto Theft Charge

Harold Russell Shives, 30, of Chambersburg, Pa., a former Cumberland resident, faces a federal charge of transporting a stolen vehicle across a state line at Birmingham, Ala.

Shives, who escaped from the Franklin County Jail at Chambersburg on January 20, was arrested by Alabama Highway Police in April on a motor vehicle charge.

He has just completed a 30-day jail sentence on the Alabama charge and now faces the federal stolen auto count.

Sheriff James Coldsmith of Chambersburg said last night that Franklin County authorities have placed a detainer against Shives for prison break in his escape from the Chambersburg jail.

Shives was being held in the Franklin County Jail on the driving charge and faced possible burglary and larceny counts there also, Sheriff Coldsmith stated.

He escaped from the jail along with Frank Bordner, 29, of Harrisburg, Pa., who had been sentenced to four years in the state penitentiary for burglary in Franklin County.

The two men broke loose some iron pipes and used them to pry ceiling boards in a washroom loose to effect their escape. They fled in a late model car. Bordner was arrested several days later near Hancock and returned to Pennsylvania.

The sheriff said Shives apparently made his way to New Mexico after his escape and got a job with an automobile concern there. After working for a short time, he stole a new automobile and fled toward Alabama where he was picked up by authorities on the driving charge.

Alabama authorities later discovered the car was stolen and federal charges were placed against the former Cumberlander.

Sheriff Coldsmith said he will be notified on the disposition of the federal case, after which Shives will be returned to Pennsylvania to face the charges there.

Gunter Reported 'Slightly Improved'

Dave Gunter, 65-year-old restaurateur who was found unconscious in his trailer home at McHenry on Deep Creek Lake Monday, was reported "slightly improved" but still "critical" at Garrett County Memorial Hospital last night.

Hospital attendants said Mr. Gunter underwent surgery yesterday and has shown slight improvement since being admitted Monday morning.

His wife, Mrs. Marie Gunter, 47, is in "good" condition at the hospital, they said.

State Police are still investigating the incident in which Mr. Gunter allegedly struck his wife with a wooden mallet and then is believed to have cut his wrists and an ankle with a bread knife.

They will include Austin W. Howard, illustrious potentate; John Hose, assistant rabban, and Robert E. Stallings, recorder.

The one-day ceremonial will be held in the Lu Lu Mosque in Philadelphia.

Monument Bill Is Introduced By Sen. Beall

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall has introduced a bill providing for the erection of a monument here to honor George Washington.

The bill provides for the monument to be erected on the site of old Fort Cumberland, military training center for America's first President.

The history of Fort Cumberland, Senator Beall pointed out, is interwoven with the life history of Washington.

Among other things, he pointed out, it was while Washington was stationed at Fort Cumberland that he ran for his first elective office, a member of the Virginia House of Burgesses.

The Maryland State Roads Commission recently recognized the importance of Cumberland in the early life of Washington when it allowed the Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge to be called George Washington Crossing.

Members of the January grand jury were asked by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris to make recommendations toward the construction of a worthy memorial to George Washington on the Court House site, former parade ground of Fort Cumberland.

Voting Rolls Decrease Here

Voting registration rolls in the City of Cumberland decreased 9 during May for a new total of 11,636.

Seven new voters were registered. They included five white males and two white females.

Deaths erased the names of 16 voters from the rolls during the month.

Total registered voters at the end of May included 6,032 white males, 4,401 white females, 125 colored males and 78 colored females.

EMERSON H. MILLER

Miller Receives Music Degree At Shenandoah

Emerson Harris Miller, 1954 graduate of Allegany High School, received a bachelor of music education degree Sunday during the 84th annual commencement exercises of Shenandoah Conservatory of Music at Shenandoah College, Dayton, Va.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Miller of 217 Valley Street.

While in high school, Miller was a member of the senior band and orchestra and was also a member of the Cumberland Municipal Band and the Community Orchestra.

He is married to the former Miss Elaine Doris Carpenter of Shelby, N. C., who graduated from the conservatory last year. The couple has a one-year-old son, Philip G. Miller.

W. V. Martin Hospitalized After Crash

Former Mayor Eves Escapes Injury

Walter Vincent Martin, 509 Riehl Avenue, was injured yesterday shortly after 5 p. m., in a two-car collision at Valley and North Mechanic streets.

Escaping injury in the accident was former Cumberland mayor Roy W. Eves, who was operating one of the vehicles.

Officers W. E. Shank and Clarence Valentine investigated the accident which occurred about 5:05 p. m.

They said Mr. Martin, employed as night foreman of the composing room at the Times and Alleganian Company, was traveling south on North Mechanic Street. His car collided with Mr. Eves' automobile which was headed west on Valley Street across the intersection.

Witnesses told police Mr. Eves stopped his car at the blind intersection and then started up again as Mr. Martin passed. The front of the Eves automobile collided with the left rear of Mr. Martin's car, which then went out of control.

The Martin car jumped the sidewalk and struck a utility pole, spinning around to hit a parked car belonging to John Shober, 447 North Mechanic Street, which was parked in front of the Shober house. Both cars were badly damaged. The Eves car was only slightly damaged.

Mr. Martin, taken to Sacred Heart Hospital where he was admitted, had abrasions of the right leg, right elbow and chest. He was held for observation and X-rays, attendants said, and his condition is reported "good."

Mr. Eves told police he stopped at the intersection but could not see the approaching cars on North Mechanic Street. As he started up again he saw Mr. Martin's car and halted, but the two cars hit in the intersection and the Martin car went out of control.

Mr. Martin said he lost control of his car after the two vehicles collided and it went into a spin on the wet street, caused by yesterday's day-long rain.

Police did not prefer charges pending completion of their investigation and the outcome of Mr. Martin's injuries.

Miss Morrissey Will Be Honored By Social Group

Miss Margaret Morrissey, who will retire this year after over 35 years of service as a public health nurse, will be honored at a dinner to be held Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at Minke's Cottage Inn.

The testimonial event will be sponsored by the Social Group, which includes the Allegany County Health Department, the Associated Charities and the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Up to 80 members of the group, county officials and friends and associates of Miss Morrissey will attend.

Miss Henrietta Lippold, executive secretary of the Crippled Children's League, will give the invocation and Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, executive assistant of the Health Department, will be toastmistress.

An entertainment skit will be presented by Mrs. Lois Jackson, Mrs. Helen Vogel, Mrs. Ella Everstine, Mrs. Helen Ruby, Miss Jeannette Bonig and Mrs. Rose Loible.

Commissioner John Tucker Mason will make a brief address.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, will present State of Maryland Merit System years of service awards to Miss Morrissey, Mrs. Lois Jackson, Mrs. Everstine, Miss Pauline Fisher and Miss Margaret Poole.

The Social Group will also present its own service awards to Miss Morrissey, 36 years; Miss Bonig, 33 years, and Mrs. Grahame, 20 years. Dr. van Strien will make the presentations.

Mrs. Betty Lou Lindner, Social Group president, will present a wedding gift to Mrs. Mary Jane Harden, who was married recently.

Group singing will be held at the end of the formal program.

The program is being planned by Alice Engle, Gaylord Brooks, Mary Rooney, Mary Jane Harden, Erma Robertson, Doris Messman, Helen Vogel, Joann Zembower, Lois Jackson and Patricia Malloy.

The program includes a memorial to W. Arnold Gunther, chief bacteriologist for the Allegany County Health Department for over 45 years, who died last December 16.

Hearing Set For Girl On Parole Count

Trial Also Slated In Gas Station Theft

A Baltimore area girl who received a five-year suspended sentence last fall for her part in the breaking and entering of a roadside snack bar will be given a hearing today in Circuit Court for violation of parole.

Florence Etta Edwards, of Ferndale, who was 16 at the time of the trial here in October, was returned here Friday by deputies of the sheriff's office and is being held in the County Jail.

She and another girl and two male companions were found guilty of breaking and entering Mason's Snack Bar last September and taking 29 silver dollars, some merchandise and a safe which contained $188.33.

Judge Morgan C. Harris placed both girls on strict probation and gave the two men five-year terms in the Maryland Reformatory for Males.

Authorities here received word recently that the girl had violated her parole terms while living in Baltimore and a bench warrant was secured here for her arrest.

Ellis Joseph Shifflett, 32, Bowman's Addition, also will be given a hearing this morning in Circuit Court on criminal information in the breaking and entering on a local service station in April.

Shifflett, who has been held in County Jail in default of $500 bond since April, petitioned for an immediate trial and the criminal information was filed Monday in Circuit Court by Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney.

City Police arrested Shifflett in connection with the theft of watch valued at $10 and a knife from Weslow's Gulf Station, corner of Market and North Mechanic streets.

Judge Harris will conduct both hearings this morning.

Skidmore Elected In Ridgeley

Council To Have One New Member

Mayor Charles H. Fryer of Ridgeley, who was unopposed yesterday in the town's biennial election, was re-elected to his third two-year term in office.

Archie Lough, town recorder, was also unopposed and was returned to office by the voters.

There will be a new face in the council which will take over July 1. Keith Skidmore, who received a total of 131 votes in both precincts, won over William D. Bittinger, incumbent who placed sixth in the council race with 85 votes.

Returned to office were Councilmen William C. Knieriem, who received 171 votes; A. Ted Dayton, 157 votes; Thomas P. Cowan, 150 votes; and Mrs. Elizabeth J. Tabler, 144 votes.

Unsuccessful candidates for council were Arthur Maiers, 97 votes; Robert Maiers, 55 votes, and John J. Dawson, 47 votes.

Mayor Fryer received a total of 188 and Mr. Lough received the highest vote, 192.

Poll clerks at precinct 14, City Building, were Mrs. Regina Collins, Mrs. Verna Skidmore, Mrs. Ruth Coffman, Mrs. Hilda Bobo and Mrs. Alice Brooks.

Clerks at Precinct 13, Ridgeley Elementary School, were Mrs. Evelyn Baker, Mrs. Mabel Ridgely, Mrs. Frances Davis, Mrs. Mary Agnes Lantz and Mrs. Jerry Baker.

Police Commissioner Knieriem, who led the ticket, is beginning his seventh consecutive term in council. He was first appointed to serve out a year of an unexpired term as councilman and has been elected seven consecutive times, for two-year terms each time.

The last three elections, Mr. Knieriem has led the entire ticket.

Shives To Face Federal Auto Theft Charge

Harold Russell Shives, 30, of Chambersburg, Pa., a former Cumberland resident, faces a federal charge of transporting a stolen vehicle across a state line at Birmingham, Ala.

Shives, who escaped from the Franklin County Jail at Chambersburg on January 20, was arrested by Alabama Highway Police in April on a motor vehicle charge.

He has just completed a 30-day jail sentence on the Alabama charge and now faces the federal stolen auto count.

Sheriff James Coldsmith of Chambersburg said last night that Franklin County authorities have placed a detainer against Shives for prison break in his escape from the Chambersburg jail.

Shives was being held in the Franklin County Jail on the driving charge and faced possible burglary and larceny counts there also, Sheriff Coldsmith stated.

He escaped from the jail along with Frank Bordner, 29, of Harrisburg, Pa., who had been sentenced to four years in the state penitentiary for burglary in Franklin County.

The two men broke loose some iron pipes and used them to pry ceiling boards in a washroom loose to effect their escape. They fled in a late model car. Bordner was arrested several days later near Hancock and returned to Pennsylvania.

The sheriff said Shives apparently made his way to New Mexico after his escape and got a job with an automobile concern there. After working for a short time, he stole a new automobile and fled toward Alabama where he was picked up by authorities on the driving charge.

Alabama authorities later discovered the car was stolen and federal charges were placed against the former Cumberlander.

Sheriff Coldsmith said he will be notified on the disposition of the federal case, after which Shives will be returned to Pennsylvania to face the charges there.

Tonight's concert will be presented at the Maryland Theatre starting at 8:15 o'clock.

Dr. Cole, who is chairman of the music department of Frostburg State Teachers College, will leave soon with his wife for Seattle, Wash., his home town. While there he will attend the National Convention of the American Federation of Musicians from June 15-19. The Coles will return to Frostburg in the late summer.

Library Group Offers Four Scholarships

The Maryland Library Association is offering four scholarships available immediately, and the deadline for filing applications is June 5.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian at the Cumberland Free Public Library, has been notified that the scholarships include two Joseph Ruzicka scholarships at $500 each and two Deiches Fund scholarships of $1,500 each.

She said the recipients must agree to accept positions in public libraries following graduation.

The association also has a scholarship loan fund from which students may borrow up to $500 to be repaid without interest after employment begins.

The Association of School Librarians of Maryland has a scholarship of $250 immediately available. Recipients of any of the above scholarships or loans must attend a graduate library school accredited by the American Library Association. Inquiries may be addressed to Miss Mae Graham, 400 Cathedral Street, Baltimore 1.

The University of Maryland has grants-in-aid to assist students who attend the graduate library school at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

A deadline for filing these applications has not been set, but it was suggested that inquiries be made immediately. Fifteen grants are available for the school year 1959-60 and 10 grants are available for the 1959 summer session.

Applicants must be residents of Maryland and must meet admission requirements to the University of North Carolina. Grants cover out-of-state tuition costs plus the $100 special fee required at North Carolina.

Inquiries may be sent to Howard Rovelstadt, director of libraries, University of Maryland, College Park.

Mayor Keech Asked To Welcome Elks

Mayor J. Edwin Keech has been invited to make the official address of welcome at the opening of the Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia Elks Association convention here July 30-August 2.

He is scheduled to speak at the opening session July 30 at 8 p.m. in the ballroom of the Elks Home here.

The invitation was extended by Harry S. Tracy, chairman of the Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B.P.O. Elks, Convention committee.

Three Start New Dwellings

Building permits for three homes which will be built at a total cost of about $22,000 have been issued to Allegany County residents by the Assessing Department office at the Court House.

Stanley H. Bodkin, of McMullen Highway, was granted a permit to construct a 24 feet by 56 feet frame dwelling at a cost of about $10,000.

He said the home will have a concrete block foundation, composition shingle roof and a cellar.

Bernard Baker of RD 2, Flintstone, was issued a permit to build a one-story frame dwelling which will measure 40 feet by 24 feet, and will cost about $8,000.

The dwelling will have a concrete block foundation and composition shingle roof and a cellar.

Charles G. Crawford, of 813 Maryland Avenue, city, was granted a permit to construct a stone veneer dwelling with a stone foundation. He said the residence which will cost about $4,000 will have a composition roof but no cellar.

Ronald N. Collins, about 24, of 507 South Street, yesterday was sentenced to one year in the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of non-support.

He was given a hearing before Juvenile Magistrate Louis Fatkin who sentenced the man for not supporting his wife and three minor children.

New Dog Licenses Now Are Available

New 1959-60 Allegany County dog licenses for the fiscal year starting July 1 are now available at the Court House, according to James G. Stevenson, clerk to the county commissioners.

The two dog wardens, Merwin R. Hast Jr. and Burza Hanlin, also are expected to have a supply of the new tags. They cost $1 for male dogs, $2 for female dogs and $1 for spayed females.

Three Local Guardsmen Study At Armor School

The rugged life of a tanker will soon be experienced by three local young men who are home on leave from the Armor School at Fort Knox, Ky.

They are among 18 members of Headquarters Company, First Medium Tank Battalion, 29th Infantry Division of the Maryland National Guard stationed in Cumberland, now getting training in Kentucky.

David Lee Garrett, of 1105 Bedford Street, George Myers, also of Bedford Street and Robert Roby, of South Cumberland, are due back Friday at Fort Knox for additional tank training.

Upon their return there they will rejoin the other guard members to become tank drivers, gunners, or radio men. Capt. Patsy Algieri, commander of Headquarters Company, said that when the young men complete the training they will return to Cumberland to become an important cog in the operations of the local unit.

The three men have completed nine weeks of basic training and will soon be taking specialized training under the guidance of regular Army instructors.

Some 14 more members of the local unit are scheduled to begin training at Fort Knox this month.

Locally the company is being advised in tank tactics by Capt. Charles Witt, who was assigned here as a regular Army advisor. He is also responsible for advising units in Frostburg, Oakland and Hagerstown.

There are openings in Headquarters Company for at least 18 high school graduates interested in learning the fundamentals of the medium tank.

Captain Algieri said the local men now undergoing training at Fort Knox are fulfilling their obligation with the Selective Service Board. Upon their return here they will continue to be members of the Guard and attend regular drill nights.

Minimum Pay Bill Studied By C Of C Unit

The legislative committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce is making a comprehensive study of the $1.25 minimum wage bill.

Pros and cons of the legislation as drafted in Senate Bill 1046 have been discussed by the committee headed by Harry I. Stegmaier.

The bill provides for a new federal minimum wage of $1.25 an hour and would put about seven million more workers, chiefly in retail and service establishments, under the law.

The committee has asked U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall to provide copies of the proposed legislation and invited him to express what he feels is good or bad about the bill.

Attending the meeting was J. Frank Melton, Atlanta, district manager of the U.S. Chamber, who briefed the members on the C of C Action Course in Practical Politics.

Scholarships Available

Four new scholarships are available to freshmen entering the University of Maryland College of Agriculture in September.

The scholarships will cover a period of four years and will provide for the payment of all college expenses during the first year including fixed charges, fees, room and board. For the second year, they will provide for approximately 80 per cent of the costs.

In order to qualify for these scholarships, an applicant must have acquired a "B" average in the major subjects in the last two years of high school, be a resident of the State of Maryland, show evidence of financial need and plan to study dairying.

In making the announcement, Dr. Paul Poffenberger, chairman of the university's committee on scholarships and grants-in-aid, said that the donor of the scholarships wished to remain anonymous.

Qualified and deserving students should write to the scholarship and grants-in-aid committee at College Park for an application form.

Gunter Reported 'Slightly Improved'

Dave Gunter, 65-year-old restaurateur who was found unconscious in his trailer home at McHenry on Deep Creek Lake Monday, was reported "slightly improved" but still "critical" at Garrett County Memorial Hospital last night.

Hospital attendants said Mr. Gunter underwent surgery yesterday and has shown slight improvement since being admitted Monday morning.

His wife, Mrs. Marie Gunter, 47, is in "good" condition at the hospital, they said.

State Police are still investigating the incident in which Mr. Gunter allegedly struck his wife with a wooden mallet and then is believed to have cut his wrists and an ankle with a bread knife.

The one-day ceremonial will be held in the Lu Lu Mosque in Philadelphia.

Monument Bill Is Introduced By Sen. Beall

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall has introduced a bill providing for the erection of a monument here to honor George Washington.

The bill provides for the monument to be erected on the site of old Fort Cumberland, military training center for America's first President.

The history of Fort Cumberland, Senator Beall pointed out, is interwoven with the life history of Washington.

Among other things, he pointed out, it was while Washington was stationed at Fort Cumberland that he ran for his first elective office, a member of the Virginia House of Burgesses.

The Maryland State Roads Commission recently recognized the importance of Cumberland in the early life of Washington when it allowed the Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge to be called George Washington Crossing.

Members of the January grand jury were asked by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris to make recommendations toward the construction of a worthy memorial to George Washington on the Court House site, former parade ground of Fort Cumberland.
